Stocks Up. Beer Sure—
Wine Maybe.
Woman's Patriotism.
Wise Construction Plan.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE STOCK Exchange reopened yesterday with a bang, some stocks up fourteen dollars a share, nearly all lifting their little heads toward the sky. It is encouraging, but don't forget warnings or your own good resolutions about gambling.

THE SENATE committee approves the beer bill and adds wine to beer. That is wise, assuming that it will not interfere with beer's return by raising some constitutional question.

Light wine is much stronger than beer, but less of it is drunk, and all but the foolish drink it greatly diluted, making the alcoholic content small. Light wines for centuries have been the drink, and an important part of the diet, of PERFECTLY SOBER European nations.

Thomas Jefferson imported his wines from France, and strongly recommended their use, as he did the use of light beer.

YOU-KNOW SPRING is coming "when daffodils begin to peer," and little violets struggle up through the snow.

You know that BEER is coming when beer advertisements saying, "We are ready," appear in newspapers.

Some that complain of the proposed beer's low alcoholic content, 3.2, are reminded that such beer will be fully as strong as the late old-fashioned Pilsner, Pabst, Schlitz and other popular brands that were highly satisfactory.

WHAT IS the matter with young Britishers? Following the bad example of the Oxford Union and the University of Manchester, students of the Glasgow University, by a vote of 634 to 568, decided NOT to fight for Britain or King George.

In Glasgow, girl students were not allowed to vote, otherwise the decision might have been different. Women are more patriotic than men.

ONE BRITISH girl, oldest daughter of Queen Victoria, the princess royal of England, married the son of the German Emperor William the First, who was at the time German crown prince. She lived in Germany 40 years, outlived him, was the mother of the former German Emperor William the Second.

Just before she died a painful death of cancer, she told her son, then Kaiser, that she desired to be placed in her coffin, "her body clothed only in a British flag, and buried in English soil."

She did not want to wear German clothes in her coffin, apparently. Her son, the Kaiser, who thought this would be resented in Germany, buried her, in spite of her request, beside her husband, his father. See the first volume of Prince von Bulow's memoirs.

UNIVERSAL SERVICE gives you this important news. President Roosevelt intends to make part of his "program for public works construction" the most important public works, namely, machinery to protect the United States. The program will include "BUILDING UP THE NAVAL AIR SERVICE" and the United States Navy, which has been drifting to decay.

Work on airships and submarines that the country needs, with fast cruisers of the "pocket battleship" type, interests the President because national defense comes before anything else, and because in such construction 85 per cent of all funds spent goes directly to labor.

MR. HITLER, Germany's new dictator, has a poor opinion of Jews and believes that Germany does not need them.

News from Warsaw indicates that Mr. Hitler may change his mind, when Jews throughout the world decide not to buy German goods or German bonds.

There is great power in a boycott, and Mr. Hitler would quickly discover it, if Jewish business men throughout the world should treat his industries and products as the Chinese treat Japan.

Capt. Charles Cunningham Boycott, Irish land agent of the Earl of Erne, for whom the boycott is named, realized its power. He required 900 British soldiers to protect Ulster Orangemen that finally got in his crops.

CARNERA, Italian prize fighter, usually called "the man mountain," because of his size, is in an Italian hospital recovering from various cuts in the head. He narrowly escaped death when his racing automobile blew out two tires and turned upside down. Speed enthusiasts might remember that when driving at speed dangerous to themselves and others.

Sixty miles an hour or more, plus a blow-out, always involves death as a possibility.

THIS FISH story you will believe, therefore it is printed.

At Fort Myers, Fla., Dean Mitchel, fishing with his wife, with hook and line, caught a tarpon six inches long, weighing one ounce, smallest on record.

In spite of its size it fought for freedom, jumping out of the water six times as it was dragged to its doom.

BEER SALES PREDICTED IN APRIL

Senate Opens Debate With Vote Due By Nightfall

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Beer and wine by April 3.

That was the goal of Senate leaders today as they sped toward passage by nightfall the Cullen 3.2 per cent beer bill.

The amendment adding wine of the same alcoholic content was adopted soon after the measure came before the Senate this afternoon.

Senate wets set April 3 as their goal for the actual distribution of beer in states where its sale is not prohibited by state laws. The bill would legalize the sale of beer 15 days after enactment.

SPEEDED BY T. R.

President Roosevelt's 72-word special message stressing the need for prompt passage of the bill to help balance the budget served to strengthen the determination of the Senate for quick action.

Despite a protest from California wine growers that 3.2 wine would not meet the needs of their industry, the Senate approved without debate the first committee amendment broadening the language to include wine. No record vote was taken on this amendment.

Prompt passage of the bill was urged by Senator Harrison (Dem.), of Mississippi, as a means of raising $125,000,000 annually in federal revenue. Harrison declared:

"I am very hopeful we can pass this bill today."

Senator Sheppard (Dem.), of Texas, co-author of the Eighteenth Amendment, scored the bill as "a tribute to the brewers." Citing the large profits which he declared the brewers would make in comparison to the beer tax, Sheppard exclaimed:

DENIES JOB AID

Denying that beer would lead to a big increase in employment, the Senator asserted "for every employe hired in the brewing business, another employe will be discharged from some essential industry."

Sheppard denounced the bill as "absolute nullification," as a "ghastly tragedy" and a "repudiation of the Constitution."

The Texas Senator quoted Billy Sunday's statement:

"A powder mill in hell would be as easy to control as the licensed liquor traffic."

The average alcoholic content of pre-prohibition beer was only 3.5 per cent by weight, Sheppard asserted.

Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, declared "the old saloon was the most hideous institution with which society ever had to deal." He quoted campaign utterances of President Roosevelt against return of the saloon, adding that the beer bill would "put the camel's nose under the tent." Admitting that the 1932 general election was the mandate to legalize non-intoxicating beer, Borah explained:

"If it can be shown this bill deals with a non-intoxicating beverage I would not for a moment oppose it."

Then he charged that 3.2 beer was in fact intoxicating.

Borah criticized the failure of the bill's proponents to include provisions against the beer saloon and against sale of beer to minors.

He paid a tribute to President Roosevelt's "sincere desire to promote temperance." The Senator added:

"There is only a difference as to method involved."

Wheeling Teller Gets Five Years

WHEELING, W. Va., March 16.—Karl J. Brandau, former teller at the Wheeling Bank and Trust Company, was sentenced to five years in the state prison today. He pleaded guilty to a charge of embezzling $1,000. Seven other indictments, charging embezzlement of $20,000 were dropped.

Europe Set To Combat War Fear

Associated Press.

Talk of war and of armament races stirred various European capitals today while the heads of chief nations were getting together to try to avert threatening clashes.

Isolated instances, which a few months ago might have passed almost unnoticed, aroused fear and suspicion.

At Geneva, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, presenting a new plan for peace and security to the world disarmament conference today, proposed an army of 200,000 men for Germany, doubling the maximum limit set by the Treaty of Versailles.

Premier MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Simon, of England, will talk Saturday in Rome with Premier Mussolini in the Duce's first international conference in eight years.

DALADIER AT GENEVA

Premier Daladier, of France, hastened to Geneva last night to see the British statesmen again after parleys with them last week-end. His decision came suddenly after the announcement they were going to Rome.

Unconfirmed reports in Rome said Adolf Hitler, of Germany, may join the Mussolini-MacDonald conference. Attempts to confirm this in Berlin brought the

PENNA. TO BAN BEER 'GROWLER'

HARRISBURG, March 15.—(AP.)—Thirsty Pennsylvanians won't be able to "rush the growler" at the grocery store if the House liquor commission has its way.

The commission is to lay a bill before the Legislature Monday night to bar the grocer from selling beer, though the foamy beverage be legalized by Congress.

The measure is to limit the sale of beer to hotels, restaurants, department stores with restaurants, and wholesale dealers. Sale by the retail and wholesale groups is to be limited to six bottles per person at a time.

A license fee of $1,000 for brewers, in addition to a production tax of $1 a barrel, is to be included in the bill.

In Philadelphia and Allegheny county the license fee for wholesale distributors is to be $500, in third and fourth class counties, $400, and in all other counties, $500. License fees for retail dealers are to be on a graduated basis of population, ranging from $300 to $75.

Walter's Concert Banned in Leipzig

LEIPZIG, Germany, March 16.—(INS.)—The first symphony concert to be conducted by Bruno Walter since his recent triumphal visit to the United States was prohibited by Leipzig authorities today because of "fear of disorders" by anti-Semitic Nazis and Nationalists.

Walter, Germany's outstanding present-day symphonic conductor, was to make his appearance before a distinguished gathering at the Leipzig Gewandhaus tonight.

FIND BANKER GUILTY OF FRAUD

President of Ligonier Concern Faces 45 Year Term

George Clifford Frank, 56, bankrupt former president of the Ligonier National Bank, was found guilty on nine counts of embezzlement, involving $65,000 of the bank's funds, in a sealed verdict read in Federal Court today.

He was acquitted on eight counts of embezzlement, involving $53,000 and one charge of misapplication of $13,000.

Chewing gum, as he had done constantly throughout the two weeks' trial, and without show of emotion, the former banker heard the verdict as he stood beside his son in the courtroom.

The maximum penalty on each count is five years' imprisonment and a $10,000 fine or both, making a prison term of 45 years possible.

Frank's counsel, Howard Whitehead and Charles Crowell, immediately filed a motion for a new trial. Judge Nelson McVicar set the third week of April for a hearing.

The jury reached its verdict at 1:30 a. m. today after having deliberated since 11 a. m. yesterday. First Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh conducted the prosecution.

In the course of the hard-fought trial, the defense attempted to bar testimony pertaining to securities taken from the bank vaults on the ground they belonged to individuals and not the bank as set forth in the indictment.

TESTIMONY ADMITTED

After suspending testimony dealing with embezzlement counts for two days, the court ruled such testimony permissible.

On the stand Frank denied knowing anything of the disappearance of securities between May 8, 1930, and April 1, 1932. Last April $50,000 negotiable bonds were reported stolen from the vault while the board of directors was in session. The loss was covered by insurance.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed against Frank by his creditors last September, alleging his liabilities totaled $500,000. Fred D. Humphrey, of Greensburg, was named receiver.

Insull Extradition Hearing Delayed

Twin Nurses Parted by Death

MISS DOROTHY WOODMANSEE MISS FRANCES WOODMANSEE

NURSES, TWINS, PART IN DEATH

Graduated as nurses from the South Side Hospital, the sisters had fought the ravages of sickness side by side for five years, only to lose the battle when meningitis overtook Dorothy last night. Frances was in a state of collapse today at her home, 615 North Euclid avenue.

Born in Rimersburg, Clarion County, the sisters were constantly together. They entered training at the South Side Hospital together in 1928. They graduated in the same class in 1931, and continued in private practice.

When they took a case, they took it together. One of the twins would work days and the other nights.

Two weeks ago Dorothy was stricken. Last Sunday she took a turn for the worse and was taken to South Side Hospital, where she died.

Busch Kin Seized In Tax Evasion

BERLIN, March 16.—(AP.)—Paul Von Gontard, 68, wealthy retired industrial banker, whose wife is the former Clara Busch, daughter of Adolphus Busch, of St. Louis, was arrested yesterday on a charge of tax evasion and failure to declare funds at Dutch and Swiss banks.

Henry Sees 'Ride' for Pinchot

John M. Henry, deposed registration commissioner, told Gov. Gifford Pinchot, who demanded his resignation, that the Governor is being "taken for a ride by Pittsburgh's Three Musketeers."

Henry returned his commission to the Governor with a letter in which he charged the Coyne organization in Pittsburgh disapproved of his presence on the commission. His letter said:

"James J. Coyne, David L. Lawrence and Joseph F. Guffey are three musketeers engaged in a quest for political plunder. Shoulder to shoulder they fought in the election of 1931; hand in hand they stood around and watched the unusual election which took place in the Coyne Senatorial district in 1932. They are leagued together in the coming mayoralty election.

"Dear Governor, I am truly sorry that you have been taken for a ride by these musketeers. If the sagarious old Talleyrand could be summoned from the spirit world for counsel, I am sure that he would say 'Worse than a crime, Governor—it is a blunder.'"

Kaufmann on Radio To Tell of Job Plan

At 6:45 this evening, over WCAE, Edgar J. Kaufmann will explain the work relief plan for which he is spokesman and which was originated by a group of Pittsburgh industrialists, economists and business men.

FUNDS POURING INTO BANKS

The flow of money back to Pittsburgh banks continued today in the rush that commenced with the reopening of the institutions Tuesday after a nine-day holiday.

The vast majority of institutions doing business in Western Pennsylvania before the moritorium declared by President Roosevelt on March 5 were open again with the Federal Reserve or state banking system's official stamp of approval to show their liquidity and soundness.

GOLD RETURNED

The movement of gold into the Federal Reserve bank here continued today, with tomorrow set by the Federal government as the final day to exchange gold coin for currency.

Gold receipts yesterday at the Reserve bank here totaled $376,000, somewhat less than the previous day. Many individuals are depositing small amounts of gold, apparently keep-sakes, Christmas and birthday gifts.

While it is evident that Federal authorities are chiefly concerned in getting back quantities of gold drawn out since February 2, of which a record has been

Bingham Approval Delayed in Senate

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(INS.)—The nomination of Robert Worth Bingham, Louisville publisher, as Ambassador to Great Britain, was held up today by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee because of allegations that he is "pro-British."

The committee reported two other ambassadorial appointments, Josephus Daniels, of North Carolina, as Ambassador to Mexico, and Jesse Isidor Straus, of New York, as Ambassador to France.

Gloria Swanson, Farmer Reach U. S.

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP.)—Gloria Swanson, screen actress, returned today on the liner Conte Di Savoia after 15 months in Europe.

She was accompanied by her husband, Michael Farmer. They planned to spend a week in New York before going to Hollywood. Miss Swanson's children, two by a former marriage, are at Gestadd, Switzerland, where they will remain for another year.

COMMODITY PRICES JUMP

Profit-Taking Curbs Rise in 3-Million Share Day

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP.)—Substantial profit-taking held the stock market in check today, though enough new buying was provided to support leading issues at prices moderately above Wednesday's close.

Wheat and corn at Chicago jumped 5 and 3 cents a bushel, respectively—the limit of fluctuations permitted by the Board of Trade, as trading was resumed. Cotton here had an extreme rise of $3.50 to nearly $5 a bale.

COMMODITIES STRONG

This strength in commodities kept stocks boiling during a very busy forenoon, but advances of $1 to more than $3 a share were subsequently reduced, in some instances to a few cents. The market, however, became dull as quotations eased from the highs. Beer and farm implement issues continued strong.

Bond trading was much brisker than yesterday, and at rising prices. United States government bonds had advances ranging up to $20 per $1,000 loan and the marekt was generally strong, although subject to profit-taking in the more speculative sections.

As the stock market approached the last hour, American Telephone was quoted at $106.25, up $1.25 against an extreme rise of $1.87. U. S. Steel had settled back to $33, up 87 cents, compared with a high of $33.50; Owens Illinois Glass showed a net gain of $2.50 at $44, or $1 under the top. J. I. Case, manufacturer of farm machinery, held firm around $5 up about $4. General Electric was also strong, up $1 to $15.87.

EXCITEMENT HIGH

Excitement in Wall Street ran high at the opening. Brokerage house customers' rooms were filled with tape watchers and many reported a large volume of overnight buying orders, especially for "odd lots" of shares. Trading in the first half hour exceeded 800,000 shares.

Just before noon it was announced that an exchange membership had sold at $105,000, up $5,000 from the price paid for two "seats" yesterday.

Davis 'Comfortable,' Condition Serious

Although his condition still is regarded as serious, United States Senator James J. Davis, operated upon in South Side Hospital Saturday for appendicitis, passed a "comfortable night" last night, according to word from the hospital today.

NATION PREPARES FOR BEER RETURN

3.2 Brew Will Be Better Than Ever, Ruppert Says

Associated Press.

As Congress got ready to twist the spigot and set legal beer spurting, the brewing industry showed further signs today of arousing from a long lassitude. Among the signs of its revived energy:

There was a twirling of handlebar mustaches as a beverage dispensers union in New York decided to resume its old title of "Bartenders Union."

A statement from Jacob Ruppert, New York brewer, said 3.2 per cent beer, the kind that the pending bill would legalize, would be fully as potent as the average pre-prohibition beer, and maybe better in quality because of advances in machine-making and chemistry.

A survey showed brewery officials estimating that more than 50,000 men would get permanent jobs in breweries alone after legalization of beer.

Many orders were placed for bottles, barrels, cases, caps and grain. An official of large brewery estimated orders of such equipment for immediate delivery would total more than $100,000,000.

To build new plants, or get old ones in working order, an expenditure of several millions is contemplated, the survey indicated.

Extensive advertising campaigns were prepared in many cities. One New York brewer authorized a $100,000 outlay for newspaper advertising as soon as beer is legalized.

St. Louis brewers, celebrating the enactment of a state beer bill yesterday, paraded their draft horses, white and dappled, through the streets.

Some breweries were taking orders for delivery as soon as beer is legal. Anheuser-Busch, in St. Louis, has 40,000 to 50,000 gallons of beer in its vats.

In New York, some drug stores were contemplating selling beer at soda fountains, if the state beer bill being shaped at Albany permits.

A-nickel-a-glass was predicted as the price in many localities. There was talk of making it 10 cents in the business and theatrical sections of New York and some other places.

Boys in the White Coats Revive Title Of 'Bartenders'

A poll of the states showed that as matters now stand there are 15 in which the sale of beer is contingent only on legalization by the federal government. They are Pennsylvania, Missouri, New Jersey, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, California, Washington, Wisconsin, Wyoming, Montana, Maryland, Delaware, Oregon and Arizona.

Some states were rushing beer bills. In New York, for instance, where bills to regulate and tax beer were to be introduced into the Legislature today, Gov. Lehman called for quick action, so that beer can go on sale as soon as Washington legalizes it.

HOUSE PLANS QUICK AGREEMENT ON ECONOMY MEASURE

SENATE'S BILL AGREEABLE TO ROOSEVELT

Immediate Action on Changes Balked by Missourian

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP.)—Word spread on Capitol Hill today that the changes made by the Senate in the economy bill were acceptable to President Roosevelt and plans were laid for quick agreement by the House to the amendments.

Emerging from a joint conference of the Senate and House committees that had handled the legislation, Chairmen McDuffie, of Alabama, and Harrison, of Mississippi, said there was nothing in the amendments to affect the main purpose of the measure—the extension to the President of power to cut veterans' allowances and federal pay an estimated half-billion dollars.

BUDGET HEAD ATTENDS

Immediate action on the amendments was delayed in the House by the objections of Representative Shannon (Dem.), of Missouri, to consideration at the outset of the session. The special economy committee was instructed to consider the amendments.

Representative Wood (Dem.), Missouri, sought a separate vote on the amendment providing that Spanish American War veterans past the age of 62 shall not be removed from the rolls, but was hammered down by Speaker Rainey.

The House was in an uproar after Shannon asserted that he was "tired" of McDuffie's efforts to "railroad" the bill through the House.

CONFERS VAST POWERS

The Senate passed the bill last night, 62 to 13, after modifying some of the important sections.

The bill would confer on Mr. Roosevelt the broadest powers ever given a Chief Executive in peace time. It would repeal all existing veterans' laws and give the President authority to revise pension lists and rewrite the basic pension rates. It specifically repealed all presumptions, heretofore conferred by law, barred widows of World War veterans from pensions, unless the veteran died of service-connected disability, and slashed Civil War pensions by 10 per cent.

The President further was empowered to determine the reduction in the cost of living since 1928 and apply a like percentage to slashing salaries of federal employes. He merely was held to a maximum slash of 15 per cent. The veterans' slashes were expected to save $375,000,000 and the salary cuts $125,000,000 a year.

On the final roll-call, only 13 Senators opposed the bill. They were Borah, Couzens, Dickinson, Frazier, Hatfield, Nye, Patterson, Robinson, of Indiana, and Steiwer, Republicans, and Clark, Long, McCarran and McGill, Democrats. Forty-three Democrats and 19 Republicans voted for the bill.

Economy Measure's Provisions Summarized

Reduce federal salary and veterans' costs $500,000,000 a year.

Permit federal and military pay cuts up to 15 per cent.

Give members of House and Senate $8,500 instead of $10,000 a year.

Pay the Vice President and Speaker $12,750 instead of $15,000.

Let President Roosevelt, if he desires, reduce his pay from $75,000 to $64,750.

Restrict veterans' disability benefits largely to those whose ailments are attributable to service.

Remove the provision that certain constitutional ills may be presumed to have been caused by service.

Authorize a new survey of benefits to veterans including and since the Spanish-American War.

Cut civil war pensions 10 per cent for one year.

Authorize the executive to rule that no persons with an income above any amount he fixes shall receive a pension.

Make final all decisions by the veterans administration under presidential regulations, and bar court appeals.

Prevent emergency officers from obtaining retirement pay unless the disabilities causing retirement began between April 6, 1917, and November 11, 1918.

Unofficially a widespread belief is voiced, particularly in London, that a new order of European alliances, such as those that preceded the World War, is being organized. French government leaders are openly seeking an understanding with Great Britain and even the United States—calling it "democracies" against "dictatorships."

Poland, in close relation with France, and Germany have momentarily weathered a threatening crisis involving the free city of Danzig and reported troop concentrations in the Polish corridor.

The warlike activities of Hitler's Nazi storm troopers and the Stahlhelm in Germany, and the threat of Hitlerites gaining control in Austria and uniting the two Germanic nations, have their neighbors worried. France has protested to Germany against concentration of Nazi troops in the Rhineland border area.

MacDonald Asks Arms Parity for Germany

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT
International News Service.

GENEVA, March 16.—Premier MacDonald, of Great Britain, this afternoon laid before the General Commission of the Disarmament Conference a concrete five-years' arms limitation plan, providing equality for Germany on the European continent.

The British proposal gives France, Germany, Italy and Poland equal armies of 200,000 for European service.

In addition France would be permitted to arm 200,000 men and Italy 50,000 for overseas service.

Soviet Russia would be allowed to maintain 500,000 men under arms.

Premier Edouard Daladier of France and United States Ambassador Hugh Gibson spoke briefly after MacDonald had completed his summary, praising his efforts to solve the disarmament problem and asking time to study the project.

Dr. Rudolph Nadolny, of Germany, praised the plan on behalf of his government, characterizing it as an "equitable adjustment of armaments." He reserved acceptance of details, but stated that Germany's aim was "security for all nations."

In presenting the plan, Premier MacDonald tlod the conference that equality for Germany was a prerequisite of European peace.

Beaver Falls Vet Quits Accepting Compensation

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt has wholehearted support in his economy program from one World War veteran.

The White House announced that the President had received a letter from a Beaver Falls, Pa., veteran, whose name was not made public, saying he had voluntarily asked the Veterans' Bureau to discontinue his disability allowance.

The letter said, in part:

"The amount of money involved is only a drop in the bucket, but it is my duty to help you in any way possible.

"I cannot help but feel that I will only be one of many more 100 per cent red blooded Americans that will gladly do the same thing for you."

Davis Named Head Of Arms Delegation

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP.)—Norman H. Davis was named today as chairman of the American delegation to the disarmament conference, with the rank of ambassador.

Davis a Tennesseean, a Democrat and experienced diplomat, has been a member of the delegation under the Hoover administration. Plans are set for him to sail the middle of next week for Geneva, where efforts are being made to allay suspicions in Europe sufficiently to pave the way for a definite disarmament agreement.

LEGION URGED TO BACK F. R.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(INS.)—An appeal to the 1,000,000 members of the American Legion to "stand by" President Roosevelt in his economy drive was issued today by Louis A. Johnson, its national commander.

Johnson declared the economy bill gave Mr. Roosevelt the "power of life and death over thousands of men who once gladly offered their lives in a period of national emergency." He expressed a hope the President would deal fairly with the nation's war veterans.

After asserting the bill was "fraught with the gravest consequences to the disabled veteran, Johnson added:

"The President needs the support of every loyal American. Many may disagree with the new law, but now in this crisis, we must take the commander-in-chief's orders."

Elliott Roosevelt Studying Ranching

TUCSON, Ariz., March 16.—(INS.)—Surrendering the adulation of Eastern social and business circles for the "wide open spaces," Elliott Roosevelt, son of President Roosevelt, today took stock of the future as he rested at the ranch of Mrs. John C. Greenway. His plans for the future remained indefinite.

Young Roosevelt is known to have leaned favorably towards ranching as a profession instead of the advertising work which he resigned, and his visit with the Greenways will give him an opportunity to learn at first hand how the West's big cattle ranges are managed.

BARDOLPH PLEA HEARD, CASE NEAR JURY

Defense Says Banker Has Been 'Goat' In Prosecution

Judge William H. McNaugher was charging the jury in the trial of Charles A. Bardolph, president of the closed Franklin Savings and Trust Company, this afternoon with the prospect that the jury would get the case late today.

Speaking more than three hours, Charles B. Pritchard, defense counsel, asked for the former banker's acquittal as one who had been made the "goat" for the bank's failure. He declared:

"Bardolph didn't cheat the bank or anyone else. He spent his fortune of $250,000 trying to save the bank."

CONVICTION ASKED

Asserting that Bardolph's own testimony was sufficient to convict him, Assistant District Attorney Harry R. Phillips asked that the defendant be found guilty on all counts.

Phillips said:

"Bardolph, by his own lips, convicted himself of embezzlement when he admitted he used $30,000 of the bank's money to pay off the Hendel mortgage.

"If you believe this banker used stockholders' and depositors' money for speculation, you should find him guilty on the first 17 counts.

PERJURY CHARGED

"If you believe he knew what was in the bank statement that he signed, you should find him guilty of perjury. And if you believe Bardolph himself—he is guilty on the last five counts of embezzlement.

"The type of speculation which Bardolph explained was the rankest kind of speculation. Bardolph is believed to know that the entries were false and misleading when he credited as cash, drafts, which he knew never would be paid."

Oakmont Employes Given Pay in Scrip

Oakmont Borough yesterday paid employes and several bills in $5 and $10 certificates issued against the borough treasury. No date has been set for redemption of the scrip, which will be used to meet current expenses as long as the present emergency exists, Burgess J. M. Bossert said.

The scrip is non-interest bearing and is issued on $39,000 outstanding in 1931 and 1932 taxes.

1933 Bartender To Be Slender Youthful Type

ALBANY, March 16.—(INS.)—Here is what the 1933 bartender will look like:

He will be young and not corpulent.

He will not have the handlebar moustaches and curled hair.

He will wear a white coat, white apron and black bow tie.

He will work eight hours a day and have a minimum wage of $25 a week.

This information was brought here today by Emanuel Kovelenski, state president of the Bartenders' Union. Kovelenski said 8,000 members of the union, who have kept their dues paid for the last 13 years are ready to go to work as soon as beer is legalized.

Traveling 'First Lady'

MRS. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT COL. LOUIS M'HENRY HOWE

Mrs. Roosevelt pictured in New York with Col. Howe, the President's trusted confidential secretary, on her brief visit, terminated today by her flight back to Washington—the first flight ever made by the wife of a President. In New York, Mrs. Roosevelt dismissed her guard. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

FARM MESSAGE GOES IN TODAY

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt decided today to submit only his farm relief program in a message going to Capitol Hill late today.

To accommodate the Congressional leaders he agreed to withhold the emergency unemployment plan until tomorrow or later.

The farm measure which received its final touches at a lengthy conference this noon between the President and the Secretary of Agriculture, will be submitted with a plea for urgent action.

It was learned that in framing the farm bill the principles of the domestic allotment plan have not been abandoned entirely. Leasing of lands engaged in surplus production will be a principal feature, but provision will be included for a processing tax, one of the main points in the allotment plan.

It is through this tax that the measure proposes to provide much of the revenue to make possible retirement of lands by leasing.

Summerville Bank Licensed to Open

CLEVELAND, March 16.—(AP.)—The Union National Bank, of Summerville, Pa., today was granted a Federal Reserve Board license to re-open for business. Summerville is in Jefferson County.

Dr. Luther Resigns As Reichsbank Head

BERLIN, March 16.—(AP.)—Dr. Hans Luther today resigned as president of the Reichsbank. Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, former president of the bank, likely will succeed him.

AIR RIDE BUMPY, MRS. F. R. SAYS

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP.)—The first airplane ride ever taken by a President's wife was a "perfectly good trip, but very bumpy."

Thus reported Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt this morning as she stepped off the plane that brought her from New York, on her first air ride since March 4.

She said:

"I was not disturbed because I am quite accustomed to flying, and it doesn't bother me, but the others were quite miserable."

Naomi exclaimed, pointing to Mrs. Roosevelt:

CLEAR TORNADO WRECKAGE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 16.—(INS.)—Rehabilitation work began today in a score of Tennessee cities and towns which bore the brunt of a tornado that killed 43 persons, injured 200 others, many critically, and destroyed $1,000,000 worth of property.

National Guardsmen throughout the tornado-stricken area assisted doctors, nurses and Red Cross workers in caring for the injured. Aided by police and firemen and volunteer workers, the militiamen today were working to clear away the wreckage of homes and buildings from thoroughfares.

The tornado left its trail of death and destruction for 300 miles across the northern section of the state as it whirled eastward from southeastern Missouri to the Cumberland Mountains Tuesday night.

Twelve bodies were recovered in Nashville, where more than 100 were injured. The giant twister destroyed hundreds of homes and buildings here as it swept through East Nashville. Firemen and police were assigned the work of clearing away the debris.

FLOW OF FUNDS BACK TO BANKS CONTINUES

kept, the small holdings turned in by individuals have proved to be a very substantial help from an unexpected source.

Some of the gold coins being turned in have apparently been out of circulation for many years, it is reported.

HUNDREDS OF MILLIONS

In the safes of the banks and available to them in vaults and credit of other institutions, were hundreds of millions of dollars—life blood of individual and corporate affairs in this district.

Five state banks in Pittsburgh not members of the Reserve system were soon to open their doors to restricted withdrawals. All were accepting new deposits to be kept entirely liquid.

One prominent banker said of yesterday's business:

"It was the most gratifying day in our experience in recent times."

The Pittsburgh branch of the Postal Savings system said that records for gold receipts were broken yesterday at their counters in the Pittsburgh Postoffice. Nine thousand dollars in gold and $1,000 in gold certificates passed into their hands during the day.

80 Per Cent of Banks In State Reopened

PHILADELPHIA, March 16.—(INS.)—With the approval of federal and state banking authorities, 909 banks, or more than 80 per cent of the 1,147 banking institutions in Pennsylvania, today were open on a normal business basis.

Banking officials may within the next few days augment the list of "sound" banks as the result of separate formal hearings accorded some of the 225 banks which thus far have not been granted licenses to renew business. Of the 225 banks, 62 are state-supervised institutions, while 163 are national banks under the jurisdiction of the Third Federal Reserve District.

Flow of New Currency Regenerates Confidence

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP.)—The banks of the Wabash—and of all the land—were clicking again today, innervated not only by the flow of new currency but by continuing evidence of reborn national confidence.

President Roosevelt, in speaking to the people of America last Sunday night, cautioned that the mechanical routine necessary for the rehabilitation of banking was in itself a heavy chore and might not be accomplished as swiftly as hoped for. The major part of the job has been done, however, with even greater speed and less confusion than had been anticipated.

The results reflected themselves today in these significant conditions:

1—Thousands of banks, closed by the national and state banking holidays, have reopened, most of them on unrestricted bases.

3—Hoarding has been checked.

4—Clearance of checks on a national scale has been resumed.

PRIVATE BANK PROBE NEXT

NEW YORK, March 16.—(INS.)—Acting upon instructions from Senator Duncan Fletcher (Dem.) of Florida, new chairman of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, plans were pushed today by Ferdinand Pecora, investigating counsel, for extension of the committee's investigation into the operation of private banks and investment bankers.

J. P. Morgan & Company, Kuhn, Loeb & Company, and other "private bankers who make their own rules and are not subject to examination at the hands of any public authority," are among the houses which will be investigated, Pecora said.

He was reluctant to give the names of prospective witnesses who will be submitted to informal questioning here, until he has established "the existence of such evidence of such a character that would be of interest to the Senate committee."

Telegrams of Support Deluge White House

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(INS.)—Literally swamped by congratulatory telegrams, a heavily augmented White House force threw up the sponge today and President Roosevelt decided to make a single acknowledgement of thanks through the newspapers.

Stephen T. Early, assistant secretary to the President, announced it would be physically impossible to answer the deluge of congratulations individually. He said Mr. Roosevelt wished it known he was extremely grateful for the unprecedented display of confidence reposed in him.

E. W. Smithers, telegrapher, had an actual tabulation of over 14,000 telegrams late last week before he stopped counting. Since, they have continued to pour in.

As an indication of the united front the country is offering the President, only 39 messages were from organizations opposing his bid for power to slash government pay and veterans' compensation, whereas over 1,500 telegrams poured in supporting the proposal—and many of them were from veterans and veteran organizations.

Ten extra stenographers were drafted from the Internal Revenue Bureau a week ago, but they have been unable to make a dent in the correspondence piling up since the inauguration.

Girl Leads Pacifists In Commons Uproar

LONDON, March 16.—(INS.)—The House of Commons was thrown into an uproar during debate on the naval estimates today when two young men and a girl staged a pacifist demonstration.

The three threw showers of green leaflets down on the heads of the parliamentarians from the visitors' gallery. The leaflets listed the funds being appropriated for naval defenses and said:

"More money for war! End this nonsense."

The girl, who was hatless and wore her hair short-cropped, was ejected from the House with her companions, shouting:

FLOOD RECEDES AFTER CAUSING WIDESPREAD DAMAGE HERE

River Rampage Wanes; 29.6-Foot Crest of Costly Deluge

Pittsburgh's three rivers were falling today after reaching a peak of 29.6 feet before midnight, the highest they have been since December, 1927.

For several hours after the crest was reached the rivers remained stationary, then began falling. By mid-afternoon the gauge at Point Bridge showed 27.6 feet, a fall of two feet. A stage of 23 feet is expected tomorrow.

Fed by the heavy rains throughout the district, the river climbed the gauge at Point Bridge steadily at the rate of .1 foot an hour last night, increasing the hardship of river folk and causing unestimated damage.

At 11 o'clock 29.6 feet was recorded and it was feared the water would swell to a 30-foot crest before dawn. However, midnight and 1 a. m. revealed no change, and the Weather Bureau announced the peak had been reached.

MONONGAHELA RISE

Up until midnight the Monongahela was moving up .1 of a foot an hour, but the Allegheny was reported stationary at Locks No. 4 and 5 from eight o'clock on.

The river at the Point continued a steady upward trend since 10 o'clock yesterday morning after dropping .1 of a foot from the crest of 28.3. The temporary respite was caused by a drop of three feet in the Monongahela at its tributaries.

The previous high of Pittsburgh's rivers was 30.4 feet December 14, 1927. A crest of 25.3 feet was recorded in February, 1929.

Many houseboats along the north bank of the Allegheny from the Manchester Bridge to Sixth street were swept from their anchorages into the whirling waters late yesterday as their owners fought heroically to save them.

Scores of power pumps were throwing back water from the cellars of river front buildings into downtown alleys throughout the night. Most of Penn avenue cellars were flooded.

CELLARS FLOODED

A similar condition prevailed in Water street buildings as the Monongahela crept within four feet of street level.

Basements through the lower North Side were flooded, and many who lived near the water's edge were forced to go and come from their homes in rowboats.

Rivermen rescued Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lane and their two small children late yesterday from their houseboat when it broke from its moorings at the foot of Sixth street. The family was taken to the Improvement of the Poor.

4,000 Marooned as Flood Hits Wheeling District

WHEELING, W. Va., March 16.—(AP.)—Wheeling watched apprehensively as the gushing waters of the Ohio river crept into the business district, inch by inch, after covering half of Wheeling Island. All schools were closed.

Police estimated that more than 4,000 persons were marooned in their homes—most of them residents of South Wheeling, where large stretches are under water.

Weather observers said the yellow waters reached the 40-foot stage before last midnight and predicted that the river would swell to 42 feet today.

Trains and trolley service was practically at a standstill last night. Merchants and home-owners worked feverishly moving their possessions from basements to the upper stories of their stores and dwellings.

Giving Up Her Big Home

PONTIFF SEES U. S. RECOVERY

ROME, March 16.—(AP.)—Pope Pius expressed yesterday to Father John J. Burke, of Washington, general secretary of the National Catholic Welfare Council, his belief that the "United States will very shortly and in a most capable way weather the financial emergency."

Father Burke was received in private audience by His Holiness, accompanied by Mgr. Moses E. Kiley, spiritual director of the American College in Rome.

The Pope showed himself well informed on the American situation. He said he was solicitous of the victims of the California earthquake and declared his love for America.

His Holiness said he was "appreciative of the religious liberty characterizing the United States whereby the church is able to work in complete freedom to give its contribution to the upbuilding of the nation."

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., March 16.—The Ohio River flood reached a crest of 38.1 feet here and forced suspension of the C. C. Thompson pottery plant. No serious damage was reported.

PAY CUT, STARS ECONOMIZE

HOLLYWOOD, March 16.—(AP.)—The eight-week, 50 per cent pay cut accepted by most motion picture stars that studios might continue in operation, has caused many to economize.

Several have arranged to move from large apartments to smaller quarters. Some have given up their beach homes, including Sylvia Sidney, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic March and Adrienne Ames.

Helen Twelvetrees is doing her own marketing, and Claudette Colbert said that for the first time in months she is buying no new books.

There have been rumblings of dissent, but the clearest cut objection so far came from Benita Hume, English stage and screen star, who said she would not agree to the 50 per cent reduction and would return to London if it was enforced in her case.

Twenty-one local unions affiliated with the Federated Motion Picture Crafts refused to accept the reductions, but the workers resumed their jobs pending arbitration.

Freight Train Kills Sharon Boy at Play

SHARON, Pa., March 16.—(AP.)—Floyd Newton, 13, was run over and killed last night by an Erie freight.

The boy was racing with several companions near the railroad tracks. He skidded on an icy spot and rolled beneath the car wheels.

'RAFFLES' ASKS TO AID RETURN OF JEWELS

Would Keep Owners From 'Stealing From Each Other'

International News Service.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 16.—Harry Sidmor, alias Harry Sitamore, 38-year-old "gentleman Raffles," who lifted $500,000 in jewels from the elect who winter here, complained of the discomfort of a jail cell today.

Accustomed to the luxurious surroundings of the winter colony, the dapper New Yorker who police described as the peer of this century's jewel thieves, demanded freedom on bail, and was ignored. He threatened:

"I'll get a writ of hocus pocus (habeas corpus to you)."

But he remained in his cell while police prepared to call in the social registerites and famous personages whose jewel boxes Sidmor rifled.

TAKE NO CHANCES

If Sidmor's attorneys make a move for a habeas corpus writ, Miami Beach police will turn him over to the county authorities, they indicated. They were taking no chances.

Meanwhile, sprucely dressed in fresh white flannels, tan sport coat and sport shoes, and scrupulously groomed, Sidmor lounged in his cell.

He demanded that police let him be present when claimants for the stolen gems viewed the loot Sidmor carelessly flung at their feet after his arrest. He said:

"I want to be there. I'll keep them from stealing from each other.

"I know every piece and where I got it. I can identify it better than the owners."

SHOWS NO CONCERN

Sidmor displayed no concern over the loss of his loot or the heavy jail sentence he faces if convicted. He boasted:

"When I'm on the outside I'm good for $300,000 a year. I can always get dough when I need it."

Police ascribe to Sidmor robbery of $80,000 in jewels from Grace Moore, the opera singer; $75,000 worth of gems from Mrs. B. Glemby Keller, of New York, and other thefts from Mrs. Sophie Ingle, Mrs. Murray Miller and other prominent New Yorkers.

As Sidmor described himself, he played the role of a combination Raffles and Robin Hood. He declared:

"I stole only from those who could afford to lose, and I've given plenty to those in need."

Believe Body Found In Lake Society Girl

CHICAGO, March 16.—(INS.)—Police today believed the body of a beautiful girl found in Lake Michigan on March 8 was that of the daughter of a well-to-do New Haven (Conn.) family.

Sergt. Frank Loskill, in charge of the Missing Persons Bureau, wired a description of the girl and her apparel to the New Haven police. The girl, about 24 years of age, was unusually pretty, with dimpled cheeks, brown hair and blue eyes, about 5 feet 4 inches in height and weighing 110 pounds.

Terrorists Wreck Cane Train in Cuba

HAVANA, March 16.—(INS.)—A new series of terrorist outbreaks occurred in Cuba today, including the wrecking of a cane train of the American-owned Tinguaro Sugar Mill at Jovellanos.

PARDON HOPES FOR RUTH JUDD HELD REMOTE

Board Spurns Plea to Hear Jurors as To 'Deal'

International News Service.

FLORENCE, Ariz., March 16.—Amid charges of a "jury deal" whereby Winnie Ruth Judd, "trunk murderess," was given the death penalty to force her to talk, the Arizona pardons board concluded its hearing at the State Penitentiary here and today ordered resumption of the case next Monday in Phoenix.

The accusations were hurled by Mrs. Judd's lawyers at the concluding night session in the bleak penitentiary, but the possibility they would be further explored appeared remote. At the same time, the stern attitude of the three-man board was taken by observers to mean that Mrs. Judd's plea for a commutation or pardon may be rejected.

SCORNS JURY PLEA

Arthur Laprode, Attorney General and member of the board, said:

"If there was any deal among the jurors, or undue influence, let them confess their sins in the Superior Courts. We don't want them before the board."

The highlight of the second day's hearing came when Mrs. Judd demanded to be heard privately. For four hours the three men were closeted with her, barring even her attorneys. Mrs. Judd, asking to be heard, said:

"I fully realize that my life lies in you three men's hands, and in God's hands. I want you to like me and save my life if you possibly can. If I could talk to you alone I can explain some of the propositions that have been made to me."

The "propositions," is was understood, dealt with charges of intimidation or a "trade" for her testimony.

COMMENT REFUSED

The Pardon Board was grim-faced when it concluded its private session with Mrs. Judd, refusing to comment on her story.

Throughout the pardons hearings, Mrs. Judd has repeated substantially the account of self-defense that she gave at the hearing of J. J. (Happy Jack) Halloran, rich Phoenix lumberman, who was exonerated of any complicity in the crime.

Unless startling evidence is disclosed at the resumption of the hearing in Phoenix, it was doubtful if the Pardons Board would take any steps to save Mrs. Judd from the noose. She is sentenced to die on Good Friday.

In event the Pardons Board fails to act, her only possible avenue of escape would be for the warden of the prison here to ask for a sanity hearing. The Governor of Arizona has no pardon power.

Mrs. Downs Freed In Doctor's Slaying

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP.)—Mrs. Mitzi Downs was freed yesterday of an indictment charging first degree murder in connection with the slaying of the eccentric Dr. Frank R. Tuthill at Quogue, Long Island, last August.

Her husband, Victor, was acquitted of the charge of luring him to the Downs home to rob him of a hoard he was supposed to possess and then killing him.

HOOVER PACKS FOR HOME TRIP

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP.)—Herbert Hoover packed his bags today for his journey home to California. He will be accompanied by his secretary, Lawrence Richey.

The former President planned to leave late this afternoon for Chicago, spend Friday night at the home of a friend there, and depart for California Saturday.

One of the last appointments of his stay here was with W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and Lucius Boomer, president of the Waldorf-Astoria, who were invited to take an early morning walk and then have breakfast with Mr. Hoover in his hotel suite.

Court Dismisses $50,000 Hockey Suit

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP.)—Peggy Lawton Rich's $50,000 damage suit against the Madison Square Garden Corporation and the New York Rangers was dismissed in Supreme Court yesterday.

The former showgirl claimed the damages for injuries received when she was hit by a hockey stick while watching a game in the Garden December 13, 1931. Justice John L. Walsh found that the defendants had not been negligent.

ACCUSED CLERIC HEARD AT TRIAL

MUNCIE, Ind., March 16.—(AP.)—The case of the Rev. G. Lemuel Conway, charged with conduct unbecoming a pastor, is expected to go to an ecclesiastical jury here this afternoon.

The defendant, pastor of the Madison Street Methodist Episcopal Church, is accused of attempting to attack Miss Helen Huffman, 18-year-old member of his congregation. The minister has denied the charge, declaring he is a victim of enemies within his church.

Mr. Conway today was the principal witness at the trial, being held in a small suburban church. The jury of 12 clergymen is presided over by Bishop Edgar Blake, of Detroit. The defendant was before the inquisitorial body about an hour and a half.

No word of the proceedings is being made public, although Bishop Blake has announced the findings of the jury will be made public immediately. It is understood only a majority vote is necessary.

Other witnesses today included three men who have stated Mr. Conway was in a plumbing shop talking about a hunting trip on the date it is alleged the minister made improper advances to Miss Huffman. This was last December 20.

Conway is charged in indictments with attempting to attack the girl. The case in Circuit Court has not been brought to trial.

SCOUT HOUDINI STUNT THEORY IN 'Y' DEATH

Alcohol in Victim's Blood Points to Brutal Murder

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 16.—(AP.)—Traces of alcohol in the blood of Erik Baumann, brawny and scholarly victim of a mysterious torture death, today led authorities to abandon the theory that the 27-year-old gymnast might have been killed in the performance of a Houdini escape stunt enacted in his room at the Central Y. M. C. A., where his body was found yesterday morning.

Police said the preponderance of evidence indicated his death was deliberate murder. The alcohol in Baumann's blood indicated he might have been drugged before he was attacked, they said.

BROTHER GRILLED

Baumann's brother, Conrad, 25, was allowed to go to the home of friends last night after he had been questioned intermittently for more than 10 hours.

Police said they were as mystified as ever over the lack of apparent motive for the brutal death. Questioning of friends of the athlete brought no information of value to the investigation. According to his friends Baumann did not smoke, drink, go out with girls or to the motion pictures.

FIND DOOR LOCKED

When his body was found yesterday morning by a chambermaid, the key to the locked door was on a table in his room.

Baumann's friends said it was his invariable custom to make his room additionally secure by a wire arrangement placed through the key to prevent its being turned from the outside. The wire was found hanging from the door knob.

JOHN D. LOSES 'RICHEST MAN' THRONE

International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 16.—John D. Rockefeller, Sr., the man who thought only in terms of millions when he was cracking the whip in the money marts, but who of recent years has thought only in terms of bright, shiny dimes, is no longer the richest man in the world.

For two decades he has enjoyed that reputation, but now it must be admitted that the former oil king has abdicated his throne.

Henry Ford, Andrew Mellon, Charles M. Schwab, Bernard Baruch and J. Pierpont Morgan, to name only a few, have gone beyond the present Rockefeller fortune. It is equally true the senior Rockefeller's abdication was a voluntary one, for since the turn of the century he has given away several fortunes to philanthropic activities and turned over huge holdings to his son.

$10,000,000 GIFT

The wealth of a man is usually estimated by the amount of money he gives away. The legendary Croesus, wealthiest figure in all antiquity, once gave $10,000,000 to the Delphi oracle. This gave him quite a reputation and until the present century he had always been regarded as the wealthiest man of all time.

Today the Rockefeller fortune can be rated as only one of the comparatively minor fortunes of the country. The economic slump cut deeply into what he had retained after his enormous contributions to charity.

Early in the 1900's Rockefeller launched himself on his philanthropic career. At that time estimates of his wealth were around the billion dollar mark. He founded the Rockefeller Foundation and that has, of course, been a terrific expense to him. His wealth was soon converted into so-called "gilt-edged securities." These rose in value until they reached their peak in 1929. But since then?

SON NOW WEALTHIER

Because most of his fortune was in securities it seems fair to assume that today the Rockefeller fortune is considerably less than one-third of what it was five years ago. Added to that is the fact that last year John D., Jr., paid a larger income tax than did his father and that the same situation will exist this year.

The king is dead—long live the king, whether it be Ford, Schwab, Mellon, Morgan or any one of a dozen others. It certainly is not John D. Rockefeller.

But as the former king plays his few holes of golf each day and tosses new dimes to people he meets, embracing gracefully his new status of abdicated monarch, one feels he doesn't care very much about the fortunes he has given away or lost.

VOTE INQUIRY FIGHT IN COURT

A plea to restrain counsel for Mrs. Anne Felix from opening more ballot boxes from the Thirty-second Congressional District in her contest against Congressman Michael J. Muldowney was to be made in United States District Court today by B. Robert Averbach, attorney for Muldowney.

Attorney Henry O'Brien, presiding as judge at the hearings, yesterday overruled Averbach's objection that the 40 days permitted by law for an election contest hearing expired last Friday.

Frauds have been found in nearly all the 40 ballot boxes opened, according to counsel for Mrs. Felix. A Congressional committee will receive the result of the hearing and present its conclusions to the House of Representatives.

Filipinos Cheer Departing T. R., Jr.

MANILA, P. I., March 16.—(AP.)—Several thousand Filipinos shouted "Mabuhay," traditional word for hail and farewell, as Governor General and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., sailed from Manila today on the Coast Guard cutter Arayat, ending Roosevelt's term as Governor of the Philippines.

He had been in the islands a little more than a year. His duties were taken over by Vice Gov. John H. Holliday pending the arrival of the new chief executive, expected to be Homer Cummings, now United States Attorney General.

Woodside Returns 15 Per Cent of Pay

County Controller Robert G. Woodside today made a voluntary return of 15 per cent of his salary for the first period of March. He is the first county official to make such a return.

A check for $62.50 was accompanied by a letter from the Controller.

Train Derailed, Fireman Injured

NEWARK, O., March 16.—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad through passenger train was derailed near Shelby Junction at 4:40 a. m. today. The engine and three cars left the tracks due to a broken rail. Fireman R. D. McClelland, Newark, suffered an arm injury. Passengers were brought here in taxicabs and placed aboard a special train. None was reported injured.

Finds Gold Coin He Saved Since Boyhood Fake

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 16.—(AP.)—"I've had this gold piece since I was a boy," an elderly man told a bank tellers here today. "It was given to me but guess I'd better turn it in."

"Sorry, sir," the teller said, "this coin you've been saving so long is counterfeit."

FRENCH TO PAY, CAPITAL HINTS

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(INS.)—There were growing indications in official circles today that France intends to pay her $19,000,000 debt installment due this government last December.

Reliable advices from Paris stated prominent French political leaders, headed by former Premier Edouard Herriot were actively campaigning to swing sentiment in the Chamber of Deputies for quick payment.

With the receipt of these advices came the statement from a high State Department official that:

> "This government naturally would view payment of the December installment of the French debt not only as welcome, but doubly welcome and thrice welcome."

2 CHINESE HELD IN DOPE PROBE

Two Chinese were held for further hearing on suspicious person charges today following raiding of a laundry, which detectives allege was to be the "blind" for a new opium den. They are Sam Wing, 50, of 204 Grant street, Millvale, and Frank J. Wong, 41, proprietor of the laundry at 1503 Fifth avenue.

A small amount of opium, parts of a broken lamp and an opium pipe Wong admits he was smoking at the time of the raid were seized. Detectives said steel doors and barricades were found on the place.

Man Found Dying Heart Attack Victim

Julius Naty, 65, found in his room at 7254 Upland street yesterday in a dying condition, died in St. Francis Hospital today. At first believed the victim of foul play, his death was explained today as heart failure.

Orthodox Choir To Sing Vespers

St. Mary's Russian Orthodox Church choir of 67 mixed voices will visit St. Andrew's Protestant Episcopal Church, Euclid avenue and Hampton street, tonight, to render a complete vesper service as used in the Russian church.

The Rev. S. Tretiak, director of the choir, will be assisted by the Rev. John Yanchishin, rector of Sts. Cyrill and Methodius Russian Orthodox Church, Monessen. The Rt. Rev. Alexander Mann, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Pittsburgh, will speak.

Former Squire Freed Under $1,000 Bond

Justice of the Peace A. W. McMillen, of Carnegie, last night released A. F. Kaechele, former justice of the peace of Scott Township, in $1,000 bond to appear in court on a charge of malicious mischief. He is alleged to have smashed four large windows and caused other damage in the Central restaurant, Carnegie, last Tuesday night.

The charges were brought by George Barum and William Keenan, proprietors of the restaurant. Robert Murdoch, an employe, testified that Kaechele did the damage with a crowbar.

Auto Inspection Period Nears End

The last day for official state automobile inspection is March and because most motorists have been slow in having cars examined, a rush is expected, according to the Pittsburgh Motor Club.

A charge of 50 cents is made for the actual inspection with extra cost for adjustment and repairs to brakes, lights, horns, windshield wipers and steering gears.

KIDNAP RANCH IDENTIFIED

CHAMBERLAIN, S. D., March 16.—(AP.)—Tell-tale marks that Charles Boettcher, II, Denver broker, said he left in the building in which he was held blind-folded by kidnapers have led him to identify the Verne Sankey ranch house nearby as the place.

Boettcher flew here from Denver yesterday and viewed the evidences with authorities. He found match scratches he said he made on the wall and a scratch on an adhesive tape spool. He pointed to a spot on the wall where he said he had written his name. It had been erased.

Even the bark of the police dog and the metallic clang of a damper on a small stove sounded familiar to the man held 17 days while his captors bargained with his family for $60,000 ransom.

On returning to Denver last night by plane, Boettcher took with him finger prints found under a bed. He said it was the bed on which he had slept and that the prints were his.

Several persons are under arrest in connection with the kidnaping but Sankey and Gordon Elkhart are still being sought.

COAL FREIGHT FIGHT RENEWED

Plans to continue the fight against coal freight rates which, it is declared, have proved a serious menace to the bituminous industry in this district, have been made by the Western Pennsylvania Coal Traffic Bureau.

At present the bureau is centering its efforts in attempting to knock out alleged discriminatory freight rates from the Eastern Ohio fields to the lakes by way of the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad. Briefs are to be filed in the case April 10 before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The case also involves the use of reduced rates on the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad. Efforts are also being made to get reductions in coal rates from the Pittsburgh territory to the east.

A new board of directors has been elected by the bureau. It consists of R. Templeton Smith, chairman; R. E. Jamison, B. H. Cannon, C. B. Schrecongost and George H. Love.

PAID FOR HOME, WIFE ASSERTS

While her husband read detective stories she worked as a waitress in Orlando, Fla., earning $75 to $90 a week in the peak times, Mrs. Lillian George, of Fifth avenue, Homestead, testified in her divorce suit before Judge Thomas M. Marshall against Perry George.

Her husband, now in Oakland, Cal., had a lawyer present. She denied she had promised to join George in California. Judge Marshall asked her numerous questions about her support of her husband. She said:

"I reminded him that I had made the first $500 payment on a cottage in Florida and he had earned nothing toward it, but he said that was nothing. I bought him an automobile. He did not work and spent his time reading detective stories. He said he would not work for any woman."

Her counsel is Joseph P. Passafiume.

Photographers Set Convention Here

Huge Lottery Center Raided in New York

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP.)—Police last night raided what they called "Dutch Schultz's clearing house for all the policy games in Greater New York," arrested 14 men and seized huge batches of slips which they estimated to number 10,000,000 representing about $2,250,000 in bets.

The raid was made by detectives seeking Schultz himself, who disappeared several weeks ago when the government undertook to investigate into his income taxes.

Directed Verdict Acquits Burgess

Burgess Robert A. Morrow, of West Homestead, was acquitted late yesterday of misbehavior in office in a verdict directed by Visiting Judge C. M. Copeland, who held that the state had failed to prove the Burgess had refused to accept a bond.

It was charged he refused to permit J. E. Winter, 316 Onyx avenue, to waive a hearing for a traffic violation, and held Winter two hours in the lockup. The costs were placed on Burgess Morrow.

Other new officers include R. W. Froberger, Danville, and Dr. Donald C. Smelzer, Philadelphia, vice presidents; Elmer E. Matthews, Wilkes-Barre, treasurer, and Howard E. Bishop, executive secretary.

Hibernian Memorial Service Tomorrow

An anniversary high mass memorial in Epiphany Church, Washington street, at 10 a. m. tomorrow will mark the observance of St. Patrick's Day by the Ancient Order of Hibernians and Ladies Auxiliary of Allegheny County.

The Rev. Lawrence A. O'Connell, pastor, will celebrate the mass, assisted by the Rev. Thomas Sullivan and the Rev. John McKenna. The sermon will be delivered by the Rev. John Collins. David Flaherty will be master of ceremonies.

Wins Award in Third Trial for Damages

For injuries of the neck and back suffered in alighting from a street car in 1924, Catherine Plunkett, of the North Side, was awarded a $16,000 verdict by a Common Pleas Court jury yesterday against the Pittsburgh Railways Company.

The trial, before Judge A. B. Reid, was the third in the case. The first resulted in an $18,000 verdict. In a retrial the amount of recovery was limited by the court and the verdict was for $1,200. On an appeal the Superior Court ordered a third trial.

THRIFT GARDEN INCREASE SEEN

An increase of 25 per cent in thrift gardens this year over 1932 is predicted for Allegheny County by the Thrift Garden Committee of the Allegheny County Emergency Association. Cost of operation, however, will not be increased, it was stated.

Produce valued at $450,000 was returned to gardeners last year on an expenditure of less than $35,000. This year additional land has been provided.

3 TO HEAR BAR OUSTER CASE

A committee has been appointed by the Allegheny County Bar Association to conduct proceedings for the suspension of Robert R. Werle, it became known today.

With the appointment of E. H. Wicks, A. M. Oliver and John W. Cost, it was said there are so many disbarment proceedings pending before the Common Pleas Court that Werle's case will be conducted before the board of governors, instead.

Final disbarment proceedings against Harry Irwin Glick are expected to be heard this week. Glick was placed on probation for two years when he pleaded guilty in Criminal Court to a charge of embezzling $1,000 from Jacob O. Fineman, 2257 Shady avenue, a client.

COLLEGE BRIDE WINS DIVORCE

A college-born romance ended in the courts today when Louise G. Ashe, 23, of 5568 Forbes street, was granted a divorce from Edmund M. Ashe, 1241 Murdoch street, by Judge John P. Egan.

Mrs. Ashe testified they were students at Carnegie Tech when they were married April 3, 1928, at Elkton, Md. They were graduated in 1931. Ashe, an art student, refused to allow her to announce the marriage, she said, claiming it would affect his college career.

Following graduation, Ashe went to New York, the wife said, and when she followed, refused to make a home for her. He lived with his parents here, she testified, and refused to live with her at her parents' home.

TWO MAUG MEN GIVEN TERMS

Wallace Biggert was sentenced 7 to 14 years in the Western Penitentiary, and his brother, Roscoe Biggert, 2 to 10 years in the workhouse, when they pleaded guilty before Judge Samuel H. Gardner, in Criminal Court.

Members of the John Maug robber gang, they were implicated in some of the "jobs" for which Maug was sentenced to serve 60 to 120 years and life in the penitentiary. Wallace admitted seven robberies, and Roscoe plead to stealing 11 automobiles.

FAIL TO REVIVE FUMES VICTIM

A three-hour battle of West Penn Hospital physicians to resuscitate George T. Davis, 30, found unconscious behind the steering wheel of his automobile in the garage at his home, 354 Forty-fifth street, proved futile last night.

The victim, overcome by carbon monoxide fumes while working on the car, was found by Isidor Pokorski, of 371 Forty-fourth street. He stopped the engine and telephoned police, who took Davis to the hospital. He was pronounced dead at 9 p. m.

Stanton Avenue Periled by Slide

An earth slide threatened to block traffic in Stanton avenue, near Morningside road, today. About 20 tons of dirt, loosened by rains, piled up along the street. Several trees were loosened, and it was feared they would fall on electric power lines.

Technocracy Expert Talks Here March 27

The newer aspects of technocracy will be discussed by Prof. Walter Rautenstrauch, of Columbia University, Monday evening, March 27, in Carnegie Lecture Hall under the auspices of the Engineers' Society and the League for Social Justice.

DR. BAKER SEES NO WAR PERIL

Adolph Hitler as chancellor of Germany seems altogether inconsistent with German tradition, Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technology, declared in an address at a meeting of the Foreign Policy Association in the Hotel Schenley last night. He said in part:

"He has used methods of stimulation which can hardly be regarded as admirable.

"The recovery of self-confidence has been a great boon to Germany. But in a crisis that is worldwide, when there must be co-operation among the nations, and unquestionably compromises between nations, one wonders whether an excess of nationalism is likely to bring happiness either to the world or to the country in which it exists.

"It is very easy to overestimate the dangers that may come from the present German government. The recent election has aroused bitter hatred within the country and uneasiness abroad, but we ought to dismiss all idea of the possibility of war.

"Hitler has already shown some moderate tendencies. It is to be hoped that he will be able to control his party followers. In any case he must fail as a dictator if he is unable to make compromises with the parties that have been his opponents in the recent election."

CHINESE FIGHT JAP ADVANCE

PEIPING, China, March 16.—(AP.)—Despite the withdrawal of Chang Hsiao-Liang, former North China military overlord, Chinese troops are continuing an active resistance of the Japanese advance at Hsifengkow Pass through the Great Wall, 100 miles northeast of here.

Defense of the pass is in the hands of Gen. Sung Cheh-Yuan, formerly one of the strongest fighters serving under the banner of the Christian general, Feng Yu-Hsiang.

Gen. Sung's 30,000 well-equipped troops include a brigade of the so-called "Big Swords," who hacked some of Chiang Kai-Shek's best divisions to pieces during the Kouminchun revolt two years ago.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 16.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Will Rogers

My bank opened yesterday. Instead of being there to draw my little dab out, I didn't even go to town. Shows you I heard Roosevelt on the radio. Bankers should have over their desks this motto: "God bless Roosevelt, God bless radio, and then, P. S., God bless interest." But I am telling you that Roosevelt should come ahead of interest. And all it took to do these things was to forget about war debts, disarmament, China's plight, Germany's plight, and just concentrate on one week of "America's plight." America can carry herself and get along in pretty fair shape, but when she stops and picks up the whole world and puts it on her shoulders, she just can't "get it done."

Yours, WILL.

OBITUARY

McCandless Funeral.

Funeral services for Miss Margaret McCandless, 88, who died Tuesday in St. Margaret's Hospital, were to be held this afternoon at the Episcopal Church Home, Penn avenue.

Miss McCandless was the daughter of the late William G. McCandless, manager of the Pittsburg Stock Exchange from 1897 until 1927, and one of the founders of the Church of the Epiphany, Bellevue.

Born in Pittsburgh, Miss McCandless lived most of her life in Bellevue with a relative, Miss Ella I. Stoddard, at 31 North Euclid avenue, until Miss Stoddard's death last May. She was an active member of the Church of the Epiphany.

She leaves two nephews, Thomas H. and William W. McCandless, and two nieces, Mrs. C. F. Cook and Mrs. Paul Sutcliffe.

Shaw Funeral.

Funeral services for Attorney Thomas Ewing Shaw, 32, who died Tuesday, were to be held at the home, 5020 Morewood place, this afternoon. He had been associated with the law firm of Reed, Smith, Shaw and McClay.

He was a member of the Allegheny Country Club, the Harvard-Yale-Princeton Club and the Yale Club of New York.

Besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Shaw, he leaves two sisters, Mrs. Rees Townsend Scully and Mrs. George M. Laughlin III.

Extension Slows Income Tax Revenue

The extension of the last day for filing income tax returns was blamed today by Collector D. B. Heiner of the Internal Revenue Department for the $1,110,000 decrease in tax collection from the corresponding date last year.

At midnight the total tax paid was $3,050,000. A year ago it was $4,160,000. A total of 38,800 returns have been made. The final date for filing tax returns has been extended to March 31 and Mr. Heiner expects these totals will be increased by that time.

MOTHER, TWINS DIE IN BLAST

MARTINS FERRY, O., March 16.—A mother and her twin daughters were burned to death and her husband and another daughter were critically burned by a gas explosion in their home here early today.

Mrs. Zelma Yeager, 36, and her twin daughters were fatally burned in the fire that followed the explosion.

Dewey Yeager, the husband, and Eileen, 3, another daughter, are in the local hospital. No hope is held out for the daughter, but physivians said the father has a chance to recover.

'DEVIL' SLAYERS INDICTED

LINDEN, Tex., March 16.—(AP.)—Two backwoods preachers and the father of Bernice Clayton, 3, were under indictment today for the "devil" slaying of the crippled child during weird religious rites last December 19.

The three were Paul Oakley, self-styled "divine healer;" Coy Oakley, who described himself as his brother's "disciple," and the father, Sherman Clayton.

The Cass County Grand Jury was expected to make a formal return of its true bills against them in court today.

Hold Butler Man On Hit-Run Charge

J. C. Carlisle, 28, of 915 East Pearl street, Butler, was arrested by North Side police at 215 Watsonia boulevard early today on a suspicious person charge. Police said he was the driver of the automobile that struck Peter Puntos, 65, of 200 Anderson street, near Puntos' home Tuesday night, and failed to stop.

INDIAN GUILTY OF SLAYING

READING, Pa., March 16.—(AP.)—Chief Running Wolf, one of the leaders of the Bonus Expeditionary Army in Washington, was convicted of voluntary manslaughter in the shooting to death of his wife, Etta, whom he met at the Anacostia camp.

The penalty for voluntary manslaughter is six to 12 years. The Indian will be sentenced later.

The jury's decision came last night after four and a half hours of deliberation.

Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, of B. E. F. fame, had testified to the Chief's good reputation as an influential leader at Camp Anacostia in Washington, D. C.

The state charged the Indian, whose real name is C. W. Taylor, with deliberately shooting his 27-year-old wife, Etta Hunt Taylor, in a restaurant near Hamburg after she refused to return home with him. The defense maintained the woman was shot in self-defense as her husband saw her reach for a pistol.

EINSTEIN GETS CHURCH HONOR; STAYING IN U.S.

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP.)—Prof. Albert Einstein is ranked with Mahatma Gandhi as one of two great benefactors of religion in a medal awarded him by the Community Church of New York.

The medal was presented to the scientist last night as the finale of a testimonial dinner attended by scientists, educators, financiers and leaders of American Jewish philanthropies. The presentation was by the Rev. John Haynes Holmes, of the Community Church.

It was the second award, the first having gone to the Mahatma last year. In the presentation Dr. Holmes said:

> "Pardon me if I express the hope that some day there may be a Christian worthy of this honor."

THREE-FOLD SERVICE

He announced the award to Prof. Einstein for distinguished service to religion. These services were listed as three-fold: First, "devotion to truth in science;" second, "the stupendous range of your thought that restored the original essence of the thought of God;" third, devotion to "universal peace and brotherhood."

Einstein read his speech in German, a plea for support of the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, for peace and for interest in humanity instead of nationalism.

Afterward, a translation of his talk was read. The talk made no mention of Einstein's earlier announcement that "as long as conditions in Germany are as at present I shall not set foot on German soil."

MAY BE U. S. CITIZEN

CHICAGO, March 16.—(Universal)—Prof. Albert Einstein may become an American citizen, Judge Joseph B. David revealed here yesterday.

Judge David returned to Chicago on the same train that brought the distinguished scientist here on his way to New York.

'Wrong' Man Found In Wrecked Auto

Found unconscious behind the steering wheel of an automobile after it crashed into a concrete block retaining wall at Freybury and South Eleventh streets early today, Anthony Fox, 30, of 87 South Twelfth street, was taken to South Side Hospital, where an examination revealed he was uninjured, according to police.

Lodged in a cell in the South Side Police station on a suspicious person charge, Fox denied riding in the machine, police said. A search was being made for the owner.

Rail Heads Attend Thornton Services

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP.)—Brief and simple funeral services were conducted today at St. Thomas' Chapel for Sir Henry Thornton, veteran railroad executive, who died Tuesday. Present were many rail executives from the United States and Canada.

The Rev. R. H. Brooks conducted the services. Burial was to be in Newtown, Pa.

Autoist Flees After Hitting Aged Man

Police today sought a motorist who failed to stop after his machine had struck an aged man at Third avenue and Wood street last night. The victim, Mack E. Davis, 71, of 22 Isabella street, a steamboat engineer, who suffered a possible fracture of the skull, was taken to Mercy Hospital.

Stockyard Employe Falls Dead at Work

Clarence Fawcett, 45, of Seventh street, New Kensington, an employe of the Pittsburgh Stock Yard Company, Herrs Island, fell dead while at work today, according to a report of the Coroner. Fawcett was married and the father of several children.

TROOPS TO HALT FORECLOSURES

BISMARCK, N. D., March 16.—(AP.)—Use of the state militia was ordered by Gov. William Langer today to prevent mortgage foreclosures where sheriffs disregarded his recent proclamation prohibiting such sales.

Langer told Adjt. Gen. Herman A. Brocopp that some sheriffs had disregarded his proclamation of March 4, declaring a moratorium on debts and stopping foreclosures on real and chattel mortgages.

The Governor also sent letters to the 53 sheriffs saying he would protect them against legal liability that might arise from not proceeding with foreclosure sale.

ARREST FARMER ON GUN SPREE

Arthur Lee, 40, a Collier Township farmer, was arrested today by Carnegie police while, they say, he was running amuck with a loaded shotgun, voicing threats to shoot all aliens who threaten to kill President Roosevelt and other high public officials. He was docketed with a charge of pointing firearms.

Chief of Police Christ H. Keisling, Patrolman Joseph Lewis, and Constable Harve Keisling, of Carnegie, responded to the call from Mrs. Henrietta Lee, the farmer's wife. They lay in wait for more than an hour and pounced on the man when he came out of the dnse woods adjoining his 40-acre farm. The gun was loaded, and six additional shells were found in his pickets, police reported.

Convicts Stage Riot And Flee by Boat

BUENOS AIRES, March 16.—(AP.)—A dispatch to the newspaper La Nacion from Santos today said that 150 inmates of the prison on Porcos Island in Santos harbor rioted at noon yesterday, opened the gates of the prison and most of them attempted to escape by boat.

Guards recaptured a number of them en route to the shore and arrested seven who had reached the mainland during the night. Prison officials believed only a few would be able to make good their escape.

ACTOR INJURED BY FILM BOMB

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 16.—(INS.)—Cary Grant, popular British movie actor, was sent back from the "front" today to recover from his "battle wounds."

Grant received a face gash when a bomb exploded prematurely during the filming of a war scene. Doctors said there would be no scars, but ordered the actor to rest for the remainder of the week.

Frederic March, Jack Oakie, Sir Guy Standing and Arthur Rankin were shaken by the blast, but escaped unhurt.

Churchman Slayer Suspect on Trial

INDIANA, Pa., March 16.—(AP.)—Everett G. Wilhelm, 67, today went on trial accused of the murder of John A. Warden, 69, Creekside church official, whose bullet riddled body was found in his fire swept home. He also had been stabbed in the chest with a file. Wilhelm, previously jailed on a charge of disturbing a religious meeting at Warden's church, is alleged by state police to have killed Warden for revenge.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair —With—

Patricia Pitt

The West Indies are beckoning to more and more folks. Many of them, after staying home throughout the winter season, are off for a spring holiday.

Sailing Saturday at midnight on the Mauretania for a West Indies cruise will be a group of Pittsburgh and Sewickley folks.

Mrs. T. Raymond Evans will sail with her young daughters, Virginia and Betty; Mrs. C. A. Verner with her granddaughter Barbara Verner; the Benjamin Rush Bradford Townsends with their daughter, Elizabeth, and son, James; Mrs. Frank J. Kier with her son, A. Myler Kier.

Dr. and Mrs. Horace G. Painter, and Dr. L. W. Hall, all of Irwin, Pa., also will sail on the Mauretania.

Visits Springs

Recent arrivals at the Greenbrier, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., include Mrs. Thomas J. Hilliard and Mrs. L. N. Murray.

And I hear that the Lewis A. Parks, of Sewickley Heights, are at Del Monte Lodge, Pebble Beach, Cal., for the polo season.

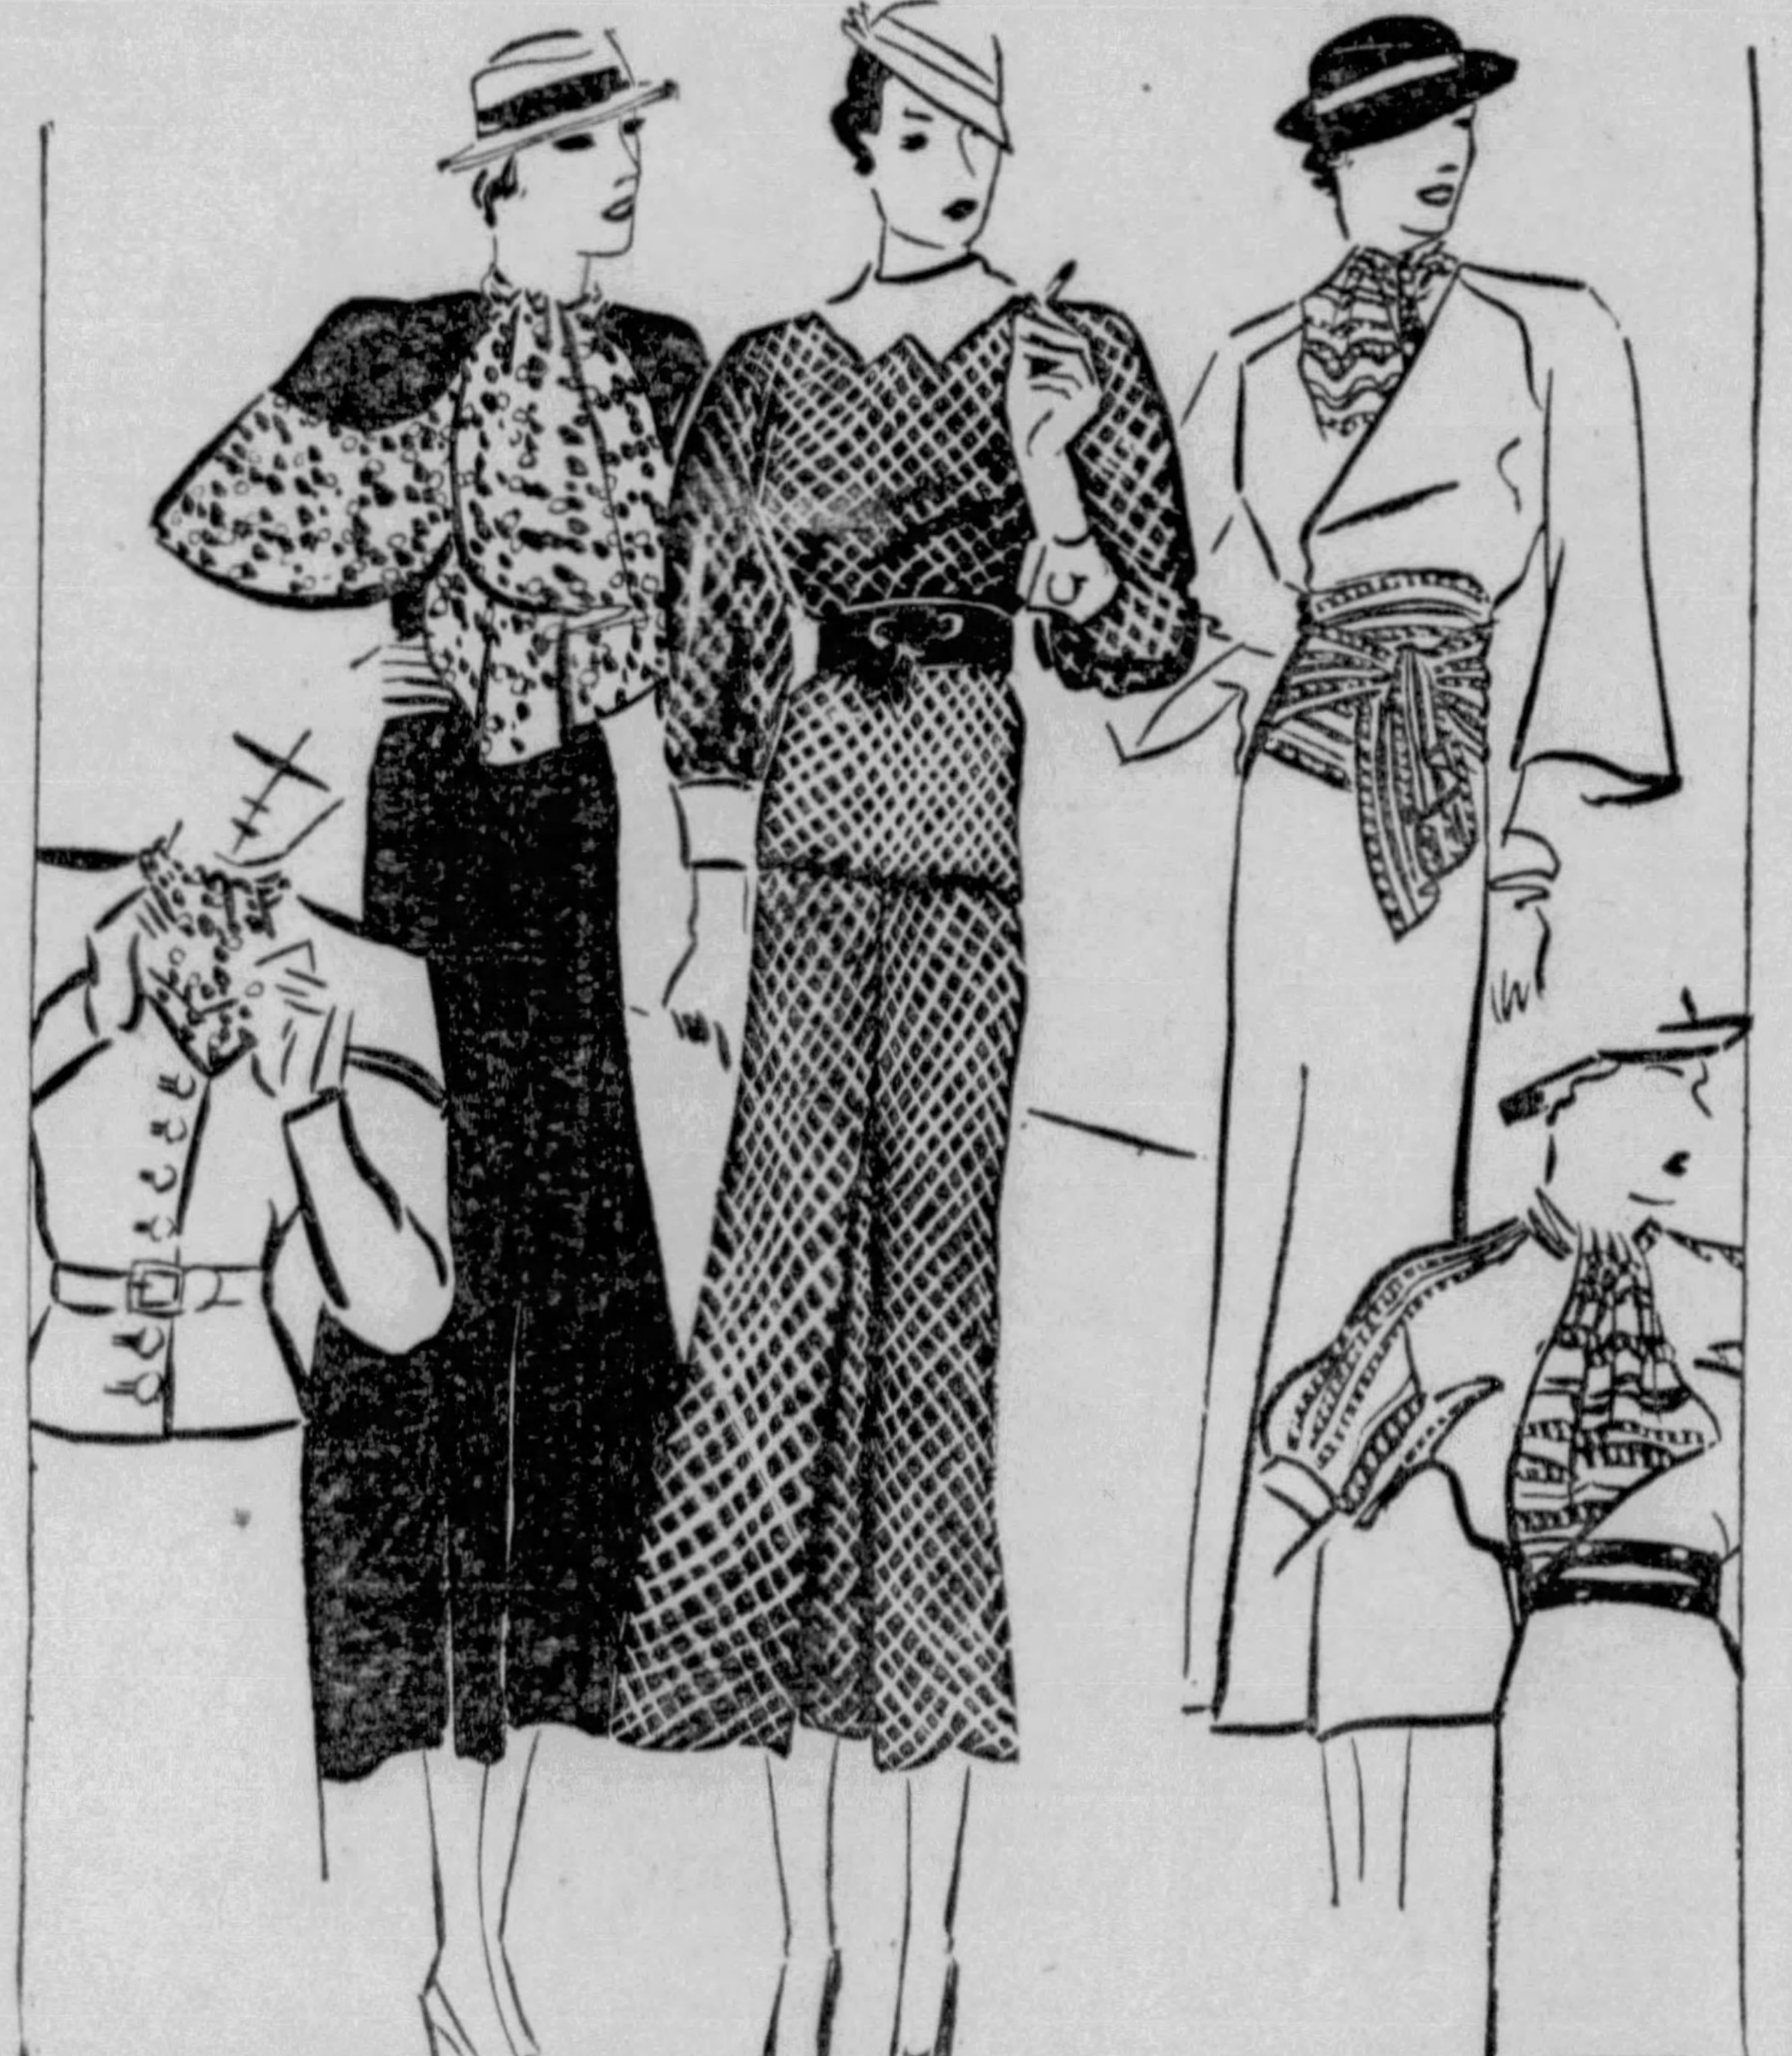
FASHION NOTES PRESAGE NEW USE OF TINY PRINT PATTERNS

By KAY JOHNSON



EVERY AMERICAN woman loves prints and this year fashion decrees that they shall be small. The material may be rough or ribbed like a silk serge, smooth as the foulard in men's ties or have a close resemblance to a patterned woolen. They can be gay or gray, combined with almost any fabric. Three good examples of their uses are shown above.

* * *

THE FIRST, on the left, is a three-piece costume combining a dress, jacket and detachable cape. The figured silk that makes the top of the dress and decorates the cape is of blue with coin dots in greenish yellow, combined with the plain blue wool of the dress and jacket. Worn either with the cape or the jacket the dress follows the lines of the cape in its use of the print, with small jabots instead of the large scarf. The collarless jacket buttons high at the neck.

* * *

THE TWO-PIECE dress in the center in in a geometric white and blue design with collar and cuffs of white pique. The long blouse has large blue buttons all the way up the back and the matching leather belt has an amusing fastening of white rings and leather tips.

* * *

200 Unemployed Women In Homemakers' School

Right food as the remedy for many ills, both of body and mind, was stressed by Mrs. Taylor Allderdice in the cheery little speech with which she formally opened the homemakers' school at Utility Hall yesterday afternoon.

Nearly 200 unemployed women of all ages registered for the eight-week course, which has been expanded to include a Friday afternoon session each week.

The preparation and service of meals will be taught on Wednesdays and the food prepared at each day's demonstration will be awarded as an attendance prize. On Fridays the women will be taught laundry work and the use of electrical equipment.

There's an evening class on Mondays, too, for women who have employment but are eager to become more proficient. The schools are sponsored by the women's advisory council of the Salvation Army and are directed by Miss Karen Fladoes.

NO 'ECONOMY' SCHOOL TERM FOR COUNTY

Any hopes that 86,000 school students, in districts under supervision of County Supt. C. E. Dickey may have held for an extended vacation through shortened school terms this year were dissipated today when Dr. Dickey announced that to his knowledge none of the districts would curtail their legal terms as an economy measure.

This assurance followed announcement by Supt. C. Herman Groce, of Mt. Lebanon school district, that its present school term of nine and a half months will be reduced by two weeks, because of delinquent taxes totaling $185,000. Mt. Lebanon, one of 20 independent districts within the county not under Dickey's supervision, will suffer no cut in its state aid appropriation, as it will still comply with the legal minimum of nine months of school, Dr. Dickey explained.

Holding that the districts' intention of providing full school terms "is a very good indication of their belief in the value of education," Dr. Dickey explained the penalties to districts falling below minimum term requirements:

"Such school districts would forfeit their state appropriation covering the period they were closed within the requirement which is eight months in fourth class districts and nine months in third class districts."

Twenty-six hundred school teachers thus are reasonably assured of full term salaries, excepting any possible salary adjustments that may have been made, he pointed out.

DENIES HE USED GUN ON DEBTOR

Denying he had used a gun to collect a debt contracted while he and the debtor were in jail, Andrew Wilgomas, alias Williams, 20, of 1025 Manhattan street, was released on his own recognizance pending further investigation today.

On a postal card mailed police, L. Urban, of 77 South Twentieth street, complained Wilgomas met him in Federal street Tuesday night, pointed a gun at him, and demanded he pay an old debt of $12. Urban said he already had paid. He gave Wilgomas a check and later stopped payment on it, he said.

Urban failed to appear at a hearing in Morals Court this morning. Wilgomas said while they were in jail, Urban told him that for $12 he could obtain bail for him. When Urban was released, Wilgomas told him to go to his mother and get the money, he said. Urban got the money and disappeared, Wilgomas stated, and the witness saw no more of him until they met Tuesday night.

Foreman Arrested In Ford Robbery

Jess A. Mayfield, 42, of 5196 Baum boulevard, foreman of the Ford Motor Company assembling works at 5000 Baum boulevard, was held for further hearing on a charge of being a suspicious person lodged against him following robbery of $3,300 from a safe in the Ford works. Detectives said the robbery was an inside job, with a company acetylene torch used to open the vault.

Armed Pair Robs Homewood Grocery

Two armed robbers walked into the A. & P. store, 1028 North Lang avenue, early today and held up the manager, E. C. Nicholson, and robbed the cash register of $15. They fled to a car in which a companion was waiting.

Robbers last night broke into the dry goods store of Philip Kabatchnick, 503 Larimer avenue, and escaped with $125 cash and $350 merchandise, he reported to police.

Break Into House, Man Unconscious

Alarmed by his absence from his usual haunts, relatives of Julius Nagy, 65, of 7254 Upland street, Homewood, broke into his home late last night and discovered him in an unconscious condition as result of a stroke. He was taken to St. Francis Hospital where his condition is critical. Nagy lives alone.

Widely-Known Rabbi Dies in Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, March 16.—(AP.)—Rabbi Max Lieberman, 64, a widely-known leader and organizer in the Jewish church, died at a hospital here yesterday. He was born in Russia. He entered the ministry at Bradford, Pa.

Spinster Pays Penny as Tax On Income

HARRISBURG, March 16.—(INS.)—The internal revenue office here today claimed the record low for an income tax return.

An unmarried woman appeared at the office with her return all filled out. An income of 24 cents over the $1,000 exemption was shown. The tax was a penny, or, precisely nine and six-tenths mills. The woman gave the affidavit, paid the cent to a smiling collector and departed. The collector explained:

"It would have been easy to shave off that 24 cents, but she made out the blank herself, and it would have been a shame to mar such honesty."

NATIONAL AD HOLIDAY ENDS

NEW YORK, March 16.—(INS.)—National advertisers who were forced to cancel their schedules in newspapers during the banking holiday were rapidly re-instating the schedules today.

Re-instatement of of six more national accounts and one large local account had been reported today to the American Association of Advertising Agencies, according to F. R. Gamble, executive secretary.

Several of these re-instatements were made several days ago.

Among this class was the Chesterfield cigaret advertising, which was withdrawn for only two days.

Other re-instatements included the accounts for Lea & Perrins products, Freezone, Gulden's mustard, Radiotrons and Outgrow. Several more re-instatements were promised to agencies today. The large local schedule resumed was that of the Fred F. French Company.

Gamble said that few accounts had been cancelled in magazines or on the radio.

WOMAN TO SAIL WITH CACHETS

Miss Rosalyn Miller, one of the volunteer secretaries for Father Cox in his unemployment relief activities, will sail for Rome on the Belgenland Saturday. She is on a double mission—first to take approximately 4,000 Holy Year cachets to Vatican City for mailing to the United States, April 2. These are specially designed envelopes, printed in purple and gold, in commemoration of the nineteenth centenary of the birth of Christ, and are to be mailed from the Vatican City postoffice on the above date, which marks the opening of Holy Year as decreed by Pope Pius XI.

These cachets are addressed to every nook and corner of the United States—to persons who donated 25 cents to the Old St. Patrick's Church breadline fund. Names and addresses will be added to the list as late as noon tomorrow.

Miss Miller's second mission is to make advance arrangements for the Holy Year pilgrimage Father Cox will sponsor from the Pittsburgh area in June. She leaves Pittsburgh tomorrow night and will remain in Rome until the Father Cox pilgrimage arrives.

Bandits Torture, Rob 4 on New York Farm

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., March 16.—(AP.)—Police are searching for four men who forced their way into the farm house of Mrs. Sophia Jannubuker, near Clifton Park, last night, attacked Mrs. Jannubuker and three other persons, tortured them with a heated butcher knife, and robbed them of $60.

The others attacked were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Solomon, who lived with Mrs. Jannubuker, and Oscar Harold, a hired man.

REDUCE NOW WITHOUT THYROID WITHOUT SALTS WITHOUT DIET

Here's wonderful news for women who want to make their figures slim and lovely. A great physician, who has specialized in research with the Pasteur Institute of Paris and famous clinics of America, has discovered an absolutely harmless tablet that will take off 8 or 10 pounds a month.

Now it is absurd for anyone to take dangerous drugs, or a daily dose of laxative salts that rushes food through the system half digested, and leads to chronic constipation. The new treatment contains no Thyroid Extract, no laxative drugs at all. It is a safe, natural regulator of the digestive ferments (Lipases) which control the production of fat in all human bodies.

You don't have to starve yourself or go through painful exercises. You simply take the tablets each day and continue to eat three ample meals. The fat disappears at just the places where you want to lose it. We will donate $500 to charity if anyone can prove that Vannay contains Thyroid, Iodine or any harmful drugs.

Start the treatment at once and all your fondest dreams of health and slim loveliness should come true. Ask your druggist for Vannay and be sure to see that name on the package. If he doesn't have Vannay, insist that he orders it for you.

"I was Tired and Cross"

"I was so tired and cross with the children, I didn't want anyone to come around me. Every month I suffered terribly so that I couldn't do my work. After taking two bottles of your medicine I feel as I had been born again. I am strong and jolly and like to have company."

MRS. B. R. NYE
1319 S. Kentucky, Sedalia, Mo.

Try this medicine yourself. Find out why half a million women say, "It helps me." Liquid or tablet form. At all drug stores.

VAIL PLAYERS IN BANKRUPTCY

A voluntary petition in bankruptcy filed in Federal Court today was the final curtain for the Edward Vail Players, Inc. Margaret Anglin, famous actress, still is waiting for $170, part of her salary for appearing here.

Angelo Lucenti, contractor, president of the organization, filed the petition, listing liabilities of $26,056.84, with no assets. The company owes George Sharp, manager and producer, $29 salary, and the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company $7,718.20 for rent of the Pitt Theater. The company operated here for several months during the winter.

State Sales Tax In Illinois Seen

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 16.—(INS.)—The 3 per cent state sales tax, which the House adopted last night by a vote of 103 to 45, went to the Senate today for concurrence in amendments. Early approval by the Senate was looked for, inasmuch as that body had previously passed the sales tax measure.

Administration leaders predict that the sales tax will produce $60,000,000 annually, most of which will be used for relief funds.

Douglas H. Stewart, Noted Doctor, Dies

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP.)—Dr. Douglas Hunt Stewart, 72, originator of the injection method of treating varicose veins and inventor of several surgical instruments, died yesterday as the result of a stroke suffered Sunday night.

Dr. Stewart was entirely deaf for 35 years, but he carried on a large private practice and was an accomplished pianist. He played by resting a bamboo strip just above the keyboard and holding the other end between his teeth, so that the vibrations were transmitted to his head.

Los Angeles Picked For U.S. Air Races

LOS ANGELES, March 16.—(AP.)—The American speed planes will fly to Los Angeles for the 1933 national air races, July 1 to 4, inclusive. It will be the first time since 1928 the honor has been given the city in which the races originated.

Hiram Bingham, president of the National Aeronautical Association, wired Clifford Henderson, managing director of the races, from Washington that the Los Angeles bid has been accepted and that the association has sanctioned the selection.

Alliance Told Of Bells by Mylrea

Some extremely interesting facts concerning "Bells and Carillons" were detailed to the Woman's Alliance of the First Unitarian Church yesterday morning by T. D. Mylrea, of Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Few people can distinguish good bells from poor ones, because there are so few good ones to be heard, Mr. Mylrea said. There are about 40 carillons in this country and not half a dozen expert players, he said.

The largest bells in the world are those in the Tower of Ivan in the Kremlin, which weigh 216 tons. Four Russian bells are in the Woods Run district here. Incidentally, Mr. Mylrea said, Russian bells are never swung; they are hammered. Bells that once required eight men to ring are now operated at the pressing of a button.

Wilkinsburg Girl Scouts To Mark Anniversary

A rally of all Wilkinsburg Girl Scouts is to be held tomorrow evening in the Allison School Auditorium to commemorate the twenty-first anniversary of Girl Scouting in America. Each troop in the borough will have a part in the program which includes first aid demonstration, Troop 149, Baptist Church; puppet show, Troop 57, Waverly Church; fire prevention, Troop 141, First United Presbyterian Church; a playlet, Troop 154, Second Presbyterian Church; signalling, Troop 123, Mifflin Avenue Methodist Church, and a play, by Troop 147, First Presbyterian Church.

Songs will be led by Isabel Hartman. Mrs. Arnold M. Replogle., chairman of the East District Girl Scout Committee, will introduce Mrs. Laura H. MacDonald, who will talk on the worth of Girl Scouting.

This is the second of a series of Spring Fashion Sales. We agree with you that the newest in the world is valueless if it's bizarre—if no one but a professional mannequin could wear it. We've weighed and considered, and included only those new things that are supremely becoming.

This year hats raise themselves from squashed pancakes to actual high-hat altitude. Whether it's the fez in the original Maria Guy design, the fez in tiers (like one on top another), the lower crowned sailor with height in its quills, it's a hat you'll wear with your chin up! Fabrics, straw fabrics and stiff straws in spirited colors.

PAY SHAKEDOWN CHARGED HERE

Paid 70 cents an hour, 50 building trades laborers have filed complaint with Miss Emmelinne Pitt, local labor commissioner, that they had been forced to "rebate" 50 per cent of their wages to a "take-off" man.

The complaint has been forwarded to Washington, Miss Pitt said. She added:

"If conditions are as bad as my preliminary investigation indicates, the Labor Department most certainly will take drastic action."

The first complaint was filed by laborers employed by Ryan and Johnson, sub-contractors for brickwork on the Bell Telephone Company building at Forward and Murray avenues, and the Jewish Home for the Aged, Brown's place, Squirrel Hill.

Harry Carter, a fellow-employe, named as "take-off" man, said he paid the money to M. N. Johnson, a member of the contracting firm, according to Miss Pitt. Admitting Carter's statement, Johnson said the "rebate" was agreed to by the men when they were employed.

TWO RUM RAIDS IN EAST LIBERTY

County detectives visited two East End speakeasies and arrested one man as a proprietor today. The alleged proprietor of the other place escaped over the roof. The officers, led by Frank Ritz, reported confiscation of beer, whisky and gin.

The establishments, they said, were at 5637 Harvard street, occuping three floors, and the Political Club at 145 South St. Clair street, within a block and a half of the police station. Jimmy Komrad, alleged to be the proprietor of the former, was held for court by Alderman Thomas M. Geary under $1,000 bail on a charge of violating the Snyder act.

Workhouse Term For Check Forger

Willie Watson, alias Woodson Evans, Negro, changed his mind a second time and pleaded guilty today, before Judge S. H. Gardner, to having forged a check. He was sentenced from one to two years in the workhouse. Yesterday he entered a plea, then withdrew it.

RETIRED, HE WON'T BE RECALLED!

HERBERT LAGEMAN, MT. ROYAL, WITH RETIRED CHARLEY . . . VETERAN OF BEER WAGONS

TRUCKS TO HAUL BEER HERE

Beer may be coming back, but Charley, Jim and Joe seem to have gone for good.

In the "good old days," before prohibition, scores of beer wagons rumbled through the streets, drawn by the Charleys, Jims and Joes, huge dray horses. But as the brewing companies here prepare for legalization of beer again, apparently the horse does not figure in their plans.

It was said today the beer wagon may come back in time, but it is more likely motor trucks will have replaced them completely. Long rows of stalls stand vacant in the stables of the pre-prohibition breweries. It is difficult to find a horse that served on the wagons.

VETERAN IN PASTURE

There is, however, one old veteran living in near retirement in Mt. Royal. He is Charley, some quarter of a century old, and white with age. Once he was a dappled gray, a perfect mate for Jim. They drew one of the Pittsburgh Brewing Company's wagons two decades ago.

Another veteran of the brewery stables still is on the job. He is Alfred Lederer, and although the horses long since have gone, he still is the stable boss at the Pittsburgh Brewing Company plant. He has been there 37 years, and recalls fondly the days when there were 148 horses quartered there, and 110 men to drive and care for them.

Lederer, guardian of the empty stalls and the few long-idle wagons that remain, doesn't think the horse will come back, but he's glad anyhow that beer is likely to return.

SEES MORE JOBS

He explains, it isn't because of his own thirst, saying:

"I never drank intoxicants in my life, but don't you think it will be fine when they start the breweries going and give men work? Why, it used to be our harness repair bill alone amounted to $150 a month. We used tons of hay and feed, and there was work for a lot of men."

There are hundreds of applications for jobs being made at the three breweries in Pittsburgh. Working forces will be increased but, officials explained, the number of new men will be comparatively few, since the companies already have employes who are working part time in the manufacture and distribution of soft drinks.

ROBBERS STEAL SAFE, $3,500

An old-fashioned safe containing $3,500 was stolen last night from the bedroom of John Sobeiski, retired saloonkeeper, of 24 Second street, Rankin, borough police and county detectives revealed today as they recovered $500 of the missing money.

Sobeiski kept his rent collections in the safe, he informed police. Last night while he and other members of his family were absent from home, four men, who entered by a cellar window, carried the safe to the basement and through a tunnel to the garage, where they loaded it into an automobile.

Rankin police reported $500 had been recovered from the unemployed father of one of the alleged robbers. He also gave a description of the car in which his son and three other men were seen last night, it is said. The four and the safe are being sought.

ENGLAND BIDS MELLON ADIEU

LONDON, March 16.—(INS.)—Returning to the United States tomorrow aboard the Leviathan, Andrew W. Mellon, retiring American ambassador, was inundated today by messages of farewell.

Diplomatic representatives and government officials called at the embassy to express their regrets over his departure. Scores of letters and telegrams were received from all over Europe.

In a brief message to International News Service, Mellon said he deeply regretted leaving England after his "enjoyable stay, both in a private and official capacity," but added that he, nevertheless, looks forward to returning home.

Mellon leaves England in good health. A troublesome chest cough has now virtually disappeared.

R.F.C. Makes Loans For 3 States' Needy

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP.)—Three emergency relief loans were approved today by the Reconstruction Corporation, $4,500 going to Tennessee; $37,439 to Ohio, and $66,492 to Michigan.

The Michigan loan is to be used in Detroit during March; the Ohio loan in Jefferson and Carroll counties during March, and the Tennessee loan in Bradley County from March 16 to March 31.

Boy, 15, Sentenced To Debtor's Cell Six Months

CHICAGO, March 16.—(INS.)—William Weber, 15, today was ordered committed to a debtor's cell in Cook County Jail for six months to satisfy a "malicious injury" judgment of $2,500 which he is unable to pay.

The youth was sentenced by Judge J. C. Van Keuren when he was unable to pay the $2,500 judgment to Mrs. Lucille Saliba, whom he injured in an automobile accident. There is no appeal from the commitment, and the youth must serve out his six months' sentence as long as the plaintiff maintains weekly payments for his keep.

Plunges to Death From Taft Bridge

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(INS.)—Donald R. Cameron, 33, employed by a local contracting firm, leaped 100 feet to his death from the Taft Bridge spanning Rock Creek drive today.

SCORES LEGION ECONOMY PLAN

Sacrifice of worthy veterans, widows and other dependents of World War dead, to keep thousands of non-combatants on the government compensation rolls was seen today by Erl C. B. Gould, secretary of the Pittsburgh branch of the National Economy League, in the American Legion proposal to reduce all veteran compensation by 25 per cent. He said:

"We do not see the justification of cutting the $40 allowance to the widow, with one child, of a soldier who gave his life in the trenches, when a veteran disabled by falling from a ladder 14 years after the war can receive the same allowance, plus free hospitalization and doctor's care."

The league supports President Roosevelt's statement that the cost of the national government can be reduced $1,000,000,000. They are strongly opposing the $452,000,000 compensation for non-service connected disabilities.

MOVIE 'KIDDER' WRITING FILM

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP.)—George S. Kaufman, the former Pittsburgh playwright who has delighted in "kidding" the movies from Broadway stages, is finally going to Hollywood himself.

Samuel Goldwyn announced today that Kaufman is collaborating with Robert Sherwood in writing a movie for Eddie Cantor. He will go to the Coast to help direct its production.

Although Kaufman has sold movie rights on his plays, he has repeatedly refused to write screen originals or to consider a trip to the studios.

It was two years ago, while Kaufman was playing the part of a playwright in "Once in a Lifetime," which poked fun at movie magnates, that Goldwyn first met the actor-writer and began the attempt, finally successful, to get him to write for the films.

M'CLURE MOVES TO RECONSIDER SCHWARTZ BILL

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, March 16.—Senator John J. McClure, Republican organization leader whose vote against the Schwartz bill Tuesday killed Blue Law revision for this year, today tried to wriggle himself back into public favor with a pledge to move next Monday for reconsideration of the vote which defeated the liberal measure, together with a promise of amendments in the nature of a straddle reminiscent of the Senator's attitude in Chicago last summer on the national prohibition plank.

McClure, whose negative vote caused consternation in his own county and brought criticism from politicians who have been associated with him in the past, today said he was "at no time favorable to the bill in the form in which it was presented or amended in the Senate."

STATEMENTS CONFLICT

This declaration collided with statements from other sources that McClure himself had participated in the amendment of the bill, and had worked diligently to have the Delaware County member of the House vote for the bill. From one reliable source it was learned that McClure had participated in "secret conferences" which attempted to steer the bill to success in the Senate, the other participants in these conferences being amazed when McClure voted against the measure.

The amendments proposed by McClure would make inoperative for this year any revision of the Blue Law of 1794. He would prevent any change in the existing attitude toward Sunday observance without a state-wide referendum, later to be supplemented by local referenda.

He would have the voters either at the September primary or the general election in November decide in a state-wide ballot whether local municipalities should be authorized to change the Sunday laws.

WOULD DELAY CHANGE

If this authorization was not adopted at special elections, the first chance for any locality to change the laws would be the state-wide primary in the spring of 1934.

There was considerable speculation about the capital today as to why Senator McClure had not offered his present suggestion before the bill was voted on Tuesday. The Schwartz measure was before the Senate for three weeks after it passed the House, yet there was no evidence on the floor that Senator McClure held the ideas he now expresses.

Some liberalists hold that the Senator has been perturbed at the storm of editorial criticism which has met his vote, and is seeking a way to placate that objection while at the same time, in line with his desire to become a state political leader, holding out a hand to the church element.

If McClure moves to reconsider the vote, and if there are no changes other than his own partial about-face, the result will be a 25-to-25 tie. In that event Lieut. Gov. Edward Shannon is expected to cast the deciding vote in favor of reconsideration, as he was prepared to vote for Blue Law modification Tuesday had the vote been a tie.

BRANDT SHIFT URGED

Not much enthused by McClure's reluctant and hesitant suggestion, repealists are endeavoring to influence Senator Herman Brandt, of Allegheny County, to change his stand. Brandt was the sole Allegheny Countian to vote against the Schwartz bill. If the McClure reconsideration move should prevail, the accession of Brandt to the bill would enable the liberalists to push the measure through without the delaying amendments McClure proposes.

Brandt was not in the capital yesterday, departing for home shortly after he voted against the bill.

$214,938 RELIEF OVERHEAD PAID

HARRISBURG, March 16.—(AP.)—The State Emergency Relief Board today allocated $214,938 to 58 county boards for administrative expenses this month.

Allegheny County's share is $64,123. Of this sum $51,533 is for salaries and wages; $12,590 for other expenses.

The money comes from the federal relief funds loaned to Pennsylvania. It is to be used to pay wages and salaries of investigators, auditors, stenographers and other employees.

In a statement accompanying this announcement the state board asserted 2,400 persons employed in distributing relief in the 58 counties are paid from federal money. Money contributed by local sources pays other salaries, and in addition a number of persons are giving volunteer services to relief agencies.

The average wage of the employes is $75 per month, the board said.

Auto, Trolley Crash; Driver Hurt, 7 Shaken

Seven passengers on a Carrick street car were shaken up early today when an automobile driven by Neal A. Howsare, 2[illegible], of Whitlock, collided headon with the trolley in South [illegible], near St. Michael's street. Howsare was taken to South Side Hospital suffering lacerations and probable internal injuries.

POLITICS

Probers Face Test Of Sincerity

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, March 16.—The Senate Utility Investigating Committee next Monday will have a chief counsel, perhaps an appropriation, and all the outward appurtenance of an inquisitorial body which means business.

Mr. Shields

However, just as no law is self-enforcing, neither is an outward appurtenance a certification of action, and judgment as to the vigor of the committee, questioned for two months, and intensified since the row between Chairman John J. McClure and J. K. Eaton, must be withheld.

Mr. Eaton resigned as counsel because he thought Senator McClure was pulling his punches. He rebuffed overtures looking to his return, as did his associates, J. Julius Levy and J. Cullen Ganey.

Reeling about for more than a week, the committee now has named Franklin Spencer Edmonds as counsel. Mr. Edmonds is a former member of the Legislature. He was known as an independent. He now is head of the taxation committee of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce, which may or may not be a recommendation.

* * *

Probers Anxious For Approval of Choice

Members of the committee after they had named him yesterday were eager that the selection be well received. They were hopeful that there would be something doing, realizing fully that the manner in which Eaton had departed had dramatized the recent lethargy of the inquisitors.

They pointed out that Mr. Edmonds is a good lawyer—which is true. They explained that Mr. Edmonds is a tenacious person—which is true.

They intimated that if he opened a trail he would run it to its end, without fear or favor, not caring whether utilities were embarrassed or not. And that Mr. Edmonds must prove himself.

The committee members—or those of them who are somewhat concerned about the happenings of the past 10 days—are plaintively hopeful that Mr. Edmonds will bounce them about and become boss of the committee, whether he affronts the chairman or not. If he does he will save other senators much anguish and protect them in not doing something which they have not heretofore done, asserting themselves rather than continuing as echoes in the valley.

Edmonds is author of the Edmonds school act, a target for revision in the present session, but this has nothing to do with his present employment. He is eminently respectable, in a legal sense, and that was something the committee sought as an antidote to the odium which fell upon it as an upshot of the row with Mr. Eaton.

* * *

Can't Explain Failure To Assist Eaton

Various members are hurt at the manner in which Mr. Eaton left them. They point out that they upheld him in his controversy with McClure which is unquestioned. But they are and have been somewhat reticent as to why they did not previously take matters into their own hands on some of the committee's succession of executive sessions—and give Mr. Eaton strength to go ahead with what he wanted to do.

Incidentally, Senator McClure denies that the utility bill he has prepared was drawn with the assistance of Attorneys Frank Hunter, of the Philadelphia Electric Company, or Ed Griffith, of the Philadelphia Company. The McClure bill has become the chief vehicle of utility legislative reform, and the bills prepared by the investigating committee after months of work are no more than step-children, though the formality is being gone through of referring them to a sub-committee—of which Senator McClure is chairman.

Chairman Clyde L. King, of the Public Service Commission, while he is quiet for the moment in his feud with his one-time firm friend, Gov. Pinchot, still has some shots in the locker. Dr. King is determined in his statement that the Governor tried to play ducks and drakes with the personnel of the commission.

This was denied in a joint statement by Commissioners Stahlnecker, Goodnough and Woodruff—though the latter is understood to have signed that portion of the statement with reluctance.

So Dr. King is going to publish eventually what his friends refer to as "the record." And if he does it will develop that at least one employe of the Commission, its secretary, Louis Tevell, was a target of those who hoped a Pinchot-controlled Commission would appoint Pinchot patriots. And the successor to Mr. Tevell, if Dr. King had not blocked the play, was to have been a Pittsburgher.

KAUFMANN AID APPEAL SET BY HOUSE

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, March 16.—A subcommittee of the House Committee on Unemployment will go to Washington Saturday to urge federal officials and members of Congress to pay heed to the work relief plan of Edgar J. Kaufmann, Pittsburgh merchant.

Kaufmann, after his plan had been tentatively approved by the House yesterday, appeared late in the afternoon before the Emergency Relief Board and at the conclusion of his presentation Attorney General William A. Schnader was instructed to study the proposal as to its legal aspects.

The House, in a resolution yesterday instructing the Unemployment Committee to confer with federal officials, asked that Schnader send one of his deputies to Washington to act as legal adviser.

REACTION AWAITED

Kaufmann, who left Harrisburg late last night after a day of almost constant conference, probably will appear in Washington Saturday with the House committee. In Pittsburgh today Kaufmann expects to receive additional information from the national capital as to reactions to his proposal.

Representative P. B. Rice, of Dauphin County, chairman of the Unemployment Committee, probably will be the chief state spokesman at Washington. Rice, after a study of the Kaufmann plan, indorsed it as the fundamental basis of a means of creating employment, advocating work relief rather than food orders as a means of providing for the unemployed.

STERLING MAY ATTEND

Representative Philip Sterling, who brought the Kaufmann plan to the attention of the Legislature, may accompany the Unemployment Committee to the national capital.

Sterling, as chairman of a joint legislative committee which has just reported on a plan for governmental economy, hopes to save sufficient money to provide the means for whatever form of relief finally is decided upon by the Legislature. His attitude was today that the Kaufmann plan would obviate the necessity for any extensive appropriations for food orders or direct relief.

Such money as can be made available by the state and the federal Reconstruction Finance Corporation would be utilized for work relief under the Kaufmann plan, a goal which has been sought by nearly every member of the Legislature.

SCHOOL HEADS WARN OF CUT IN FUNDS

HARRISBURG, March 16.—(AP.)—The Pennsylvania State School Directors' Association says any decreases in the state's subsidies will bring a collapse of the commonwealth's educational structure.

The directors expressed their views yesterday in a letter to Gov. Pinchot, Dr. James N. Rule, superintendent of public instruction, and the Legislature.

For the 1931-33 biennium, the state gave the schools $56,000,000, but the Governor has recommended a $3,000,000 reduction for the next two years.

The directors' letter said:

"Sources of local income have dried up to so great an extent that there is grave concern in hundreds of school districts about their ability to open and operate their schools the coming year."

PLEDGE ACTION IN UTILITY QUIZ

PHILADELPHIA, March 16.—(AP.)—A promise that he would "use the best endeavors" to see that the Senate Utilities Committee inquiry results "in definite good to all the people of Pennsylvania" had been made today by Franklin Spencer Edmonds, the committee's new chief counsel. He said:

"I still hold a number of shares of public utilities stock, but I do not think that will have any bearing on my efforts to conduct this inquiry.

"After all, the inquiry, as I understand it, is to find out how the public service law operated. It is to the interest of both the citizens and the utilities alike."

MONESSEN, Pa., March 16.—Monessen today carried to the Public Service Commission its fight to cut the city street lighting bill. The West Penn Power Company has refused to lessen the brilliance of the city's "White Way" on the ground that the terms of a five-year contract signed in 1930 must be met.

The city asked that the candle power be reduced or half the lights turned off in order to save $3,000 to $4,000 a year on the municipal light bill. The power company recently granted a street lighting rate reduction of 5 per cent.

TELL IT TO ELSIE -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By ELSIE ROBINSON

People Should Not Brood Over Old Hurts

Ever have something happen to you that made you lose your faith in everyone?

Something that spoiled all the beauty and joy of life; robbed the day of its sunlight, and the night of its stars?

Yes? Then you'll know how desolate the days are to Freda.

Did you win through it? Can she?

Dear Miss Robinson:

I wonder if you can help me with a terribly important problem—a problem that is breaking my heart—that I want to settle one way, and yet am afraid to.

I am not so very old; just 30. I have been married. In fact I am really married now, except that I don't think of myself that way, because the experience has been so dreadfully unhappy, and I have not lived with my husband for two years.

WAS VERY HAPPY

As a girl I was very serious and very idealistic. I didn't mess around and neck, like so many of the girls do, because love—and later, marriage—seemed sacred to me. I was popular enough, though, and had plenty of beauty, but I never took any of them seriously until Jim came along. Then I thought I had met my one man.

We went together for a year, and then married, and oh! how happy I was! Life seemed so beautiful! I didn't mind that he didn't have much. I was strong and ambitious. I didn't mind that I had to keep my house myself, and do my own washing and sewing. I didn't mind economizing, because we were buying a little home.

Things went on, as happy as could be, or so I thought, for four years. Then a peppy young divorcee came to town, and began making a play for any man who would notice her. And it wasn't long before I discovered that she had Jim, hook, line and sinker. He had begun to get ahead by that time, so that we had a small car, and his future looked pretty bright.

LEFT HUSBAND

When I found it out I was stunned. Everything I had ever dreamed of came crashing down around my ears. I packed up and left him—and he let me go. He said he loved this woman.

Well, it wasn't long before she saw bigger game, and gave him the air. That was a year and a half ago. Now and then I heard about Jim through friends. He was working hard and playing hard, too. Recklessly, it seemed.

Well, the other day he called me up. He said he had had a bitter lesson, that he had found he loved me and couldn't get along without me. He wanted me back.

I have seen him several times since then, and oh! I do still love him! But I am afraid. How am I ever to trust him again? I want to, but I can't seem to do it. What shall I do? I am nearly distracted. I don't know which way to turn. FREDA.

Shall you give him another chance? Well, how would you feel if the situation were reversed? Suppose you were the one who had made a mistake, and who asked for forgiveness? Would you feel that you deserved another chance?

You don't know what sort of a mistake you'll make, until the temptation comes along, Freda. Jim didn't plan to make his mistake, either. But, somehow, he drifted into it.

And perhaps you, yourself, were a bit to blame.

FORGIVE AND FORGET

You had been married for four years. You had worked hard and, I suspect, you had forgotten how to play. Life had lost its glamor, and for a while this other girl seemed to help him to find it again. So he fell for her.

Looking back at it now, you can both see that slip, in all its blackness. But it didn't seem black then. It seemed simple and natural—just a little reckless fun to offset the dullness of life.

Try to see it all through Jim's eyes, Freda. You'd want another chance if you had done wrong and were lonely and heartsick. Then "do unto others as you would wish them to do unto you." Give your man that forgiveness you, yourself, may some day need. And after you are together, take a tip from the past—and don't go too domestic again.

Laugh with him. Play with him. Go on adventures with him. Love and trust him. And never throw up the past to him. Can you do that?

If you can, let him come back. But if you can't, don't start in again. For if you go back hoarding that old hurt, suspecting him of doing wrong, expecting him to let you down, you'll just have another smash.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Correct Token

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our college is having a graduation dinner dance and it has been suggested by one of the class to give favors, but the suggestion was over-ruled.

I, however, want to give a favor (token), as I think more of the dance than just a simple dinner dance, and I want HER to remember it also. What I would like to know is, what is the proper favor for that occasion? My friend tells me that my fraternity pin will do, but I disagree with him.

Please advise me, as it is the first time I am taking my GIRL FRIEND to this kind of affair.

K.

The most gallant gesture for you to make is to plan to send "the girl" the most lovely corsage that you can plan. And there is no lovelier one, I think for a girl than a charming corsage made of three gardenias, the loveliest ones that you can find. Have the florist form the corsage without any fernery, just the background of the glistening leaves of the gardenias themselves. The three blossoms should be formed into a longish group, so that it will be easy to wear either on the shoulder or at the waist. Have the florist send the corsage on the late afternoon of the day, and with the flowers enclose your card, or write your name on the plain white card that the florist will supply you.

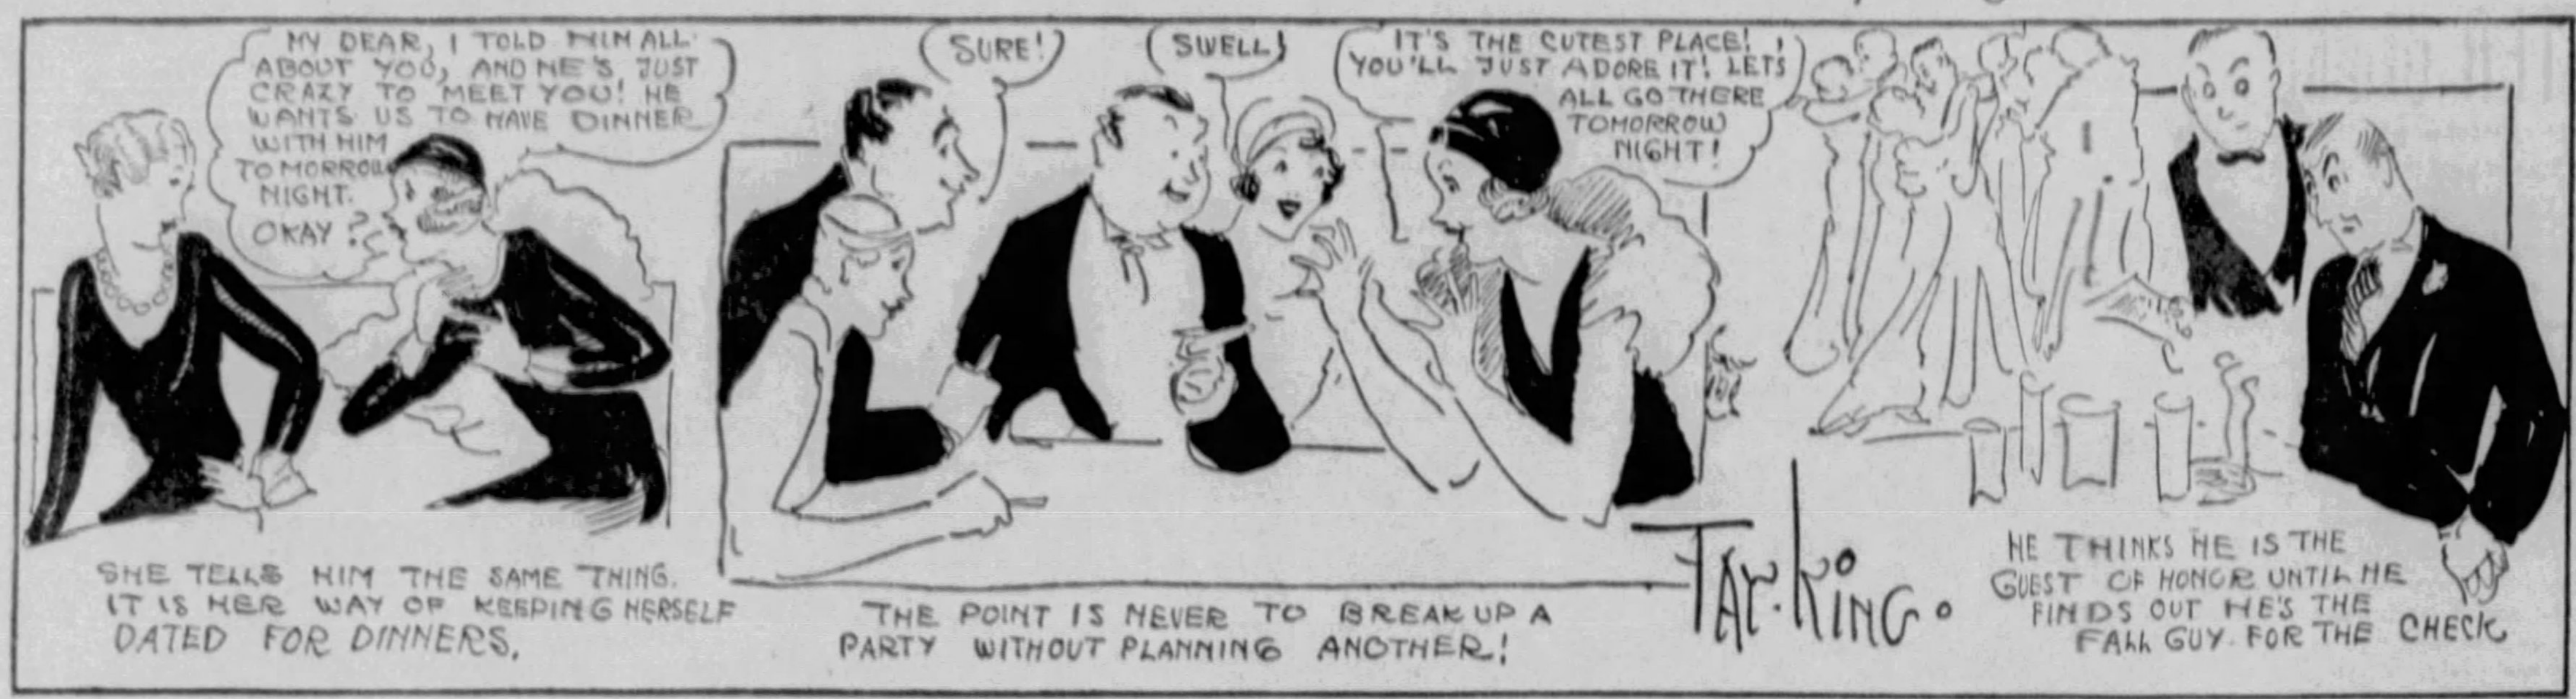
Meal Moochers Make Parties Serve Their Ends—Fay King



MY DEAR, I TOLD HIM ALL ABOUT YOU, AND HE'S JUST CRAZY TO MEET YOU! HE WANTS US TO HAVE DINNER WITH HIM TOMORROW NIGHT. OKAY?
SURE!
SWELL
IT'S THE CUTEST PLACE! YOU'LL JUST ADORE IT! LETS ALL GO THERE TOMORROW NIGHT!
THE POINT IS NEVER TO BREAK UP A PARTY WITHOUT PLANNING ANOTHER!
FAY KING
HE THINKS HE IS THE GUEST OF HONOR UNTIL HE FINDS OUT HE'S THE FALL GUY FOR THE CHECK

By FAY KING.

Those whom she gets together are all under the impression that the other fellow is giving the party. But usually the latest edition to the little crowd, whom she dragged along and insisted that he must "join the party," discovers that he is giving it.

Another method of the meal moocher is to tell two persons that each is eager to meet the other. It is of course arranged that they meet at some meal time. The chief enthusiasm at the introduction is her own interest in the menu.

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Detective Wynne Takes Leading Role in Drama

We needed no second admonition when the voice of the unseen sentinel at the side of our trail told us to "stand still" if we "wanted to see another daylight." There was no mistaking the menace in that venomous voice. Even Lee Chow, intrepid old warrior that he is, ventured no sound.

"I've got my gat trained on you," the voice went on, and I've got cat's eyes. I can see every move you make. So, hands up, all of you."

My hands, those of Lee Chow, and of Hen-ner-y raised themselves automatically—I have no recollection of sending any mandate from my brain to my arm muscles. But I was terrified almost to the point of screaming when I realized that Mary's hands were not elevated. I turned my head slightly—could not see Mary beside me, heard the faintest rustle, and lowering my eyes saw something that looked shapeless moving along the ground away from me, cautiously silently, as an animal flattening itself to avoid preditary eyes, might crawl.

I saw her gallant scheme. She must have dropped at the first sound of that voice, trusting to the darkness to keep him from discovering the fact that one of our group had eluded him. And of course if we were turned back, she meant to keep on and tell our men ahead of what had happened to us.

DETECTIVE ON JOB

"Turn around now, and march back the way you came," the hidden man said. "You're lucky you can't see me, and you'll never know my voice, else you'd all be now where you'd never see or hear anything again. But you can't tell any tales, so I'll let you stay on earth this time. If you come back or if anybody else comes up this—"

His voice ended in a sort of gurgle as we heard a curious sound, something like a violent slap from a hand encased in a padded glove. Then there was a crashing fall and silence once more.

"Keep your hands up a second, folks," a second voice admonished. "Nobody's going to hurt you, but we've got to find out who you are."

"Oh! Mr. Wynne! It's all right!"

"Hush!" His voice was low, but peremptory, and with my cheeks flushing guiltily, I obeyed.

"Sorry, Mrs. Graham!" his voice went on, low, but so well modulated that we could hear every syllable. "We can't take any chances on anybody, even somebody not concerned in this, hearing us, even though I think this is the only outside scout that's not accounted for. Brock and I have three besides this one trussed up and deposited where they can't do any signaling or warning until this party's over. I can't see you very well—incidentally, that bird was lying when he said he had cat's eyes—but I think there's a man or two in your party. If there are, I'd like them to give me a hand in trussing this lad up before he comes round after that love tap I gave him."

"Can I help?" Mary asked eagerly, springing up among the dark shadows that lurked between us and Wynne.

"Well! I'll be—" he began, but even in his surprise, keeping his voice down almost to a whisper. "If it isn't the little lady!" he began again. "Sure thing, Sister, take this rope and pay it out to me. That's right, buddies, step this way! Oh! I beg your pardon, Mr. Lee. I didn't know you were here. Maj. Grantland will be glad. Yes, that's right, take his head, and you,"—he paused a second, evidently appraising Hen-ner-y—sit on his legs until I get the first knots in this rope around him. Then we'll keep rolling him over and over until he looks like a roasting porker ready for the barbecue spit."

ACTRESS SAFE WITH MOTHER AFTER QUAKE

Two Pittsburgh women, Isabel Lane and her daughter, Lenita Lane, one reported dead and the other missing in the latest tabulations by Los Angeles authorities of earthquake victims, are safe, according to word received here yesterday.

The name of Isabel Lane was listed among those killed and up to yesterday nothing had been heard by her brother, James E. Lane, of 446 Cedarville street, Bloomfield.

Two years ago her daughter, Lenita Lane, was leading lady for the George Sharp Players in the Pitt Theater. She and her mother have been in Los Angeles since Christmas.

QUAKE DAMAGE SUITS LIKELY

LOS ANGELES, March 16.—(AP.)—Court action may follow revelations of engineers investigating the construction of buildings wrecked by last Friday's earthquake, District Attorney Buron Fitts said today.

Fitts informed Coroner Frank Nance representatives of the District Attorney's office would attend next Tuesday's inquest of quake victims, which will deal primarily with construction of buildings, including public schools.

Public school systems of Los Angeles and Long Beach were among the hardest-hit groups of buildings. Fifty construction engineers are rechecking damaged schools in Los Angeles, all of which have been closed until Monday, when most of them were scheduled to open.

A force of 900 men was busy clearing debris and repairing slightly damaged schools.

Rehabilitation work throughout the quake-stricken area went forward rapidly. The death toll today stood at 116, but the Coroner's office said a few additional bodies were likely to be found when all debris is cleared in Long Beach.

South Side Robbery Suspects Arrested

A short time after Mrs. Mary Bobizyowski, of 1719 Sidney street, reported to South Side police that her home had been entered and a radio and clothing stolen, four suspects had been arrested. They were arrested in an automobile which Mrs. Bobizyowski said she had seen in the neighborhood.

The suspects were Francis Mangan, 33, of 126 South Eleventh street; Charles Stevens, 37, of 1104 Sarah street; Leo Garvey, 30, of 20½ South Thirteenth street, and Frank Storeman, 23, of 1117 Freyburg street.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Comparative Play

One of the reasons why Duplicate Bridge is so popular is that it furnishes direct comparisons between the bidding and play of close hands in Contract Bridge. In Rubber Bridge a hand once dealt and played is gone forever to join the 635,200,000,000 other possible Bridge hands. In Duplicate, however, the methods of treatment both in bidding and play afford food for comparison and analysis, which, if properly conducted, cannot fail to be beneficial to any student of the game.

A Duplicate hand recently played in Melbourne, Australia, furnishes illustrations of sound defense and brilliant attacking play.

South, Dealer.

	♠ 8 ♡ 5 4 ◇ J 9 8 6 2 ♣ A K 10 4 3
♠ J 10 ♡ A J 10 2 ◇ A K 10 4 3 ♣ 9 5	North West East South	♠ Q 7 6 5 2 ♡ 8 7 6 ◇ Q 5 ♣ 8 7 6
	♠ A K 9 4 3 ♡ K Q 9 3 ◇ 7 ♣ Q J 2

The bidding at nearly every table followed the same line up to a certain point. South opened with one spade, West overcalled with two diamonds, North bid three clubs, South three hearts, and, when West passed, North called three notrump, which was defeated or not, according to the skill shown by the defense. The most interesting developments were at three tables where West doubled three hearts and North or South then bid three notrump. At one table the set was accomplished easily. East realized that West's Double was made with a view to getting the heart lead through South's heart holding. Therefore, after playing the diamond Queen, he led a heart, and the rest was simple.

At another table, East followed the diamond Queen with the diamond 5, and West, after making the diamond King, led the spade Knave. He reasoned that North must hold the club Ace-King to justify his two-notrump call. If he held the spade Queen also, the contract must be made, but if East held the spade Queen, he must hold at least two other spades because North would have supported his partner's spades if he held four small ones. The lead of the spade Knave led to the defeat of the contract. As it happened, the lead of a club would have brought the same result, but would not have been as neat a play.

At still another table, the Declarer had a chance to distinguish himself. East failed to see the advantage of a heart lead after cashing the diamond Queen. West, realizing that North held the remaining diamonds and probably the Ace-King of clubs led the heart Knave with the vague hope that East might be able to get in to play through the hearts. This was scarcely possible. Still, it did not appear as if the heart lead could do much harm. However, it gave North a chance for a well-thought-out squeeze and end-play. North took the heart trick with Dummy's Queen, and proceeded to size up the situation. West evidently held diamonds Ace-Ten-4 and three hearts, at least including the Ace-Ten. His remaining cards might include three spades, but North could find out something about them by leading the Queen and Knave of clubs.

When West followed suit twice, the stage was set for the end-play. North could now safely lead the spade Ace-King and three more clubs, forcing discards from West until, at the last round of clubs, West had to discard from the Ace-Ten of hearts and Ace-Ten of diamonds. If he discarded the diamond Ten, North would lead a diamond, forcing a heart lead up to Dummy. If he discarded the heart Ten, North would lead a heart, forcing the lead up to his own diamonds. Thus this Declarer caught West on either one or the other horn of the dilemma.

TODAY'S QUESTION

South opens with a bid of one diamond. West overcalls with a bid of one heart. North passes, East bids two spades and South passes. Is East's bid of two spades a Forcing bid, requiring West to keep the bidding open until a game contract has been reached?

Answer: No. East's Jump Suit Takeout is not Forcing, as the East and West partnership did not open the bidding. However, the bid is an urgent request to West to make some further bid. If East wished to make a Forcing bid, he would have bid two diamonds—an Overcall of the opponents' bid suit.

BOARD REJECTS CAIN PAYROLL

Because County Treasurer Robert S. Cain refused to recognize the legality of a salary board meeting at which County Commissioners eliminated five jobs in his office, the Commissioners and their chief clerk, William T. Rees, have refused to approve his payroll for the period ending today.

After the reductions Cain submitted a payroll which still included the five names. He maintains that the salary board cannot make changes in his staff unless he has called a meeting of the board, which consists of the three commissioners, the controller and the head of the department affected. The commissioners hold that they have the right to convene the board and acted on Cain's office in his absence when he failed to attend.

The commissioners yesterday eliminated four positions, dropping James M. McFarland, golf professional at North Park; Harry Brown, the greenkeeper at North Park; James M. Brown, junior forester in North Park, and John M. Robertson, South Park custodian.

Harry B. Quartz, of Glenshaw, was appointed stable boss in North Park at $121 a month.

Home Remedies May Do Harm in Eczema Cases

Eczema is one of the most disagreeable disorders of the skin. Children as well as adults may suffer from this affliction. Indeed, it is most commonly found in infants and growing children.

The exact cause of eczema has never been determined. It is believed to be related to some disturbance in digestion. It is rarely seen in babies who are breast-fed, but is often found in the bottle-fed infant. This is particularly true if there is difficulty in digesting the bottle-milk.

Nothing is more distressing than to look upon an infant who suffers from eczema. The face, hands and forearms are usually red and profusely covered with scabs and crusts. There is a watery discharge which causes intense itching and discomfort. The effects are indeed pathetic.

To avoid scratching, with the danger of infection, many mothers place mittens or gloves on the hands of the afflicted child. Others pin the sleeves of the sleeping garment to the crib so that the child is unable to raise the arms and scratch itself.

This method of control is unreasonably severe and quite unnecessary. Many of these infants are in weakened condition and the severe crying induced is harmful.

Every effort should be made to improve the general health. Soothing salves may be applied to the skin, but only under the supervision of the physician. Unfortunately, many mothers become frantic in their anxiety to cure the little sufferer and resort to all sorts of medicines and ointments recommended by well-meaning friends. Actual harm may result because a salve which is beneficial to one skin may be harmful to another.

I am sure that many mothers will be glad to know that eczema is not contagious. Children are often shunned because of this condition. But it is not contagious and eczema cannot be transmitted from one individual to another.

It is probable that eczema is produced by a sensitivity to certain foods. The diet must be carefully studied in order to find what substance is causing the disturbance. In the infant, slight variation in the usual feeding formula may be sufficient to produce eczema.

It is difficult to discover the particular food that is causing the disturbance. But relief can only be hoped for when the underlying cause is detected.

Occasionally the sensitivity may be traced to some external factor, such as woolen garments, certain medicines or it may be an intestinal disturbance. In all cases, it is imperative for the sufferer to have regular daily eliminations. Cathartics are not advisable, but enemas may be taken.

Eczema is a chronic and difficult disease to cure. But let me reassure the worried mother. Though it may take time to find the cause, continued observation and care of the diet will lead a complete cure. Do not be discouraged.

BOY PUBLISHES OWN PAPER

A new "publication" has made its appearance in Pittsburgh.

The new entry, the Town News, whose slogan is, "All The News While It's News," is a nine-year-old boy's contribution for edification of Homeville residents.

In addition to gathering his own news and printing the sole weekly copy, its editor, Joseph Miskovitch, of Mifflin avenue, Homeville, draws his own "art," comics, cartoons and "advertising," composes the editorials, writes helpful hints on household and automobile topics, furnishes his readers with a weekly weather report and a serial detective thriller.

His business methods are unique. When the "paper" is ready for the street, he acts as newsboy, sells the product for 5 cents, buys it back at 3 cents and resells it.

ALL CLEVELAND MOVIES TO QUIT

With approximately 80 neighborhood houses already closed, the large downtown first-run theaters asserted they will lock their doors after the final performances unless stagehands and operators agree to a proposed 25 per cent wage reduction. The neighborhood houses have asked an even greater wage cut.

Approximately 2,000 persons are estimated to have been thrown out of work by the closing of the neighborhood houses and an additional 500 will be made idle if the downtown theaters follow suit.

Meanwhile, at Youngstown, theater managers made a similar demand for a wage cut of between 25 and 30 per cent, and said they also would close unless their terms were met.

Beer and Wine Bill Now Needs Only a Chaser

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

In 11 days the legislators have bid affirmatively on more things than a mob at a postoffice auction.

No more rolltop desks, no more locked doors, no more deliberate and profound dawdling. President Roosevelt has put zippers on everything.

Look at the beer bill. Went through the House quicker than a breeze through an alpaca overcoat. The Senate added a wine kicker.

GRETA GARBO

Film Star Refuses To Divulge Destination

STOCKHOLM, March 16.—(INS.)——Greta Garbo today finished packing her trunks in preparation for an end to her visit to her native Sweden, but whither she will go, and when, remained a secret.

The screen star was dining when reporters called at her home to inquire about her plans. It had been rumored in the United States she already had sailed back to Hollywood.

Miss Garbo would not say and declined to comment on reported passport difficulties.

Only that she was leaving Stockholm was apparent. Her trunks were packed.

Wilkinsburg Stages Play for Relief Fund

A cast of 125 men will present "Henry's Wedding," a three-act musical comedy, in Wilkinsburg High School tonight and tomorrow night. Sponsored by the Wilmas Club, the proceeds will be turned over to the Chamber of Commerce for local relief.

Auto Victim Revives, Identifies Himself

Recovering consciousness in the Columbia Hospital, Wilkinsburg, late yesterday, a man who was struck by an automobile early in the day on the Ardmore boulevard, Forest Hills, said he was Andrew Fallon, 55, of 1210 Center street, Turtle Creek.

CLINIC TEACHES DIET, ETIQUET

A noon-day luncheon experiment carried on by the Falk Elementary School for the past year to teach children table etiquet and correct diet, was explained today by the principal, Martin P. Chworowsky.

Each lunch hour the second to the sixth grade pupils inclusive pick a hostess to be in charge of their table during the meal. There are 14 boys and girls at each table besides the teacher. On some occasions the children make up the day's menu. Chworowsky said:

"We try to teach the child not only to eat the correct food, but also how to play the part of a hostess and carry on a sensible and interesting conversation rather than talking about their next door neighbors."

Through special methods of cooking the children have been taught to eat such vegetables as carrots, asparagus and spinach. Anna L. Murphy, who is in charge of the meals, said the children have learned to relish the dishes, which are "distasteful to many children."

FED FORCIBLY, ENDS 'STRIKE'

EDMORE, Mich., March 16.—(AP.)—Joseph St. Peter, grumbling all the while, today abandoned his hunger strike and for the first time in 14 days voluntarily ate a meal. St. Peter was forcibly fed a pint of broth yesterday through a tube that was shoved down his throat by a doctor while a deputy sheriff held him. He said:

"If they're going to stuff me like a fowl I might as well eat it myself."

St. Peter, who is 78, sat down at his breakfast table and ate what relatives said was "a real good breakfast."

St. Peter, who yesterday began to show signs of weakness for the first time since he started his hunger strike with the announced intention of starving himself to death, appeared as active as ever this morning. He left his bedroom without assistance.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 16.—The Pittsburgh-Portland baseball game scheduled for this afternoon at San Jose was called off this morning on account of rain. Manager George Gibson and his Buccaneer crew were gathered in their hotel lobby awaiting the auto bus which was to take them to the neighboring town when a telephone message was received by the Pittsburgh officials canceling the contest.

Roy Mack, son of Connie Mack and the vice president of the Portland club, called off the contest. The day broke cloudy after a night of almost incessant rain. Apparently the ball park at San Jose was in a wet state when Mack notified the Pirate bosses of his decision. The Beavers are in training at San Jose.

WORKOUT PLANNED

Manager Gibson will make an effort to run his team through a workout at Seals Stadium this afternoon. Permission of the San Francisco Seals had been obtained for a drill for the pitchers and others not slated for the San Jose trip, so Gibby will try to run his whole squad through a workout.

The Pirates eagerly hope for sunshine on St. Patrick's Day. They are carded to begin a four-game series with the Chicago Cubs on the day set aside for Ireland's patron saint.

With Waite Hoyt and Heinie Meine pitching smart baseball, the Pirates trimmed the Oaks yesterday afternoon in a cold weather battle. The air was cool, the ground was damp and there was a threat of rain in the air as the two clubs ran off the nine innings. The score was 5 to 2.

WIN IN THIRD

The Buccos won the game in the third round when they bunched four hits and two bases on balls off Lou McEvoy, formerly of the Yankees. The rally netted four runs.

Hoyt blanked the Oaks on seven hits in his five innings. The former Yankee star had a nice assort-

Carey's Plan Aids Clark.
Gehrig to Offset Ruth.
Hoyt Helps Peterson.
No Pitt Bout Forfeited.
Metcalfe Alters Style.

VAST INCREASE IN COST OF TRAINING

EVIDENTLY THE PACIFIC COAST realizes that it is going to lose the Pirates and Giants, and possibly the White Sox in addition, as training visitors next year, as Col. Jacob Ruppert already has been asked to send the Yankees to Los Angeles for conditioning in 1934. The invitation will be declined, however, as it is practically settled that the Yanks will return to St. Petersburg, Fla., for the tenth consecutive year. The decision may have been influenced by the experience of the Giants, who lost $38,000 on the coast trip last spring and face an even greater deficit this year.

Col. Jacob Ruppert

The transportation item in such long trips was one reason why the Giants turned down an invitation to train in Phoenix, Ariz., next spring and may accept a $7,500 subsidy from Orlando, Fla. Major league clubs are forced to whittle spring training expenses, and that's another angle which will work against the West Coast in future years. Thirty years ago a spring trip cost only from $5,000 to $10,000. Now it runs from $30,000 to $40,000. Training on the coast has cost the Pittsburgh club an average of $800 per man.

HAVING WORN HIMSELF to a shadow each year in the Wilbert Robinson regime by pitching in and out of turn, serving as relief hurler and even working in the daily batting practice, Watson Clark felt indignant and resentful last year when Max Carey slowed him him down to a regular turn on the slab.

Clark was restless for more work and thought he wasn't doing enough for the club. But now he realizes the wisdom of Carey's shift. Whereas, under Robinson, he used to fold up in mid-summer, the southpaw in 1932 went through to his greatest season and won 20 games. He agrees with Jack Quinn now that a pitcher's best years always are the easiest.

IN THE FITNESS of things, one of the Yankee newcomers ought to be with the Dodgers. He is James B. Deshong, left-hand pitcher.

For it develops that Deshong's middle name is nothing else but Brooklyn. "No fooling," he says, "the 'B' stands for Brooklyn. My grandfather was a clergyman, and he thought Brooklyn was a great place because it was the City of Churches."

THOUGH NOBODY HAS doubted the eventual signing of Babe Ruth with the Yanks for 1933, the situation has drawn attention to the problem of "After Ruth—What?" which Joe McCarthy will face when the Bambino fades as a player in another year or two. McCarthy consoles himself with the reflection that he "will have the big Dutchman," meaning Lou Gehrig. There's a lot to that. Replacing Ruth will, of course, be out of the question, but the Yanks will be in no danger of going on the rocks as long as Gehrig is around. Locomotive Lou is half a ball club himself, and will be perfectly able, no doubt, to carry on with his great hitting without Ruth's example to spur him, and without having the Babe batting ahead of him to soften up the pitcher occasionally.

Jim Peterson

WHATEVER IMPROVEMENT THERE may be in Jim Peterson's pitching as he comes back to the A's this year, following a season on the Portland farm, is due largely to a tip from Waite Hoyt, the veteran slabster now doing a comeback with the Pirates.

It was Hoyt who induced Peterson to adopt a sidearm delivery, while the two were warming up in the bullpen at Shibe Park in Philadelphia near the fag end of the 1931 season. While starring at Penn, Peterson always had been an overhand pitcher.

DURING THE WARM-UP, Bill Dooly relates, Peterson threw a sort of side arm ball to Hoyt, and the latter, impressed, asked him to throw it again. Peterson threw another with the same motion. "That's the way you ought to pitch, kid," Hoyt said. "You shouldn't monkey around with an overhand delivery."

From that afternoon, Peterson started developing the style that he is using now, which is wholly sidearm. In camp, he is learning a lot from Eddie Rommel and Lena Blackburne, and the American League is likely to see quite a bit of that side arm delivery this year.

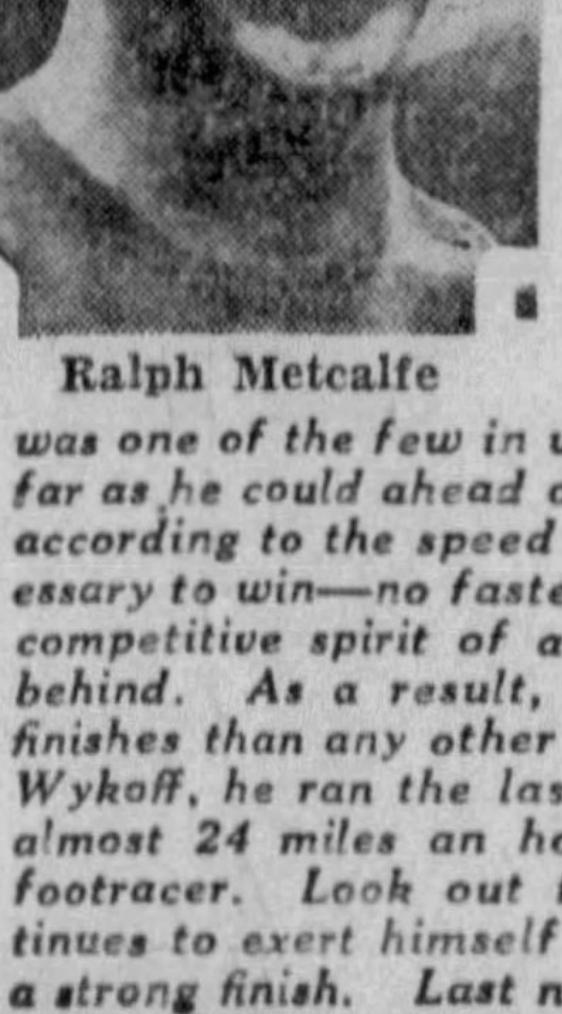
WHILE JOE ORSINI'S University of Pittsburgh boxing team did not win the Eastern Intercollegiate Conference championship, the Panther coach did gain the distinction of sending his glove squad through what might well be rated the most difficult schedule in the East without forfeiting a single bout. That's something that no other team in the Conference was able to do. Not once during a Conference meet did the Panthers concede a match to the opposition, and, what is more, in only one instance did they forfeit even a non-Conference event.

THIS LONE EXCEPTION came in the meet with Navy at Annapolis, where Pitt did not enter a heavyweight. That failure was unavoidable, being due to the fact that in Conference competition boxers weighing more than 178 pounds are barred, so that the Panther team did not include a man of the necessary proportions.

There is a chance that Pitt boxers may bring back two individual championships from the Conference tournament to be held at Morgantown, W. Va., tomorrow and Saturday. Jack Schricker, Conference titleholder in the 155-pound class, has a good chance to retain his laurels, and Jimmy Giannatti is a decided favorite in the 135-pound division.

THERE NEVER HAS been any clear understanding among boxing fans as to how or why such a ring name as Eddie Ran came to be adopted by Edouard Fiszmajester, the Polish battler whom Ted Yarosz added to his defeated list recently in a 10-round bout at Detroit.

It isn't a good name for a fellow who is supposed to stand up and fight, and it doesn't fit in other ways. The explanation is that Fiszmajester actually selected the name "Ryan" as a fighting cognomen, but the first announcer mispronounced it "Ran" and it stuck.



Ralph Metcalfe

THE RECENT SUCCESS of Ralph Metcalfe in setting a new world indoor sprint record of 60.1 seconds for 60 yards, though in a later start he was defeated by Emmett Toppino last night in New York at the same distance in 6.3, leaves most track followers convinced that the Marquette University Negro is the new fastest human. That he has not smashed more records is due to his style of running. The 60-yard performance was one of the few in which he started out with a spurt and kept as far as he could ahead of the field. Usually he holds back and runs according to the speed of his field. He goes just as fast as is necessary to win—no faster, and very seldom slower. He has the true competitive spirit of a thoroughbred and thrives on coming from behind. As a result, Metcalfe has been involved in more close finishes than any other runner in the world. Against Toppino and Wykoff, he ran the last 20 meters of the 60 at the terrific clip of almost 24 miles an hour, the greatest speed ever attained by a footracer. Look out for more records if the Negro streak continues to exert himself from the start instead of holding back for a strong finish. Last night's defeat probably was due to overwork.

BIG SLUGGER CUTS ORIGINAL DEMAND

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 16.—(AP.)—The difference between Babe Ruth's salary demands and the New York Yankees' offer has been reduced to a mere $5,000 but otherwise the Babe and Col. Jacob Ruppert, club owner, are just as far apart as ever.

Newspaper men yesterday asked the Babe:

"Would you consider a contract for $55,000?"

The big slugger replied:

"I have been giving that figure serious consideration."

Then Col. Ruppert was queried:

"Would you be willing to add $5,000 to your original offer?"

The Colonel replied:

"I am still standing pat on my offer of $50,000."

The Yankees squared accounts with the Boston Braves yesterday, winning the second game of their spring exhibition series, 8 to 7.

The Yankees, with Ben Chapman driving out a triple and a double, scored six of their runs off Ed Fallenstein, a rookie, in the first three innings.

SARASOTA, Fla.—(AP.)—Play ceased today for the Red Sox and work began, for during the day Gabby Street brought his St. Louis Cardinals from Bradentown, 12 miles away, to open the exhibition game season.

BILOXI, Miss.—(AP.)—That much-discussed batting weakness of the Washington Senators today bore promise of becoming a likewise much-discussed hitting power. At least indications pointed in that direction as a result of the 17 hits Clark Griffith's sluggers registered in yesterday's 13-to-2 victory over Atlanta.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—(AP.)—Tommy Bridges and Gerald Walker were near casualties yesterday in the Detroit Tiger camp when they figured in accidents. Bridges took an unexpected throw by Catcher Gene Desautels on the back of his neck, while Walker stopped one of Desautel's line drives in the solar plexus. Both resumed play.

NEW ORLEANS—(AP.)—Manager Roger Peckinpaugh, of the Cleveland Indians, looked over his squad of hurlers yesterlay and he announced he would send Mel Harder, Clint Brown and Oral Hildebrand to the mound in an exhibition game with the New Orleans Pelicans today.

PHILS, MACKS CLASH TODAY

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 16.—(AP.)—Philadelphia's two major league ball clubs, the Athletics and the Phillies, clash today in the first Grapefruit League game for the latter squad.

The A's already have played four exhibition games, dropping two and winning one from the Brooklyn Dodgers, and losing a single contest to the Cardinals yesterday. The Quaker City American Leaguers now are on a five-day swing through the training camps.

For the Phillies, the game today tests Gus Dugas at first base. He has been given the initial sack assignment since the holdout of Don Hurst.

N. L. Briefs

ST. LOUIS—(AP.)—The St. Louis Cardinals opened their spring exhibition schedule yesterday afternoon by defeating the Philadelphia Athletics, 6 to 4. The Red Birds outhit the Mackmen, 13 to 10, and showed a stouter defense.

LOS ANGELES—(AP.)—In a slow game which saw five pitchers issue 17 passes to first base, the Hollywood Stars of the Pacific Coast League defeated the New York Giants, 13 to 8, here yesterday.

TAMPA, Fla.—(AP.)—With pitching staffs switched around, the regulars of the Cincinnati Reds took a 4-to-3 licking from the Yannigans in a seven-inning practice game yesterday.

LOS ANGELES—(AP.)—Chicago's National League champions, the Cubs, won the first game of their spring training city series from the Chicago White Sox yesterday, 13-7, in a wild-hitting spree.

MIAMI, Fla.—(INS.)—Joe Gilleaudeau, treasurer of the Brooklyn Dodgers and champion tamer of holdouts, had a tough customer on his hands today in Joe Stripp, unsigned third baseman. Told he would have to take a cut, Stripp replied that he wanted a raise, and that if he doesn't get one he'll leave here by Thursday night.

Former School Stars In Benefit Game

Former scholastic stars and later members of the Homewood Business Men's Club, namely Hooks Cousley, Curt Reibler, Ray Bond, Ed Hartman, Dick Packard, Johnny Buck, Dave McClelland, Bandy Beswick, Herbie Calhoun and Dr. Carl Grundman will play a charity basketball game with the Homewood Presbyterian Church team tomorrow night in the Homewood Presbyterian Church gym at 9 o'clock.

Aintree Entrant Sold by Whitney

LONDON, March 16.—(AP.)—The American-owned field in the Grand National steeplechase, which will be run at Aintree, March 24, today was reduced to nine with the announcement that John Hay Whitney has sold Slater to G. S. L. Whitelaw, an Englishman.

Whitney still has one representative in the race—Dusty Foot, which is well regarded among the American entries.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: FAST DELIVERY—A most unbelievable record of rural mail delivery is that of Thomas F. Saunders, who has the longest mail route in the state of Iowa, running over hills, dirt roads and even in river bottoms. In exactly 2 hours, 24 minutes he drove his old automobile over the 63-mile route, stopped 192 times to serve 215 mail boxes, wrote applications for a few money orders, delivered 711 pieces of mail and collected 91 parcels and letters. The astounding record is verified by the official files of the post-office in Peterson, Ia. THE FIG—Contrary to popular opinion, the fig is not a fruit. TOMORROW: IS THE SHAMROCK AN IRISH EMBLEM?

REPORT GIANTS TO BE SOLD

MIAMI, Fla., March 16.—The Giants are going to be sold.

That is the tip going the rounds down here. It is said the prospective buyer is in Miami. He has a yen to own a big league club and the money to pay for it. John McGraw, ousted manager of the team he made famous, is said to have been in conference with him here.

It is no secret that Charles A. Stoneham, owner of the Giants, is in the mind to sell—at his price. 'Tis said he is not spending any money to build up the club for McGraw's successor as manager, Billy Terry, feeling as he does about stepping out from under.

A few years ago, Tex Rickard was on the point of buying the club from Stoneham when his sudden death interfered. That also happened in Miami. Maybe the club is destined to be traded in here.

In the lower bracket, Walter Berg entered the semi-final round by defeating R. Carson, 15-8, 15-7 and 15-12 and today will meet N. Parker.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 16.—(AP.)—Young Tommy, of the Philippines, put on a last-round finish to score a 10-round decision over Alberto (Baby) Arizmendi in their bristling fight here last night.

PIRATES' WHO'S WHO

Our Flag Contenders Answer Quiz, Giving Fans Lowdown on What's What and Why.

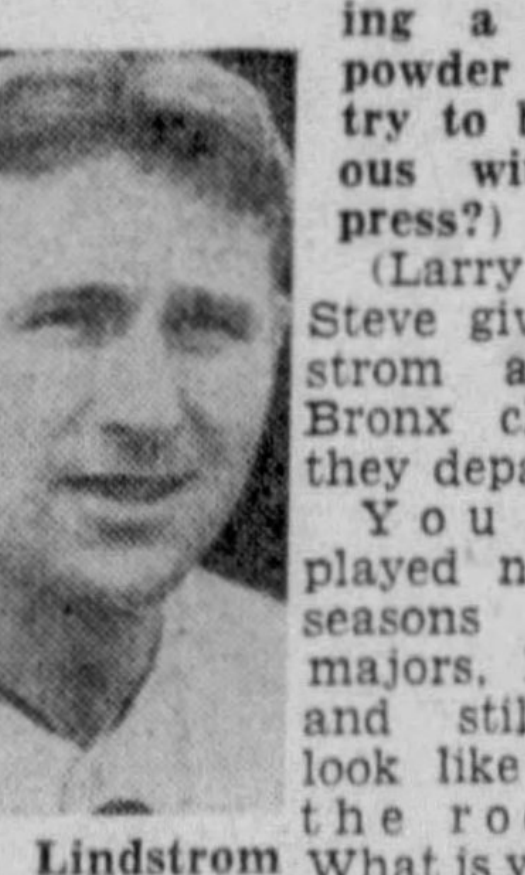
By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent

No. 17—Outfielder Frederick Charles Lindstrom.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 16.

Freddie, you're in the limelight, especially around Western Pennsylvania. Do you mind sitting for a third degree picture?

I'll be glad to, if we can get rid of French and Swetonic. (How about you two birds taking a runout powder while I try to be serious with the press?)



Fred Lindstrom

You have played nine full seasons in the majors, Freddie, and still you look like one of the rookies. What is your age.

I am 27, and I might say that I am lighter now than I was at any time last season. In other words, I am in top condition. That trip to Florida and the stay in Paso Robles put me in shape.

Where were you born, Fred, and how did you get into baseball?

I was born in Chicago and I got the itch very early. I was just a kid in All Saints Parochial School when I fell in love with the game.

Did you play high school baseball?

Yes, in fact, I was playing shortstop for the Loyola Academy team when I experienced my first thrill. It was a big league echo that wafted in and I can hear it still. I was only 16 at the time.

Will you tell the fans something about it?

Our coach at Loyola was Jake Weimer, who had been a major league pitcher for the Giants. Jake liked John McGraw, and I guess he wrote him telling about my work at shortstop.

We were playing Northwestern one day in the spring of 1922. Somebody tipped me off that a Giant scout would be there to look at me. He came as per schedule, and I wish you could have seen him. I had heard about the famous Dick Kinsella, but I didn't know he was such a dramatic-appearing person. He had the face of an actor and looked like one of the "leads" in Hamlet. To say I was nervous is putting it mild, but I managed to crack two triples and a double against Northwestern.

You must have been very nervous—or was it just a case of a good hitter doing his stuff?

Well, I really was a good hitter in those days. (Here come those two pests again—French and Swetonic—let's get this over before they spoil it).

Was the Giant scout impressed?

Apparently he was, for he made an engagement to meet me at the Auditorium Hotel. That was a big date for me, I don't mind telling you, but my dad was against my going into professional baseball. He wanted me to take up law.

How did you proceed?

I brought my father with me. He knew I was all wrapped up

LOCAL BOWLER PLACES HIGH

A North Side bowler, H. Schroeffer, gained fifth place in the singles standing as the annual Tri-State Bowling Association's championship ten-pin tournament moved through its sixth day of competition on the Strand alleys, Oakland. The tournament will end tonight.

Schroeffer rolled a 638 to displace Joe Mohr, of Erie, out of the first five.

The best doubles score turned in last night was credited to the H. Henry and L. Daniels pair, who rolled 1165. The Fort Pitt Brewery team compiled a score of 2627 for five-men competition.

Fred J. Schmeid, of McKees Rocks, was presented a medal, known as "The 300," awarded by the American Bowling Congress, for having rolled a perfect score last February 8 in a match game. Last night's scores:

Singles—E. Hultman, 487; P. Collins, 453; H. Schroeffer, 638; C. Metz, 495; E. Semler, 533; F. Schmied, 602; F. Freed, 541; H. C. Rider, 494; N. Perry, 563; J. McGovern, 571; G. Antic, Sr., 503; G. Antic, Jr., 562; J. Princin, 595; D. Emery, 518.

CRAWFORD SCORES ACE

VERO BEACH, Fla., March 16.—John E. Crawford, president of the St. Clair Country Club, of Pittsburgh, joined the Hole-In-One Club yesterday when he sank his tee shot on the fifth hole, a 165-yard affair. He was playing with Tom Higgins, of the Wildwood Country Club, of Pittsburgh, and H. L. Picard and S. B. Avis, of Charleston, W. Va.

BASEBALL COMEDY

By NICK ALTROCK

BILOXI, Miss., March 16.—Well, folks, I made out my income tax and mailed it, and, as near as I make out, here's what happened:

Nick Altrock

Out of 154 games I took part in last year, I coached 49 of 'em exclusively for Uncle Sam.

Of 278 runners I signaled to steal bases, I get credit for 162 of 'em and Uncle Sam gets cash for the rest.

Of the jackpots I won on the road, Uncle Sam got all the blue chips and most of the red ones, and I got all the whites.

Yes, sir, Uncle Sam is worse than a tough umpire for taking away your dough. And Washington may be the seat of the government, but you and I are the pants pocket. And, if the check I sent for taxes bounces back, I'll have it revulcanized.

CITY PASSERS DOMINATE ALL-DISTRICT COLLEGE TEAM

DUDEY MOORE, BRENNER ON FIRST FIVE

By JESS CARVER

The Smith boys (not the famous brothers of the hirsute adornment) of Pitt and Tech, Irving Brenner and Donald Moore, of the Dukes and Bill Douglass, Westminster's high-powered scoring star, compose the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's all-district college basketball team for 1933.

For the first time in a number of years, the men selected for positions on this honor team, announced last night on the Trained Seals' program of the Sun-Telegraph sports department over WCAE, is almost wholly a Pittsburgh affair. The explanation for the favoring of city players over others from the district is that the five named can match merit for merit, their rivals from outside the city, and played generally more consistent basketball, with their efforts resulting in their teams' compiling superior records to those of other varsity quintets.

DUKES WIN TITLE

The 1932-33 college floor campaign in the Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia sector was marked by the brave dash of the Duquesne Dukes to the city and district title; the annexation of the Tri-State Conference crown by Geneva; the excellent showing of Pitt's Panthers, as they played the most representative schedule and the great dearth of outstanding centers; surprisingly poor showing of West Virginia and Bethany and Davis Elkins' highly successful journey to the Pacific Coast.

Douglass, placed at guard position, although he played forward and center for Westminster, led all the scorers with a fine mark of 247 points tallied in 25 games. He dumped 99 field goals and 49 fouls. Standing six feet, three and one-half inches in his socks, Douglass ranks as one of the most promising players in the section.

Dudey Moore, Duquesne's finished guard product, completed another brilliant season. Cool as ever, seldom in trouble and smart to the "nth" degree, Moore fully is deserving of a position on any all-star team that might be named.

BRENNER AT CENTER

Star centers were few and far between, indeed, it looks as if the boys had declared a moratorium on center play, but even had there been a plenthora of brilliant pivot men, Irv Brenner would have been a tough lad to keep out of the limelight. He was a fine scorer, an excellent team-player and, above all, consistent.

The two Smith lads, Don, of Pitt, and Bob, of Carnegie, stood out in the play of their teams. The Tartar star led the city players for scoring honors for the second year in a row and has 182 points to date, with one more game, that with Pitt tomorrow night, to go. Don Smith, possibly the outstanding team-player of the district, also scored well, directed the attack of the Panthers and pulled his team out of many a tough spot. He counted 144 points, a mark he figures to boost tomorrow.

Marty Reiter, of the Dukes, and Cliff Aultman, of Geneva, both deserving of high rank, are named as utility men. Either could be inserted into the first lineup without weakening the team one iota. Aultman, the best all-around athlete in the tri-state district, was the outstanding performer on Geneva's conference championship team.

If a second team were to be picked from the list of honorable mentions, you could do worse than to name Art Feldman, of the Dukes, and Bernard Fegley, of Grove City, as forwards; Russ Ochsenhirt, of Pitt, at center, and Don McCamant, of Pitt, and Harold Manning, of Geneva, as guards.

Sure you could do worse, maybe better, too. Go ahead and try it.

SMITH ON ALL-AMERICA

Note—Don Smith, Pitt captain, has been selected as a guard on an all-America college basketball team selected by Frank C. Lane, well-known floor official. Lane picks Reiff, Northwestern, and Krause, Notre Dame, for his forwards; Hoskett, Ohio State, center, and Johnson, Kentucky, for his other guard. He calls Smith Pitt's best player since Charley Hyatt.

Five Teams Tied In Chicago Grind

CHICAGO, March 16.—(AP.)—Freddie Spencer and Dave Lands, the New Jersey duo, came up with a rush to throw Chicago's six-day bike race into a five-team deadlock after 72 hours of pedaling. The leaders' marks were 1,018 miles and nine laps.

The other leaders were Alfred LeTourner, France, and Gerard DeBaets, Belgium; Micky Rodak, Chicago, and William (Torchy) Peden, Vancouver; Jimmy Walthour, New York, and Charley Ritter, Newark; Franz Deulberg, Germany, and Paul Croley, Brooklyn.

Fight Results

At East Liverpool—Freddie Edwards won by a technical knockout over Jack Mates, 5 rounds; Alabama Kid won by a technical knockout over K. O. Kelly, 5 rounds; Harry Weekley won by a technical knockout over Kid Hunt, 5 rounds; Mike Ayers defeated Young Fetty, 3 rounds; George Raffa defeated Mike Vargo, 3 rounds.

At San Francisco—Young Tommy defeated Baby Arizmendi, 10 rounds; Joe Montes and Fil Quintaner drew, 4 rounds; Joe Robinson and Bobby Cox drew, 4 rounds.

TENNIS DATES SET

The annual Pittsburgh Center junior and boys' tennis tournaments will be played July 26-28 and the West Penn junior and boys' championships July 17-20 on the P. A. A. and Carnegie Tech courts, respectively, it was announced today.

GYM MEET TONIGHT

The Shady Side Academy will be the scene of a physical education demonstration tonight under the leadership of Capt. William A. Palmer, physical director, and his staff.

COX DUE TODAY FOR BATTLE

Tracey Cox, Indianapolis welterweight puncher, is due in town today for his 10-round windup with Billy Holt, local Negro, at the Arena, on the North Side, tomorrow night. Holt has split even in two bouts with Manuel Quintero and beaten Morrie Sherman recently, and Cox wants to get in his final training session here before tackling Billy, whom he rates a tough opponent.

Johnny Mitchell, of Detroit, who takes the place of Archie Bell, of New York, who is ill, against Jackie Wilson, local Negro bantamweight, in the 10-round semifinal, also will get in before nightfall.

Ray Lyle, of Akron, and Anson Green, of Homestead, box the first 10-rounder, and Red Bruce and Red Bush are in the six-round opener.

Between Rounds

Nat Litfin, who boxes Charley Burns, of Johnstown, in one of the six-round preliminaries to the Tony Herrera-Eddie (Kid) Wolfe bout at Motor Square Garden, Monday night, has been on the sidelines since December, due to illness, but he reports he is feeling better in training now than he has since he returned from California last summer and expects to get going in his real stride against Burns.

Litfin, formerly a boxer, developed into a right-hand puncher against Willie Davies, Jackie Wilson and others and didn't do so well. Now, under the direction of Jack White, Negro trainer from Chicago, he has gone back to his boxing, and he says he has snapped entirely out of the slow-footed stance he acquired.

The following bouts make up the card for an amateur show in McKeesport tonight: Young Gizzy vs. Johnny Matthews, Woodrow White vs. George Bitner, Andy Todd vs. Harry Cooper, Henry Kfena vs. Floyd Walcott, Bill Bain vs. Joe Kazanshansky, John Petro vs. Stud Brown, Lenny Burkinelli vs. Buzzy Noel, Frankie Fitchner vs. Bill Harper, Wolf Black vs. Dan Croci, William O'Hanlon vs. Bruno Poch and Irvin Lowstetter vs. Ace Garrett.

SOCCER RIVALS CLASH AGAIN

One of the most attractive games of the season will be offered the fans Saturday afternoon when, Moon Run and the Castle Shannon McKnights meet in the semi final round of the West Penn Junior cup competition at the Westinghouse High School Stadium.

Two weeks ago the clubs met in the national amateur tourney with the McKnights winning in an over-time fray.

McBride to Remain As South Park Pro

The job of Al McBride as golf professional at South Park is safe. The County Commissioners dropped Jimmy McFarland, the professional, and Harry Brown, the greenkeeper, at the North Park county course yesterday, but said McBride, former professional at the Schenley Park municipal course, would be retained at his present post.

Rooker, Pitt End, Wedded Since Feb. 24

It was learned today that Harvey Rooker, end, has been married since February 24 to Miss Dorothy Lausberg, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Henry Lausberg, of Tarentum. The wedding took place at Sacred Heart rectory and climaxed a courtship which began when the couple were attending Tarentum High School.

Maureen Orcutt, Mrs. Hill in Final

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 16.—(AP.)—Maureen Orcutt, of Englewood, N. J., today defeated Kathryn Hemphill, of Columbia, S. C., 3 and 2, in the semi-finals of the Augusta women's invitation golf tournament here.

Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, Mo., won from Peggy Wattles, of Buffalo, by the same score.

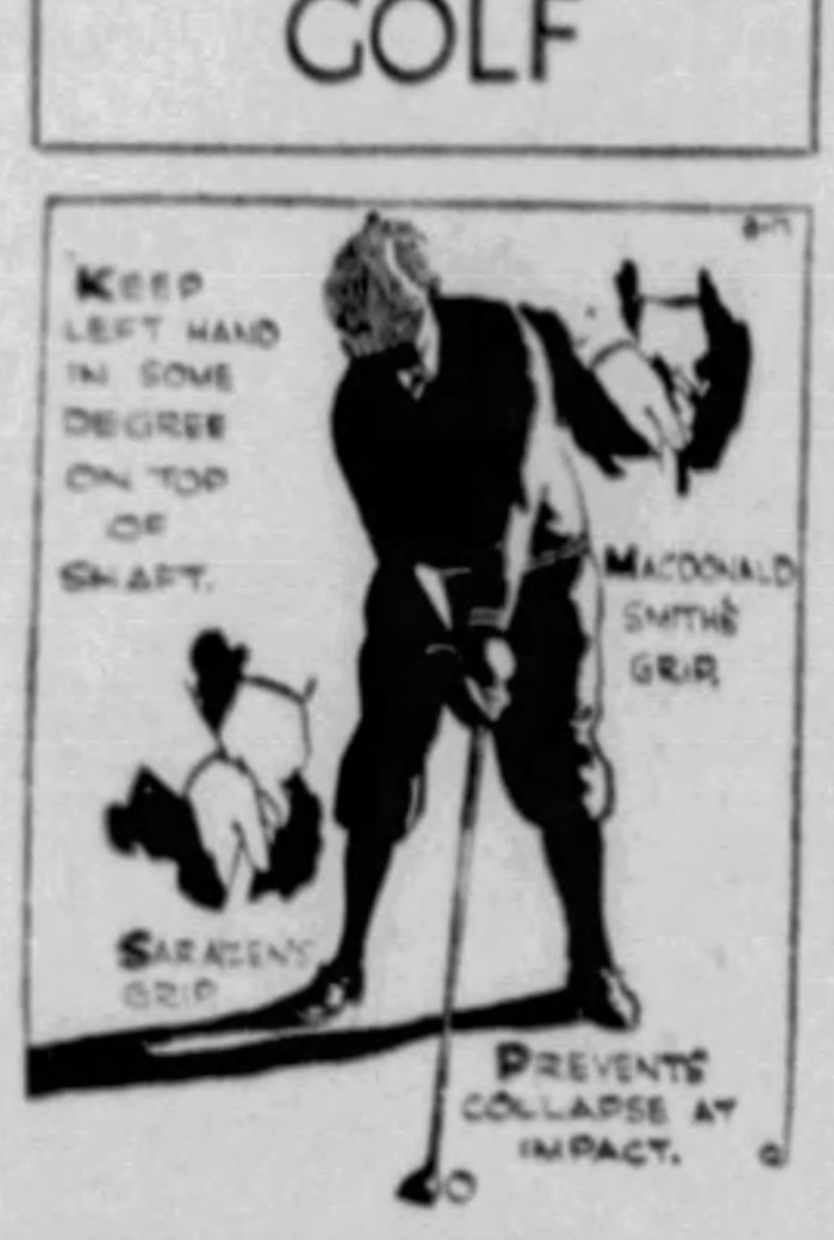
GRAPHIC GOLF



KEEP LEFT HAND IN SOME DEGREE ON TOP OF SHAFT.
MACDONALD SMITH'S GRIP
SARAZEN'S GRIP
PREVENTS COLLAPSE AT IMPACT.

A not uncommon fault of golfers is to attempt to throw the club-head at the ball in ahead of the hands on the downswing, due to fear that the clubhead will not catch up in time. The result of this sudden effort is to stop the progress of the left arm, and the elbow folds up uselessly against the side.

Besides resulting more often than not in a mishit, the swing is robbed of any power the left might have added to the blow had it been allowed to go through after impact.

One way of stopping this collapse of the left elbow is to assume a stance in which the elbow is prevented from being forced in against the side in this manner. The left hand, as in the grip of most good golfers, should be somewhat on top of the shaft as it grips the club. This brings the left elbow out until it is pointed in some measure toward the hole. The upper part of the arm is free, so that, when the proper procedure is followed and the left moves approximately close to the upper part of the body in the swing, there is little danger of cramping the left arm against it.

Brooklyn to Honor Wagner Next Month

BROOKLYN, March 16.—(AP.)—Brooklyn baseball fans are preparing a hearty welcome for Hans Wagner when the Pittsburgh Pirates come here to play the Dodgers next month.

Under the leadership of Borough President Henry Hesterberg, a committee is already planning for a reception in honor of his return to big league baseball as a coach that will recall the days when Honus was a star player, even if they have to remember some of the occasions when his feats beat the Dodgers.

Tentative plans call for a public welcome on the steps of Borough Hall, a parade to Ebbets Field and a dinner in the evening.

Wilmerding Wins West Penn Title

The Wilmerding Y. M. C. A. won the second half title in the West Penn League last night, downing the Willigs, 31 to 21.

The Wilmerding passers will engage the North Siders, first half champions, in a three-game series for the title. The first game is scheduled for Wilmerding Saturday night, with the second game booked for Social Hall, North Side, next Tuesday. Last night's lineup:

Dr. Kurzrok Beats Bell in Upset

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP.)—A chunky, left-handed physician, Dr. Lawrence W. Kurzrok, took time off from his hospital duties to trounce R. Berkeley Bell, seeded No. 6, and provide the national indoor singles tennis championships with the first upset, and almost the only thrill it has known all week.

Once Kurzrok, catching Bell off his game to win in straight sets, 6-3, 6-3, had made his surprising entrance into the final eight, the tournament proceeded uneventfully as in the first three days of play.

TIES PIN MARK

ST. LOUIS, March 16.—(INS.)—The name of Mitzie Weinstein, of St. Louis, today was added to the hall of bowling fame. Weinstein tied the high three-game world record of 847 in a league match here yesterday. He knocked the pins for 289, 258 and 300. The record was established two months ago by Virgil Gibbs in Kansas City.

88 GRIDDERS ON HAND FOR PITT DRILLS

Hard work is scheduled today for the 88 ambitious young men who have turned out for spring football practice at Pitt. The candidates reported yesterday to Head Coach Jock Sutherland, who delivered his usual opening day talk and then sent them through a light workout on the soggy turf.

After today's session, it is safe to predict that the big squad will be reduced, and the coaches won't have to do any cutting, either, and after tomorrow and the next day and the next, as the workouts become tougher and tougher, the squad will continue to dwindle.

GUSTAFSON IN TRIM

Assistant Coach Andy Gustafson arrived in town yesterday and will remain here for the duration of practice, which probably will last for five weeks. Beside Sutherland and Gustafson, Bill Kern, Ray Montgomery, Eddie Schultz and Dr. Roscoe (Skip) Gougler make up the spring training staff.

Dr. Cliff Carlson, of Pitt, and Maxie Hannum, of Tech, will give their varsity basketballers final drills this afternoon in preparation for the second clash of the campaign and the season's finale in the Stadium Pavilion tomorrow night.

STARS CLOSE CAREERS

The game tomorrow will mark the final collegiate appearances of Don Smith and Rocco Cutri, of Pitt, and Bob Smith, Eddie Stentz, Red (Angus) Fergus and Jerry Seigal, of Tech.

Two announcements were forthcoming from Duquesne yesterday. The first, and most important, was that Chick Davies, basketball coach, was not contemplating resigning his job and the second was that Matt Rumora, named to represent the Dukes in the 155-pound class, in the Intercollegiate Conference individual championships in Morgantown tomorrow and Saturday, had been scratched from the list. Rumora was found not to be in fit physical condition.

Twelve undefeated college boxers will be out to protect their spotless records when they compete in the tenth annual Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing Association tournament at State College tomorrow and Saturday.—JESS CARVER.

ment of stuff on display, but he seemed to be taking things easy for the most part. He was received by Earl Grace who has been suffering with a lame arm.

It was Meine's first appearance on the mound this year. The veteran gave indication of being in fine condition at this early stage of training.

Chillysauce

Kremer's arm is none too strong so he was not used against his home town team. But it was just as well, especially in view of the cold zephyrs.

The Pirates are disappointed over the training conditions encountered in this section to date, but they will be tickled if they meet with better fortune when they tackle the Cubs in the four-game series.

Lloyd Waner risked injury yesterday when he tried for a diving catch of a Texas leaguer, but the ground was soft and Lloyd followed through with a 10-foot slide on his chin.

Local Hurler Goes With Huntington

Elmer Anderson, of Homewood, who greatly impressed a Detroit Tiger scout in pitching and winning three games for the Whitakers in the national elimination series late last season, is to be given a tryout by the Huntington club of the Middle Atlantic League this summer.

Anderson, signed by the Tigers and "farmed" to Huntington, previously had trials with Norfolk, Neb., and Waterloo, Ia. He has had some experience in the outfield. He is 25 years of age, stands 6-1, and weighs 175 pounds.

BOXERS SUSPENDED

PHILADELPHIA, March 16.—(AP.)—The State Athletic Commission today announced the indefinite suspension of six boxers. They are: Larry Riena, Easton, and Giffie Kelvine, Mahanoy City, both for failure to honor contract at Easton; Jacques Dessimo, Erie and Canada Lee (Lionel Canagata), Erie, detrimental conduct; Joe Bush, Shenandoah, failure to honor contract at Pottsville, and Joe Duca, Paulsboro, N. J., failure to honor contract at Philadelphia.

LEAGUE ORGANIZED

AMBRIDGE, Pa., March 16.—The Ohio Valley Baseball League has been organized with eight teams in the fold. Conway, Rochester, Ambridge P. N. A., Ambridge Sokols, Baden, Leetsdale, Freedom and Aliquippa were granted membership.

LOCAL WOMEN GOLF STARS NEAR TOP

SOUTHERN PINES, N. C., March 16.—(AP.)—Deborah Verry, of Worchester, Mass., bagged an 88 over the wind-swept Southern Pines Country Club golf course yesterday for a two-stroke lead over the field at the halfway point of the mid-South women's 36-hole medal play golf tournament.

Five Pittsburgh women golfers finished among the leaders, they being Mrs. Sarah Fownes Wadsworth, with 46-47-93; Mrs. Gail Maxwell, with 45-53-98; Helen Morrison, with 46-54-100; Mrs. W. S. Fownes, with 54-55-109, and Mrs. M. K. Garber, with 47-51-98.

in baseball, and, before the conference was over, he had countersigned a New York contract. My own signature was not legal on account of my age. It was hard to get dad to weaken, but I finally put it across.

What happened then?

I awaited patiently the arrival of the Giants. When they came to town I worked out with them. I weighed only 129 pounds, but Manager McGraw decided to send me to Toledo. When I reached the Mudhens, George Whitted was the manager and he showed me a lot. I played about 25 games.

How did you make out in 1923?

Very well, I think. I played 147 games at second for Toledo. Bill Terry and I both were recalled by the Giants, who were winning the pennant. I remained just long enough to get a cup of coffee and a stack of cakes, but McGraw told me I was to go South with the Giants in 1924.

How did you find the big league?

Very interesting. I played about 50 games at three infield positions in 1924 and then got into all the games of the world series. Maybe you remember about those balls that bounded over my head to win the series for the Senators. I still remember those and also that scout who looked like an actor.

When did you become the Giants' regular third sacker?

How did you like the outfield?

It's fine business. Tommy Leach said the outfielders should pay to get in, but I am still crashing the gate.

Sharon Pin Teams Enter Local Tourney

Sharon will have four men's teams and one women's team in the annual Pennsylvania and Ohio Duckpin Association tournament, to be rolled on the Forward alleys, Squirrel Hill, March 25-April 3. Other out-of-town entries include Murray Fowler's Colts, of Donora, and Casper's Crack Five, of Brownsville.

Locally, the North Pittsburgh, South Pittsburgh and Central Leagues will be represented among other teams.

Kilmeyer Suffers Second Setback

Pete Kilmeyer suffered his second defeat in the annual city three-cushion billiard tournament in Tobin's parlors, Smithfield street, last evening, losing to Grant Smith, 50 to 37.

In tonight's match, Kish and Welk will meet. Kish has won one match while Welk makes his first start of the tourney with this evening's engagement.

Norwin Five Wins Westmoreland Title

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 16.—The Norwin High School basketball team won the Westmoreland County scholastic title here last night, defeating Greensburg in the final game of the annual tournament 19 to 18.

BASEBALL RETAINED

The City High Schools will continue to have baseball as a sport but under a reduced budget, it was announced today by C. Lawrence Walsh, supervisor of athletics.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Eighteen years ago, come tomorrow, St. Patrick's Day, marks a red letter date in Philadelphia's boxing history, for it was on that night, in 1915, that the Quaker City played host to two of the most colorful shows ever staged in a city at one time.

It's quite a story, with the matches resulting from a war between former partners who had become rival promoters. . . The principals were the late Jack McGuigan, promoter and famous referee, and Harry D. Edwards . . . For years they had operated the old National A. C., until Edwards pulled out and built for himself the very spiffy Olympia Club, then the best appointed boxing arena in this country, which recently was reopened for Tuesday night shows with Boo Boo Hoff the man behind the scenes and Matt Adgie, former boxer, acting as the promoter.

Johnny Kilbane, of Cleveland, was the featherweight champion of the world at the time, and Kid Williams, of Baltimore, was the bantamweight champion, and both were good attractions in Philadelphia . . . McGuigan conceived the idea of bringing them together in a six-round no-decision match, then the limit in the state, and offered them a purse of $10,000, an almost unbelievable sum for the times, considering the fact that his shows usually were staged at prices ranging from 25 cents to $1, and presented the most famous boxers.

Edwards entered into the bidding for the bout, and finally ran up the purse to $11,000, forcing McGuigan, who was broke, to drop out . . . But McGuigan wasn't beaten, far from it . . . Rallying his friends among the boxers and managers, with whom he was intensely popular, he decided to put up a fight by staging a rival show on the same night . . . And here is the program he prepared: Charley White vs. Sammy Robideau, a Philadelphia favorite; Young Ahearn vs. Jimmy Clabby, leading middleweights; Jack McCarron, "Fifty Thousand Dollar Beauty" middleweight, vs. Soldier Bartfield; Eddie Morgan vs. Joey Fox, British featherweights, and Joe Borrell vs. Tommy Howell, rugged Philadelphia middleweights.

McGuigan, it is said, was so badly off financially that he had to use forfeit money posted by the boxers to pay for the printing of his tickets and advertising . . . He charged the fans from $1 to $3 . . . The battle of champions was offered at from $1 to $5 . . . McGuigan sold out, outdrawing the Kilbane-Williams show and showing a profit, while Edwards lost money . . . Kilbane was an easy winner, demonstrating once again that a good big man figures to beat a good little man, all other factors being even . . . White knocked out Robideau with a left hook to the jaw in the first round of the main bout of McGuigan's show . . . Joe McGuigan, a son of the promoter, now is a referee in Philadelphia and also sings over the radio there.—HARRY KECK.

HOCKEY LOOP WAR LOOMS

NEW YORK, March 16.—(INS.)—Although nothing quite as drastic as a wholesale withdrawal from the National Hockey League can be expected, that's about the only item that isn't figured to take place when the ice circuit calls its semi-annual meeting following the completion of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Tuesday's walkout by the Chicago Black Hawks at the Boston Garden brought a long smouldering warfare between four clubs of the circuit and President Frank Calder, of the league, to the surface.

Calder's continued assignment of protested referees to work games in which pennant contending clubs were involved, despite bitter objections filed long before the contests, had already lined up three teams against him.

Now, there are less than a quartette of referees acceptable to any two teams in the league.

Today, Calder finds Charles Adams, owner of the Boston Bruins, openly and avowedly stalking his scalp. The Boston man resigned from the league board of governors a month ago in order to escape the league gag rule and thereby wage his fight against the league head in the open.

Court World Series To Open March 30

TULSA, Okla., March 16.—(AP.)—Subject to approval by the National Amateur Union, Tulsa has been chosen as the scene of the first basketball "world series," March 30-31.

The Tulsa Oilers, national A. A. U. champions, will meet the Winnipeg Toilers, Canadian amateur titlists, in the first two games of the scheduled five-game series, under tentative arrangements for the tournament. The Oilers won the Kansas City tournament last Saturday night. Winnipeg was undefeated for the season.

CUNNINGHAM WINS FINAL MILE DUEL

For his farewell race of a spectacular indoor campaign, Cunningham last night thrilled a crowd of 15,000 spectators at the Knights of Columbus meet in Madison Square Garden with the fastest mile of the winter as he turned the tables convincingly on his only conqueror and his foremost rival, Gene Venzke, of Penn.

SHORT OF RECORD

With memories of their exciting finish a fortnight ago in which Venzke scored a narrow victory in mind, Cunningham dogged his rival's footsteps for 10 of the 11 laps and then ran him into the boards. Cunningham breezed through the tape in four minutes 12 seconds, two seconds short of Venzke's own world indoor mark.

Venzke faded to such an extent on the bell lap that he was passed by his Pennsylvania teammate, Carl Coan, as well as Glen Dawson, of Tulsa, and finished fourth.

Cunningham's victory saved the Mid-Western contingent from something of a rout in a meet which also featured a world indoor record pole vault of 14 feet 1¾ inches by Keith Brown, of Yale.

METCALFE BEATEN

Ralph Metcalfe, of Marquette, national sprint champion, had the tables turned on him by his southern rival, Emmett Toppino, of New Orleans, who flashed home first in the 60-yard dash in 6.3 seconds.

Another favorite from the Mid-West fell when Jim Bausch, of the Kansas City A. C., Olympic decathlon champion, yielded to an old knee injury and the superlative performances of Barney Berlinger, of Philadelphia, in the septathlon, all-around feature. Bausch aggravated his injury by falling over a hurdle and withdrew after completing five of the seven events.

Freddie Edwards, Alabama Kid Win

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., March 16.—(AP.)—Freddie Edwards, 149, of Chester, W. Va., defeated Jack Mates, 146, of New Galilee, O., by a technical knockout in the fifth round of their scheduled eight-round event here last night.

Alabama Kid, of Pittsburgh, won by a technical knockout over K. O. Kelly, of Akron, when the referee stopped the bout in the fifth round. Harry Weekley, of Alliance, O., won by a technical knockout over Kid Hunt, of New Galilee, O., in the fifth round of a scheduled six-round affair.

Compensation

Because you are compassionate and kind,
My dawns and nights are thronged with ecstasy.
It is your gift to purposely be blind
To all the faults that live too near to me.

So if the tears come welling to my eyes
At some far-fetched appraisal of my worth,
It is a thought of you that makes them rise,

And if perchance my errant feet should stray
Down old unbidden highways of the night,
Your voice will stalk all horror for its prey,
Your eyes will lend the darkest sky a light,

And I will walk with head serenely high

Don Wahn.

War Bulletin

Clem McCarthy, one of the better authorities on racing and betting, reports that a horse named Ben Bernie will be a $2,000 to 1 shot in the Kentucky Derby. And it will be 1,000 to 1 for place—and 500 to 1 for show.

"And I know a lotta bookmakers," adds Clem, "who will lay 100 to 1 that 'Ben Bernie' does not finish in the first twelve!"

Because, we presume, it will be weighted down, with all those whiskers (jokes!)

Present Co. Excepted

Logic

It was at the Radio City Music Hall during a performance of "King Kong." The fillum broke at the most exciting moment. The big audience grew restless because the delay was prolonged. At least ten minutes.

One girl was overheard saying to her ticket-purchaser:

"Isn't this awful—waiting like this?"

"Lissen, dearie," he replied. That's the Roxy touch. It's the largest theater in the world—and so it has the longest delays."

And Did He Get the Devil!

Many a radio tuner-in must have laughed loud when an excited descriptionist on the inaugural platform said:

"I don't think I ever saw so many silk hats on so few gentlemen before."

Izzy Elinsonisms

Ben Bernie was glad to hear that the price of cigarets came down. Now he's chiseling two at a time.

I just got a call from my banker. The poor fella—his investments failed and now he says he hasn't a nickel—to my name.

Gosh, Yes

The Morning Mail

"Hollywood: My dear Winchell—This is just a letter I've had in mind for a long time. I used to be one of those who couldn't see the least little bit of good in you. When anyone knocked—I always joined in. I didn't like you. I didn't like your stuff. I didn't like your broadcasting. But I always read you and I always listened in.

"And it came about that little by little I came to feel that maybe I was wrong. I'd read something of yours and say to myself: 'A wrong guy couldn't write that!' And finally, I found so many of these things that 'a wrong guy couldn't write' that I grew to like you—and your stuff—and your time on the radio.

"And then it was that all the unkind things I had said about you began to bother me. And I promised myself that one day I would write a letter of apology and ask you to forgive me. But I put it off—and last night I read what Damon Runyon had to say about you, and it pleased me. And, because I, too, write a newspaper column, I knew how much it must have pleased you and Mrs. Winchell and Walda.

"And then I thought that perhaps another word of commendation from a newspaper man might cheer you a little—and so I determined that I'd write my letter now. And that's all. I've done it and feel better. Sincerely yours— K. C. B. (Kenneth C. Beaton)."

No Kiddin'?

Leslie Gordon, of East Chicago, says:

"I used to think you were too hard-boiled—but you've mellowed, mister, you've mellowed. Why, you're not tough, at all. You're a dripping old sentimentalist! I like you better when you're in a fight."

Your note reminds me of this little verse:

Whin I was young and slinder
My heart was soft and tinder.
Now I'm old and flush
My heart is soft as mush.

O, Mr. Wilstach!

Suggested for Frank J. Wilstach's Dictionary of Similies: Bugs Baer: As vicious as the girl who finished third in a beauty contest . . . Also: He'd turn on you quicker than an ingrown hair! . . . Anon: Gloomy as the intermission of a show which is a bust . . . Gertrude Neisen: Obvious as a Secret Service man . . . William March: Mean as poor-farm soup . . . David Murray: Unreliable as a taxi-driver's sense of direction . . . Slow as a chess-player's daughter.

Studio Hops To Cash In On West

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, March 16.—Delighted and still a little dazed at Mae West's success, Parmount is bending every effort to find a suitable story to follow up "She Done Him Wrong." In all likelihood, the choice will fall upon "The Golden Soubrette," an original story by Charles Furthmann, veteran screen writer.

To hear it described, this story has the makings of another hit for the voluptuous blonde star. For background, it turns to the Barbary Coast, the gold rush, Reno, the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight, the burning of Hell Town.

Unquestionably, the costumes she wore in "She Done Him Wrong" added greatlty to Miss West's appeal. Here, she would have a chance to appear in similar costumes and to move through an equally coloroful period.

Even forgetting the current studio situation, it is difficult to say when the star will be returning to Hollywood. She is proving just as big a draw in her personal appearances as she did in the picture. She is one of those box office naturals that occasionally come to gladden the hearts of the producers.

With everyone still jittery from the first earth shock, another temblor brought the Brown Derby diners to the edge of their seats. Just as everyone was subsiding again, Groucho Marx jumped to his feet.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he cried: "Tomorrow night at this time a volcano!"

* * *

Dramatic, too, that telephone conversation between Mr. O'Haron, business executive of the RKO studio, and E. O. Gurney, Hollywood agent. At 5:55 p. m., Friday, Mr. O'Haron boomed into the telephone:

"I tell you this salary situation is going to shake the industry to its foundations!"

Two minutes later, both Mr. O'Haron and Mr. Gurney were standing in the middle of the street.

All this time, George Raft has been in New York. Despite doctor's assurances, he wanted to see his mother, so he slipped away on the train. The Paramount dispute remains status quo, with negotiations temporarily at a standstill. . . . Irene Dunne did a walkout on "The Silver Cord." She refused to take the 50 per cent cut, saying she has a husband and can go back to New York to live. In any event, she's to make a trip there as soon as the picture is finished. . . . Ran into Ann Harding lunching at Al Levy's Tavern. She was dressed in red and looked very smart. Seems she didn't like the stories RKO had lined up for her, so she gave them a nine-weeks suspension of her contract to line up a couple. These two will probably finish up her association with Radio. I've an idea she'll do a stage play after that.

Paderewski to Give Chopin Program

The all-Chopin program to be given by Paderewski concert in Syria Mosque next Monday night, March 20, is the same as that which received such great acclaim recently in New York and Chicago. The works of Paderewski's great Polish countryman, Chopin, include Fantasia, opus 49, two nocturnes, opus 27, four preludes, Nos. 17, 16, 21, 24; Sonata in B flat minor, opus 35, Ballade F minor, opus 52; three etudes, Nos. 6, 8, 12, opus 25; Scherzo C sharp minor, opus 39; Polonaise E flat minor, opus 26; two Mazurkas B flat minor, opus 24, D major, opus 33; Grand Valse Brilliante, opus 18.

Show Boat to Reopen Next Thursday

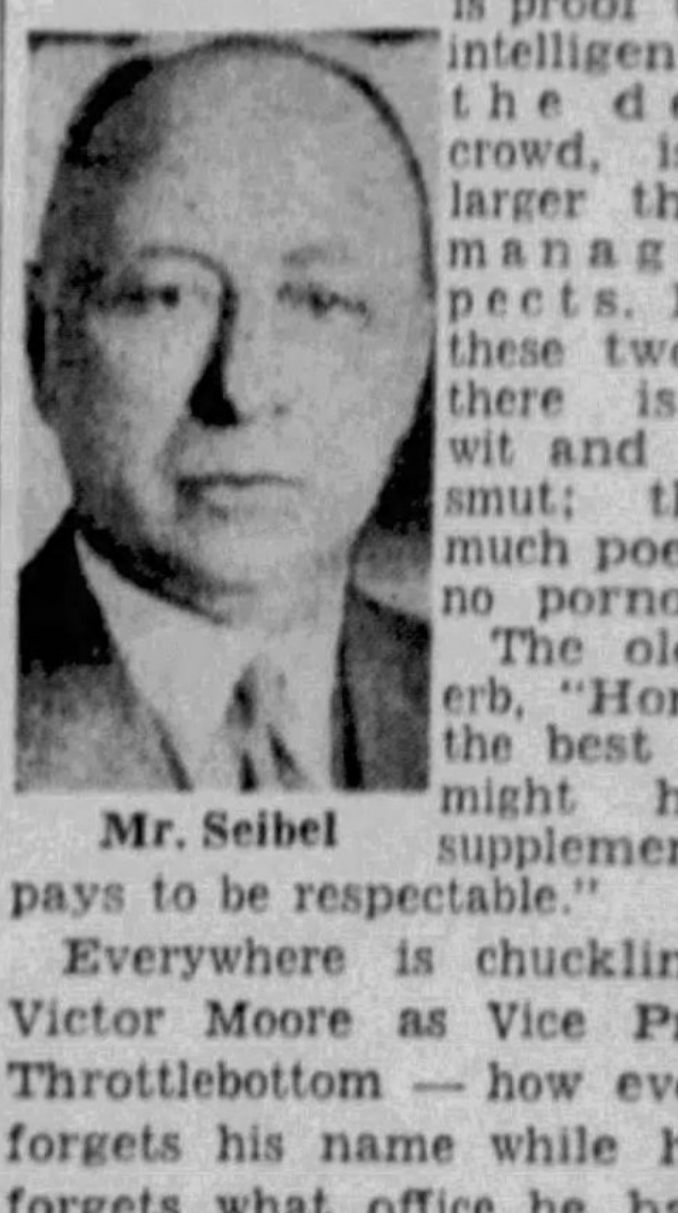
Due to parking inconveniences caused by the high water and also the inability to complete redecorations by tonight, the Show Boat, which was to have reopened this evening under the personal direction of Eddie Klein, has postponed its reopening until next Thursday night. The Show Boat will feature Jack Pettis and his band, Dolores Reed, Pat Harrington and other entertainers.

Drama Turns That Corner For Three Weeks In Nixon

By GEORGE SEIBEL

It's a welcome sight, that long queue at the box office of the Nixon Theater, in line to buy tickets for "Of Thee I Sing." And this queue will continue next week because "The Green Pastures" is to follow during the week of the 27th. It looks as if the theater were reviving and prosperity had turned that corner.

Of course we know these two shows have been awaited for two years, and managers say the public will always find the money for what it wants to see. That doesn't explain all. The success of these two shows is proof that the intelligent public, the decent crowd, is much larger than any manager suspects. For in these two shows there is much wit and no dull smut; there is much poetry and no pornography. The old proverb, "Honesty is the best policy," might have a supplement: "It pays to be respectable."



Mr. Seibel

Everywhere is chuckling over Victor Moore as Vice President Throttlebottom — how everybody forgets his name while he even forgets what office he has been elected to! You must see this Throttlebottom as the perfect picture of a man who is henpecked by a whole nation. His very looks are an apology for breathing. He talks as if he were afraid of waking a mouse in the attic. He walks around like a snow man who is afraid of getting into the sunlight. Don't miss Vice President Moore!

"ALISON'S HOUSE"

Another cause for rejoicing is that the Little Theater of Tech Drama School is giving us "Alison's House," the play by Susan Glaspell which won a Pulitzer Prize a few years ago. It never got to Pittsburgh, but we know it dealt with the heart-story of Emily Dickinson—if there were one. If there were none, Susan Glaspell has furnished it.

Emily Dickinson, the New England girl poet, has always been a fascinating figure. She should have been married to William Blake and their children would have been archangels or idiots. Blake and Emily always seem a mixture of both.

Well, why shouldn't Emily Dickinson have her heart-story in a play, just as Elizabeth Barrett had hers in Wimpole Street? Emily loved a preacher, they think—he may even have been a married preacher, which would be sacrilege and quite unthinkable! Susan Glaspell is one of our most intelligent playwrights, and if her drama won a Pulitzer Prize, there's no reason why Emily Dickinson need complain.

TROUBLE WITH "GRIPS"

Meanwhile the theatrical situation is again getting acute in New York. The trouble now is with the stage-hands and their union. The producers say most of their money goes to the stage-hands, who insist on a full crew at fat wages, even if one man could do the whole job. The stage-hands have their reasons for their claims.

Which brings to mind an experience with stage-hands out at Carnegie Music Hall when a pageant-play of mine, "The Vision of She-Who-Knows," was produced in connection with some centennial celebration of Pitt University. The required number of stage-hands was there, and their foreman was instructing them about their duties.

In order to appreciate this anecdote, it is well to remember that the word "strike," in back-stage lingo, means to shift the scenes.

ACTOR TO RESCUE

The foreman of the stage-hands was telling his force to "strike as soon as the first scene is finished." One of the principal actors heard this little speech, and strode into the center of the group, baring his muscular arms:

"I want to warn you that the first blankety-blank-blank who strikes while this performance is going on will get his blankety-blank head broken!"

There was no strike, no heads were broken, and no hero medals were awarded.

The theaters have been severely handicapped by fixed charges for manual labor and music, and it is to be hoped some just and fair arrangement will be made that will keep the theaters opens. To have big hits like "Design for Living" or "Dinner at Eight" threaten to close because managers and walking delegates can't agree means calamity for musicians, stage-hands, and the theater, which has endured calamities enough, and is being taxed heavier than any other profession, art or business.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Because of the siege of the box office of the Nixon by seekers of tickets for "Of Thee I Sing," the engagement here has been extended three additional days, next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. On Wednesday, as usual, there will be a matinee. This is the first time in the Nixon's history that a half-week has been added to an original booking of one week, and a cancellation elsewhere had to be made in order to bring it about. This was arranged through cooperation of the producer, Sam H. Harris, now in California. "Of Thee I Sing," the only musical production ever to receive the Pulitzer prize, still features its original principals, Lois Moran, Victor Moore and William Gaxton.

* * *

The Fulton Theater, which three weeks ago slipped away from its customary opening day, Thursday, is all orthodox again today, the opening day of its new screen production, "Luxury Liner." This film has a cast including George Brent, Alice White, Zita Johann, Vivienne Osborne and Frank Morgan.

* * *

Charles R. Macloon, of the Sun-Telegraph, endeavoring to get in touch with his son, Louis O. Macloon, well known Pacific Coast theatrical producer, after the recent earthquake, received what is perhaps the shortest telegram on record in reply to one he sent to a theater, asking if anything had been seen of Lou. The one-word reply was "No." Two hours later Mr. Macloon had a telegram from Lou himself.

* * *

Paderewski, greatest showman among concert artists, who will arrive in Pittsburgh Monday, lives entirely in his private car while on tour, and it sometimes is his home for periods as long as six months. It has the appointments of a residence, with piano, on which he practices three hours daily, and his favorite books. A chef and eight others comprise Paderewski's entourage. The pianist's only full meal of the day is late at night, after his concert.

* * *

A tip for those who have had trouble obtaining tickets for "Of Thee I Sing," which had a large mail order. The mail order for "The Green Pastures," coming March 27, already is heavy.

Gieseking Will Play Schumann Work

Walter Gieseking, pianist, will return to Pittsburgh as soloist with the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra at a concert to be given Sunday evening, in Syria Mosque. He will play the Schumann A Minor Concerto, which will be conducted by Antonio Modarelli. Tickets for the concert may be purchased during the week at A. H. Brockett's ticket office in Mellor's, Wood street, but no tickets will be sold on Sunday. Walter Gieseking was born in Lyons, France, but he is thoroughly German by blood, training and temperament.

LIFE OF ANDREW CARNEGIE

By BURTON J. HENDRICK

Carnegie Regretted Sale of His Company

FROM THE LIFE OF ANDREW CARNEGIE BY BURTON J. HENDRICK

Abridged for exclusive publication in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph by special permission of Mrs. Andrew Carnegie

"Referring to my conference with Mr. J. P. Morgan and to your request that the results of that conference shall be stated definitely," Carnegie's letter begins—a sentence which in itself disposes of the belief that Carnegie and Morgan never met in the course of the negotiations. Carnegie agreed to deliver $86,145,000 in bonds and $92,639,000 in stock of the Carnegie Company, and to accept in exchange $225,639,000 first mortgage five per cent, gold bonds of the United States Steel Corporation.

The Carnegie securities included Carnegie's own and those of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Thomas M. Carnegie, and of his childhood playmate, George Lauder, Jr. The payment received by them was all in bonds. The original understanding was that the other partners should obtain 7 per cent preferred stock, but to this a bonus of common stock was provided for each share of preferred. About $92,000,000 capitalization was therefore added to the $400,000,000 originally stipulated to be paid for the Carnegie Company.

Of this common stock Carnegie did not receive a share. This phase of the amalgamation did not interest him. He himself accepted the popular judgment that this additional compensation represented nothing but "water" and did not care to include such an intangible substance among his assets.

The spectacle of $492,000,000 in bonds and preferred and common stock being paid for the Carnegie Company naturally caused amazement. Nothing like this had ever been known before, yet subsequent history has disclosed that the amount exacted was modest.

Morgan Satisfied

One man, in 1901, who did not think Andrew Carnegie had been unmerciful in the sum he demanded for his life work, was J. Pierpont Morgan. A year or two after the sale he and Carnegie were crossing the ocean on the same steamer. One day in a deck conversation Carnegie said:

"I made one mistake, Pierpont, when I sold out to you."

"What was that?"

"I should have asked you $100,000,000 more than I did."

"Well," replied Morgan with a grin, "you would have got it if you had."

The popular belief that the warfare of 1900-1901 left Carnegie and Morgan enemies is untrue. One morning in the November following the transaction, Schwab, in conversation with Morgan, excused himself.

"It is Mr. Carnegie's birthday," he said, "and I am going up to congratulate him."

"How old is Andy?" the banker asked.

"Sixty-two"—Schwab was in error by four years.

"Oh, you're wrong," replied Morgan, "for he is older than I and I am 64."

"Since you are younger, why not come up with me? Mr. Carnegie would be delighted to see you."

"I will," Morgan quickly answered, and the two men drove up to Ninety-first street. Carnegie never had a more charming birthday visit, or one that he enjoyed more.

Phipps' Emotions

Henry Phipps described his emotions on receiving Carnegie's letter announcing that the transaction had been definitely closed. "When I received this word I did not feel like cheering or hurrahing. It was so impressive that it did not seem possible to be true, and it took weeks and months to have a full realization of it."

That Carnegie, too, despite his signs of jubilation, had his solemn moments, even his moments of regret, is clear. Perhaps his feelings are best described in a letter addressed to "The Good People of Pittsburgh," written on the day of his withdrawal, March 12, 1901:

"An opportunity to retire from business came to me unsought, which I considered my duty to accept. My resolve was made in youth to retire before old age. From what I have seen around me I cannot doubt the wisdom of this course, although the change is great, even serious, and seldom brings the happiness expected. But this is because so many, having abundance to retire upon, have so little to retire to.

"The fathers in olden days taught that a man should have time before the end of his career for the 'making of his soul.' I have always thought that old age should be spent, not, as the Scotch say, 'in making mickle mair,' but in making good use of what has been acquired, and I hope my friends in Pittsburgh will approve of my action in retiring while still in full health and vigor and I can reasonably expect many years for usefulness in fields which have other than personal aims."

One day, while the Steel Corporation was in the negotiating stage, Carnegie sent hurriedly for Schwab and informed his startled associate that he had changed his mind, and that the offer to Morgan must be withdrawn. It took much earnest persuasion to cause him to recede from this sudden change in purpose.

For a long time he would not visit the scene of his industrial success, seven or eight years passing before he was induced to set his foot in Pittsburgh. The place held too many memories. Once Carnegie, on a train bound for California, passed through the city, and as the old familiar blast furnaces came into view he turned aside his face; the sight of the kingdom that had once been his and was his no longer was more than he could stand.

Carnegie's Regret

"The day after Mr. Carnegie sold his business, I am sure he regretted having done so," Charles M. Schwab once said.

Whether Mr. Morgan's statement that the sale made Carnegie "the richest man in the world," was literally true is one of those questions which it is futile to explore. It involves too many considerations and unascertainable facts. Certainly no American had ever ended his career with such a large amount of capital in liquid form. William H. Vanderbilt died in 1885, leaving $200,000,000, mostly in the form of securities liable to the ups and downs of trade. That was the largest American fortune until the day Carnegie made his great refusal.

His fortune, on March 11, 1901, was about $300,000,000, and the pieces of paper making up this sum were practically the same as cash. Market quotations for United States Steel bonds advanced 15 to 20 points immediately after issue; they never dropped below par, and have since been redeemed at 115.

Carnegie had several reasons for insisting on payment in this shape. It was not all Scottish canniness, as is too generally believed. Only by transforming his steel investments into bonds could there be a complete separation from business. Had Carnegie accepted stock, his share would have been so great—even in a concern capitalized as liberally as the United States Steel Corporation—that he would still have been actively engaged in trade. The Carnegie interest would have amounted to at least 25 per cent, and under these conditions the largest holder could not have escaped responsibility for management. By taking bonds Carnegie ceased to be an owner and became a creditor. His divorce from steel was thus made absolute.

An even more compelling reason was that Carnegie had no intention of keeping this money; the plan was to give nearly all of it away. Capital was therefore necessary in a form that could be used for endowing the many public institutions he had in mind. The investment must be secure, and returns placed without the sphere of chance.

How little he was inclined to gloat over his money-bags one fact discloses. Carnegie never even looked at the golden hoard to which he now fell heir. The mighty pile was delivered to Mr. Robert A. Franks, who had been his financial agent since 1883, and who now deposited the treasure in a specially constructed vault in the Home Trust Company at Hoboken, N. J. Mr. Franks thenceforth remained the exclusive custodian—certainly one of the greatest trusts ever confided to a mortal.

The proprietor visited the Home Trust Building a few times, but never entered the chamber that entombed his earthly possessions.

What He Gave Up

"The writer of these lines"—the quotations is from an article by Dr. W. J. Holland, of Pittsburgh—"recalls the remark made to him by the late Lord Rothschild, of London, who said, 'One of the most remarkable phenomena of our time is the fact that your friend, Mr. Andrew Carnegie, should in the brief period of one generation have amassed a fortune exceeding in size that of all the Rothschilds combined, which they have been a century in accumulating'."

Great as was Carnegie's storehouse, it was small compared with that which he surrendered. What he really abdicated was the supremacy of American steel. "I'll have at least £60,000,000 sterling," he wrote Morley while the sale was pending. "I could as well have had $500,000,000 in a few years." He did this too with open eyes; for no one more keenly than himself understood the extent of the sacrifice. "Our plans were being made," Carnegie said afterward, referring to the prospect of 1900, "and if we had not sold out we would have been a considerable concern by this time."

Before the Stanley Committee in 1911, the chairman said to Carnegie: "I am frank to say that I believe you would have captured the trade of the world if you had stayed in business. I am asking if you think so now?"

Carnegie: "I am as certain of it as I can be certain of anything." It was a judgment that his greatest rivals echoed.

"It is not at all certain," said Elbert H. Gary, "that if the old management or the management that was in force at one time had continued, the Carnegie Company would not have driven entirely out of business every steel company in the United States."

"Mr. Carnegie," remarked W. C. Temple, secretary of the Steel Plate Association, "with his then plant, and his organization and his natural resources, was in a position where he could dominate the entire situation, and had the United States Steel Corporation not been formed at about the time it was, some 10 years ago, the steel business not only of America but of the world today would be dominated by Andrew Carnegie."

The fortune resulting from such a suzerainty would have made the possessions of even the richest Americans look small. When Carnegie, therefore, on March 13, 1901, gaily shifted the burden to "Pierpont's" ample shoulders, thus dividing it among thousands of shareholders, the world was witnessing an act of self-abnegation on an heroic scale, and all in fulfillment of a purpose and an ideal which Carnegie had set before his eyes as a young man of 33.

COXTOWN GETS CAR HOMES

Six families, at least, are assured of unique and comfortable homes at "Coxtown" in the near future. The Pittsburgh Railways Company has donated to Father Cox for his Kittanning Pike farm community six retired trolley cars and plans already have been made to turn them into family homes. The cars have the first essentials of a comfortable small home—light and air, substantial walls, a raised flooring and a roof. The next step will be their conversion into living quarters and Father Cox will welcome practical suggestions from architects, home builders and others for making these old street cars available for living quarters.

Within a few days the six cars will be transported to Millvale on the tracks of the railway company, then placed on drays and hauled to Coxtown. They will be placed under the spreading trees and the future occupants will be given an adjacent garden plot.

Economic conditions have kept Father Cox from developing "Coxtown" as he originally planned, but he hopes to have 100 unemployed families comfortably housed on this unique community farm before May 1. He needs lumber, furniture and stoves for this purpose and will gladly send his truck for donations of this character.

Yesterday was another record-breaking day in the Father Cox-Sun-Telegraph drive for subscriptions. Every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page or is telephoned in with the request that Father Cox be given credit for it, brings a liberal cash commission to his unemployment relief fund. Telephones available for this purpose are Grant 4390 and Grant 6500.

NancyGarner, Lou Holtz With Rudy

Comedy in various styles and guises looms importantly on Rudy Vallee's weekly sunshine fest over NBC-WCAE at 8 o'clock tonight, topping the etherial entertainment bill.

Lou Holtz returns as guest artist to lead the revelry, aided and abetted by Oliver Wakefield, English comedian, and the Yacht Club Boys, whose eccentric singing has enlivened night clubs from New York to Florida. The weekly stage bit is from George Kaufman's laugh success, "Once in a Lifetime," with Hugh O'Connell and Jean Dixon, of the original Broadway cast, and Harold Vermilyea playing the principal roles.

Irish gems from Victor Herbert's "Princess Pat" and "Eileen," by Rudy's light opera company, featuring Nancy Garner, soprano and niece of the Vice President, rounds out the one-hour broadcast.

For day-time St. Patrick's Day tuners-in tomorrow, CBS-WJAS has listed:

An elaborate variety show, short-waved from Dublin and starring Harry O'Donovan and Jimmy O'Dea, dialogue team; Maire Ni Scolaidhe, singer; the Traditional Trio; Patrick Kirwan, tenor, and Seamus Ennis and F. O'Higgins, fiddle-and-pipes duo, 2:30 p. m.

Talk on "The Irish People in St. Patrick's Time," by the Rev. James A Geary, of the Catholic University of America, 12:45 p. m.

American School of the Air current events discussion of the Irish Question, by Dr. Charles Fleischer, 2 p. m.

"Rambles in Erin," musical and dramatic program, 4:30 p. m.

Conrad Thibault, youthful baritone who has sung with the Philadelphia Grand Opera Company and in concert with leading symphony orchestras, boards Capt. Henry's Show Boat for a guest appearance on WCAE tonight at 9.

Four stations in the Pittsburgh area offer "The Robot Romeo," futuristic fantasy based on an article published in the next issue of the American Weekly, today on the following schedule: KQV, 9 p. m.; WWSW, 4 p. m.; WJAC, Johnstown, 5 p. m., and WWVA, Wheeling, W. Va., 5:30 p. m. Helen Lynd, noted comedienne, plays the lead.

"The Call of the Seine," the second of this week's American Weekly dramas, depicting the fate of a French actress who carried her tragic stage role into real life, is presented on WFBG, Altoona, at 3 p. m., and WKBN, Youngstown, O., at 9 p. m. The playlet features Suzanne Caubaye and Janet Martine, internationally-famed French stars.

Uncle Bob, Betty Read Comics

News flashes by Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, are relayed to WCAE and WJAS listeners at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:15 p. m. and 6:30 p. m. today. Mr. Kaufman's schedule tomorrow is the same with the exception of the 2:15 broadcast, carried by WCAE only.

Roosevelt's Broadcasts Continue

By AIRCASTER

Although network broadcasters have not been notified of a proposed series of semimonthly broadcasts by President Roosevelt, they point out that their facilities always are available to the Chief Executive at any time he desires to use them. The broadcasts are said to be a possible outcome of the recent Sunday night talk on banks, and would be a distinct innovation, keeping the President in direct—and constant—touch with the listening American public.

The sponsor of the George Olsen-Fannie Brice series inaugurated last night will give each of the artists a year's contract, contingent upon the success of the first two broadcasts in the series.

It is unfortunate that Leopold Stokowski missed being a radio amateur back in the days of Doc Deforest, Marconi, Armstrong, Heising, Alexanderson and other technical pioneers.

In his ambitious dreams for perfecting his own broadcasts, he has developed a score or more of gadgets, including sound-mixing panels, microphone set-ups and other devices, which, had he served his radio apprenticeship, he would have recognized as old stuff.

But you can't stop Stokowski. He's back again with a new plot for his Saturday session over WJAS. He has a fresh theory. He believes the man at the radio control panel is as important, if not more so, than the tuba tooter, the violin section or even the genius who breathes into the bassoon.

The control engineer has been too long an outcast to suit Mr. S., who will bring him into the studio on his next broadcast, place him and his panel at the foot of the podium, and educate the fellow who attends the volume to obey the signals of the baton.

You may not be able to teach musicians to engineer their own volume, but Stokowski is sure he can educate engineers to become musicians. That's one stunt that not even Marconi thought about.

Globe-Trotting

With the Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen!

Many people are a bit disturbed over the treasury ruling requiring the depositing in the Federal Reserve of gold coins. One woman is exceedingly grateful to a certain bank which returned a rare gold dollar, dated 1873, which was given to her baby as a keepsake.

The biggest money deal reported, though, is one by a globe trotter, whose name is being withheld. He purchased a 1795 silver dollar for 75 cents. The seller thought he struck a good bargain because a store in which he tried to spend it would not take it and the purchaser is happy because the coin was appraised at $40 by a collector.

Ralph Lennig sends me a letter from his father who was on the scene during the recent California earthquake. In the description of the upheaval he mentions that even the dogs and cats were running around in circles and wondering what it was all about.

Out on the Perry highway a Trotter noticed a little black cat scurrying to the topmost branches of the tree. She was perturbed a bit at the plight of the cat when the mother also saw the effect of the kitten's misdirected energy, climbed the tree to effect the rescue. After a perilous ascent the cat was retrieved and dropped to earth from a low hanging limb. Immediately it started to climb again but going up met her rescuer coming down and was saved allover again. The unknown rescuer is being complimented by an unknown admirer.

If we are looking for fish stories, we could have used the one about the zebra-striped fish hatched in the aquarium of Leo A. Kerns, of Jeannette. It has two mouths, the lower opening about six times as much as the upper one.

COMMODITIES JOIN STOCK UPSURGE

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP.) — Violent upswings in cotton and wheat, on the resumption of trading in those markets, inspired further active buying of securities today.

A flood of buying came into the stock market in the early trading, more than offsetting extensive profit-taking, and trading swelled to the largest volume since September, but the list turned quiet my midday, and advances of 1 to 3 points in many issues were not fully maintained. A few issues dipped under yesterday's close, but the ability of the market to retain most of yesterday's gains of 2 to 16 points, and in some instances extend them, was gratifying.

By early afternoon, many issues were still up 1 to 2 points or so, including American Telephone, Westinghouse, Woolworth, Johns Manville, Chrysler, Aviation Corporation, Macy, McKeesport, Owens Illinois Glass, Crown Cork and Seal, United States Industrial Alcohol, American Tobacco B, Liggett & Myers B, and Delaware and Hudson. United States Steel common and preferred were up small fractions, and gains of almost a point were retained in General Electric, International Harvester, Sears, United Aircraft, National Dairy and others. Coca Cola lost 1½, while beer stocks went up, and rails ran into some profit taking, Union Pacific and Santa Fe showing moderate recessions.

The overwhelming approval by the Senate of the government economy bill was widely hailed in financial quarters as the day's best news, tending to boost the general state of confidence a notch or two higher. News of definite pickup in industrial and commercial activity, after the interruption of last week's banking shutdown, was still restricted largely to isolated reports of better retail trade, but Wall street analysts were strongly inclined to the opinion that the complete change in national psychology must bring a belated seasonal quickening of business.

Some brokerage quarters were inclined to the opinion that the technical position of the share market had been weakened by sharp reduction in the short interest in yesterday's advance, which, calculated on a percentage basis, was the wildest in Wall street's memory. Nevertheless, the better sentiment seemed to have stemmed selling, and the bond market continued to push ahead in reassuring fashion.

The so-called "beer" stocks were again prominent in today's buying, and were joined by tobaccos. American Tobacco's annual report, showing 1932 net of $3.46 a share, against $9.07 in 1931, again attracted interest to that group, although the cigaret price situation has been changed radically by this year's cuts. Issues calculated to benefit by higher prices for farm products, such as the farm implements and mail orders, again attracted considerable attention. Rails ran into some profit taking, as the volume of freight appeared to have fallen off sharply during the banking holiday. Nevertheless, some railroad quarters voiced the conviction that car loadings might well be up to 1932 levels by May.

WHEAT JUMPS AS PIT REOPENS

CHICAGO, March 16.—Wheat prices jumped 5 cents a bushel today the moment trading began.

Trading pits and the spectators' gallery were crowded to capacity and throngs on the exchange floor were the largest ever known on a regular business day.

Corn as well as wheat soared at today's opening to the extreme limits permitted, a rise of 3 cents a bushel. During the first half hour, the wave of buying kept both wheat and corn almost constantly at the highest point that prevailing emergency rules made possible.

Compared with March, the last day the Chicago market was officially doing business in cash grain, corn for immediate delivery was 1 to 2 cents higher.

In comparison with March 3, the latest previous day of futures trading prices for spot delivery of corn were up 3 to 3½ cents.

News and Views

SUPERHEATER COMPANY

Report of Superheater Company and its affiliated Canadian company for the year ended December 31, 1932, shows net profit of $337,027 after depreciation, taxes and minority interests, equivalent to 38 cents a share on 879,849 no-par shares of capital stock. This compares with $385,208, or 43 cents a share on 884,799 shares in 1931. Plant operations in 1932 resulted in a net loss of $252,814, but income from investments and allied companies and profits from sale of securities offset the operating loss and provided the above net profit.

WALWORTH COMPANY

Report of Walworth Company and subsidiaries fro the year ended December 31, 1932, shows net loss of $1,306,573 after taxes, interest, depreciation, and current write-downs of products manufactured in 1932, etc. This compares with net loss of $2,062,555 before inventory adjustments in 1931. In latter years adjustments to reduce inventory values to market or replacement costs, deferred charges written off and foreign exchange loss, amounting to $1,989,848, were charged directly against surplus.

GENERAL TANK CAR

The Board of Directors of General American Tank Car Corporation announced that it would recommend to the stockholders at their annual meeting in April a change in the company's name to General American Transportation Corporation. The reason, said the board, is that the old name "no longer describes the variety of General American's activities," which now include extensive transportation of food products in refrigerator cars.

CALIFORNIA GASOLINE SALES

Taxable gasoline distributed by all companies in California in January totaled 90,884,805 gallons, against 103,678,306 in December and 102,209,762 in January, 1932, according to the State Board of Equalization. Revenues to the state from gasoline taxes in January were $2,669,278, against $3,035,629 in the like 1932 month, a decline of 12.4 per cent.

STANDARD CAP AND SEAL

Standard Cap and Seal Corporation and wholly owned subsidiary report for year ended December 31, 1932, net profit of $576,595 after charges and federal taxes, equivalent to $2.80 a share (par $5) on 206,000 shares of capital stock. This compares with $648,366, or $3.15 a share, in 1931.

M'CORD RADIATOR

McCord Radiator and Manufacturing Company and subsidiary in report for year ended December 31, 1932, (certified by independent auditors) show net loss of $649,109 after taxes, interest, depreciation, inventory adjustment and other charges, comparing with net loss of $283,948 in 1931.

FURNITURE SHIPMENTS UP

February furniture distribution was considerably better than in January, due to special promotional events in many parts of the country, according to Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. March business was restricted by the bank holiday.

LIVESTOCK VALUES OFF

Livestock on American farms shrank approximately $500,000,000 in value—or 17 per cent—during the last year. The Bureau of Agricultural Economics, which made this estimate, said the shrinkage came despite an increase of about 2 per cent in the number of animals.

CONTINENTAL CAN

JAVA SUGAR CROP

LOCAL STOCKS CONTINUE UPWARD

Further advance in the brewing shares and continued upturn in the industrials marked the trading on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today. Volume of business was somewhat larger than yesterday, when the market reopened after the prolonged suspension due to the bank moratorium. A broader list of securities appeared on the board today with the business well distributed among the various issues.

The Pittsburgh Brewing Company issues held the leadership of that group with the preferred stock recorded a gain of 1¾ points on the early uprush. In the fuel division Lone Star Gas worked moderately higher as did Western Public Service. The latter was admitted to the official trading list. Heretofore it has been handled in the so-called "unlisted" division. Blaw Knox scored a further gain on top of the three-point advance recorded yesterday. United Engineering moved up a full point.

PIT TO REMOVE RESTRICTIONS

CHICAGO, March 16.—(AP.)—Fred H. Clutten, secretary of the Board of Trade, announced in the pit a few minutes before closing that restrictions in price fluctuations of all grains would be withdrawn effective at the close of trading tomorrow, March 17.

MARKET SPURT CANNOT LAST, EXPERT SAYS

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, March 16.—The present upsurge in the stock market may possibly go down into history as the "Roosevelt Bull Market." That Would be like kissing the foot that kicked it, for President Roosevelt has openly criticized past bull market methods, and stock market regulation is practically certain.

Maybe the financial powers that be are staging a last splurge before settling down to purified commercial banking and a government regulated exchange.

ONLY ONE CERTAINTY

One sure thing is that such an upheaval as yesterday's cannot continue. That, I would say, is about the only point that is certain.

It would seem that the momentum gained is likely to bring at least one more strong session. We might have the move "top out" today with a further fair rise. Or we might see a little reaction today with reduced volume, followed by another whirl tomorrow. But stocks are not going straight up forever.

1—There was a widespread reaction from the old feeling that money is the best thing to have, the whole trend now being to take "currency" rather lightly. So people said, "Let's buy equities" (no matter in what!)

2—Many people are now convinced that "inflation" is inevitable, and have it figured out that stocks and commodities will go up on any inflation. We see this in the special strength of "commodity" or "inventory stocks" such as metals and foods.

3—There was considerable short covering. While the short interest was not large or weak enough to be the main factor, it helped. Probably most shorts who were locked in by the suspension of the exchange watched the high opening with mild surprise. Some sold more after the first hesitation in the market. But many covered when the rise was resumed in the afternoon. The big jumps in Allied Chemical and Union Pacific tell the story.

4—The "relief psychology" was a factor—as in the Hoover moratorium and the Glass-Steagall moves. Many said, "Things might have been worse." After all, most banks are left; the government got by its March 15 financing, etc.

5—Some large blocks of stock to be liquidated were withheld after the strong opening. This helped in a negative way.

8—Considerable foreign funds are virtually locked in the United States, as gold exports are banned and the dollar is weak. Such funds would be apt to go into stocks on such a move.

UNSOUND BASIS SEEN

When all is said, the thing comes down to "psychology"—a phychology which is for the moment no less potent because it ignores unemployment, calls the receivers for large banks "conservators," and hopes that beer for the poor will balance the budget.

I am not a psychologist. As an economist, I can merely point out that this move is not soundly based. The business background is not there. (In fact, we still face crises in railway finance, real estate, and on top of billions lost in bank deposits).

It may anticipate inflation by way of the government debt—depreciated currency route. But if so, why are high-grade bonds and railway stocks soaring?

I still have hopes that President Roosevelt and his advisors will keep on a sound monetary system, and that when the next bull market comes it will be a real one.

BOND ADVANCE CONTINUES

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP.)—United States government securities continued to lead the bond market upward in the early trading today. Prices of both the Liberty and Treasury issues ranged from 3-32 to 17-32 of a point higher. Gains of around a point were recorded by loans of American and Foreign, American Telephone, Chile Copper, Cincinnati Gas, International Telephone and United States Rubber. There were numerous fractional advances. Japanese obligations moved forward, but British 5½s and some of the Germans eased.

Heavy Profit Taking Fails to Depress General List

Through the early part of the day it was apparent that profit-taking and liquidation by traders who had long awaited the opportunity for such action was making itself felt. While trading continued to set a terrific pace, throwing the tape eight minutes late for a long interval, the price movement was much less spectacular than it had been on Wednesday. This was particularly true in the case of railroad shares, where Union Pacific, one of the outstanding strong features yesterday, was being called upon to absorb considerable selling. Demand, however, was such that offerings were absorbed without making serious inroads in the price level.

In point of activity in the opening half hour this morning was far more spectacular than on the preceding day. With nearly a million shares changing, initial prices revealed only small changes from Wednesday's closing levels, but largely in the nature of fractional gains. Thereafter, as early selling by traders who had seen large profits accumulate on yesterday's rise subsided, the market took up the thread of its advance again with many active leaders adding 1 to 2 points to the top levels of Wednesday. The tremendously active opening, however, was interesting chiefly as indicating that yesterday's remarkable performance, particularly the strong closing, had brought in a heavy accumulation of buying orders overnight.

Chicago Board of Trade officials evidently were well aware of conditions when they decided to fix limits on fluctuations on the reopening today. Grains, led by wheat, scored gains up to the limits allowed virtually on initial transactions. Prepared though it was for a spectacular opening, the grain trade was little short of amazed by the sweep of demand and there was much speculation on how far the rise might have carried but for the limits. With the market in a state of suspended animation due to the lack of offerings under the limits prescribed. Those traders who sought to anticipate a further advance in wheat were forced to go into the Winnipeg market as a means of obtaining a position.

The sensational action of the grain market found vivid reflection in the share list where the so-called farm stocks were in the center of hectic speculation. Spurred on by the limit advances in wheat and other grains, buying in stocks in that group assumed unusually large proportions and resulted in the placing of further substantial gains on top of the spectacular advances scored yesterday. Case and International Harvester were in new high ground for the year, the former showing a gain of some 5 points on top of Wednesday's 7 point advantage, while Montgomery Ward and Sears, Roebuck also were sharply higher.

Time money rates firmer today with all maturities quoted at an offering rat eof 5 per cent compared with a nominal rate of 2½ per cent on March 3. The market was unquoted yesterday. Other money rates showed easier tendencies. Yield rates on bankers acceptances, a popular form of credit, were reduced ¼ of 1 per cent on all maturities. Dealers reported a revival of investment demand for this paper and a shrinkage in the available supply. Call money on the Stock Exchange renewed at 5 per cent, unchanged, but dropped to 4 later in the day.

Stockholders of Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., are today in receipt of their quarterly dividend on the Class A 7 per cent preferred shares. One of the few ranking American corporations remaining on its regular dividend basis, Hearst has shown consistent earnings throughout the depression. The last statement showed the dividend earned by a wide margin. The corporation is in an exceptionally strong financial position and will be quick to reflect the return of normal business conditions.

Farmers' Wheat Holdings Up $50,000,000

CHICAGO, March 16.—Today's upturn in the wheat futures market is expected to benefit the producer to the extent of around $50,000,000. This is based on indicated amount of grain held in farmers' hands on March 1 as shown by the recent private estimates.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, March 16.—Bond market prices, reflecting the revival of optimistic sentiment, again moved forward over a wide front today. United States government securities maintained their leadership in the upward club with gains ranging from fractions to more than 2 points in some maturities and numerous advances of 1 to 3 or more points were recorded by domestic corporate loans. Foreign obligations were a trifle irregular, although the Japanese group were in demand.

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows (000 omitted in sales column; United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

COTTON SOARS ON BUYING

NEW YORK, March 16.—Cotton futures opened firm, 52-86 higher on active general buying, higher Liverpool cables and evidence of returning confidence in business generally. March, 6.68; May, 6.79; July, 7.01; October, 7.50; December, 7.66; January, 7.65.

May sold up to 6.97 and October to 7.50 during the early trading, making net advances of 70 to 94 points as compared with the close of March 3. Considerable southern selling as well as realizing came on the advance and there was also some selling through houses with Liverpool connections. Offerings were sufficient to cause some irregularity and setbacks of a few points by the end of the first half hour.

The early advance to 6.97 carried the price of May contracts up to the highest level reached since last October, then the market attracted a good deal of realizing. This in addition to some southern selling and rather active selling here through houses with Liverpool connections, caused reactions of about 28 to 40 points from the best during the late morning. The selling became less active after the close of Liverpool, however, and after easing off to 6.66, May steadied up to 6.78 toward noon, with active months generally showing net advances of 52 to 58 points at mid-day.

LIVERPOOL, March 16.—Cotton — Receipts, 200 bales; all American. Spot in better demand, improved business done; prices 17 points higher. Quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 6.00; good middling, 5.70; strict middling, 5.40; middling, 5.25; strict low middling, 5.10; low middling, 4.95; strict good ordinary, 4.75; good ordinary, 4.45. GOLDMAN, SACHS PAR CHANGED

WILMINGTON, Del., March 16.—(INS.)—Stockholders of the Goldman-Sachs Trading Corporation at the annual meeting here yesterday adopted a proposal to reduce the capitalization of the concern by $23,080,324 in order to effect economies in franchise and stock transfer tax payments.

The stockholders voted to reclassify the capital stock which at present has no par value to a par of $1 a share, reduce the stated value of the 5,765,081 shares of this stock now outstanding to $1 a share and transfer the balance to the capital surplus account, and reduce the number of outstanding shares of such stock from 10,000,000 to 7,000,000.

Woodin Seeks Funds Covering Tax Delay

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP.)—Secretary Woodin, of the Treasury Department, has asked bids for $100,000,000 of 91-day bills, dated March 22 and to be sold on a discount basis to the highest bidders.

While no official commented upon the invitation to bid for the $100,000,000 in the 91-day bills, it was assumed that the borrowing at this time was because money was needed due to the delay granted for paying income tax.

Bank of England.

LONDON, March 16.—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows these changes in pounds: Total reserve increased 5,945,000; circulation increased 489,000; bullion increased 6,434,000; other securities increased 67,000; public deposits increased 6,283,000; other deposits decreased 7,071,000; notes reserve increased 5,959,000; government securities decreased 6,795,000. The proportion of the bank's reserve to liability is 48.55 per cent compared with 44.65 last week. Rate of discount 2 per cent.

MAKING MISTAKES WITH Your MONEY

IT is common experience that a man who prospers in his own business is so absorbed in it that he learns little about the wise investing of his means. Often he falls victim to promoters of speculative or worthless enterprises or buys securities that are unseasoned and prove failures.

Have you ever thought that the same mistakes likely would be made with your money by an individual executor of your estate?

The handling of estates is the business of a trust company. This institution offers the experience of 46 years and the financial security of its combined capital, surplus and undivided profits.

'New Era' Opens Very Cheerily; Big Decision

By B. C. FORBES

CHEERING NEWS:

The nation gave expression to its conviction that a "new era" has dawned by clamoring for shares in American enterprises at improved prices when the New York Stock Exchange reopened its doors yesterday morning. The initial rush to buy was most impressive.

Mr. Forbes

The expectation was that cotton quotations also would register a substantial advance in the cotton exchanges today.

Other commodities, though doubtless showing mixed changes, are likely to average higher than when trading was suspended.

Banking news was again encouraging yesterday.

Washington developments continue to please, even to thrill. President Roosevelt's stature admittedly has grown day by day.

INDUSTRY AND business are extraordinarily gratified by the United States Supreme Court's ruling that coal producers are legally entitled to co-operate in organizing sales channels.

The decision is characterized by leading industrialists as the most important, the most favorable interpretation of anti-trust law since the famous "rule of reason" was propounded 22 years ago.

Expect far-reaching results. Various vital industries have been afraid to take steps they believed imperatively necessary to correct trade evils and to establish sound, businesslike, live-and-let-live conditions. The Supreme Court having removed the chief obstacle to co-operative action, industry after industry will now proceed to set its house in order.

The rubber industry should be among the first to act, since it is a glaring, perhaps the most glaring, example of imprudent, destructive, suicidal policies, policies which have injured employes, injured stockholders, injured bondholders, injured tax revenue, injured the whole national wellbeing.

Robert P. Lamont, who resigned as Secretary of Commerce to become "umpire" or "conciliator" or "czar" of the steel industry, may now be able to bring about more harmonious, more constructive, more profitable practices and policies. Copper producers may also be able to get together more effectively. Ditto other distraught industries.

Inspiring!

General Sales Manager Blees reports that Pontiac sales this year exceed last year.

R. C. Graham wires:

"Retail deliveries of Graham sixes and eights during February increased 36 per cent over January. Export business gained 41 per cent. Most dealers have more prospects on their books than at any time in three years.

Chevrolet, with characteristic courage, is sparing neither effort nor money to boom its new "economy" line of passenger cars. As Henry T. Ewald observes:

He sagely adds:

"The best thing that advertisers can do to restore confidence is to show confidence themselves."

THE PINEAPPLE PRODUCERS' CO-OPERATIVE ASSOCIATION wires:

"As evidence that aggressive sales promotion and advertising are productive even in period of financial stress, a 30-car trainload of canned pineapple, comprising over a million cans, has left San Francisco for eastern destinations. Demand has been stimulated by a million-dollar education campaign."

VERILY, THE "new deal" promises to stimulate new ideals.

BANK DEPOSITS INCREASE ON REOPENING

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, March 15.—The experience of the reopened banks in receiving more deposits than withdrawals recalls an apocryphal anecdote.

In an earlier period of depression, an emotional depositor, hearing that his bank was in trouble, rushed frantically to the paying teller's window to draw out his entire balance. The teller calmly counted out the bills to meet the request, and then handed them to the depositor. The depositor thought for a moment, and then returned the money to the teller, saying:

Mr. Rukeyser

"If I can have my money, I don't want it."

Understanding this psychology, President Roosevelt, in his recent radio classic on the banking situation, astutely said:

"It needs no prophet to tell you that when the people find that they can get their money—that they can get it when they want it for all legitimate purposes—the phantom of fear will soon be laid."

Walter Bagehot, the great British economist, expressed this thought in his famous book "Lombard street," in which he said:

"In opposition to what might be at first supposed, the best way for the bank or banks who have the custody of the bank reserve to deal with a drain arising from internal discredit, is to lend freely. The first instinct of every one is the contrary. There being a large demand on a fund which you want to preserve the most obvious way to preserve it is to hoard it—to get in as much as you can, and to let nothing go out which you can help.

"But every banker knows that this is not the way to diminish credit. This discredit means, 'an opinion that you have not got any money,' and to dissipate that opinion you must, if possible, show that you have money; you must employ it for the public benefit in order that the public may know that you have it. The time for economy and for accumulation is before. A good banker will have accumulated in ordinary times the reserve he is to make use of in extraordinary times."

State's Merchandise Shipments Decline

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP.)—Pennsylvania business and industry shipped merchandise valued at $76,219,384 out of the state during the first nine months of last year, as compared with goods valued at $142,489,550 during the corresponding period of 1931.

The decrease was felt in all the state's principal industries. Bituminous coal export trade value shrank from $15,341,067 to $11,578,723. Anthracite dropped from $12,337,066 to $8,739,080. Lubricating oil fell to $10,643,053 from $13,113,204. Automobile parts other than tires fell from $15,437,113 to $4,046,164.

Playgirls in Love

"Those beasts of men! I hate them all!" Zella had banged her pillow viciously.

But a still small voice of truth informed Zella this wasn't entirely so . . . Zella had been blossoming out herself these days of spring . . . she'd a man-friend, a painter down in Greenwich Village who seemed to think the world and all of her . . .

"I couldn't care for him in a thousand years!" But it was flattering, just the same, that this lover of beauty who continually sought to put it on his canvases, should fall for her . . .

Well, life was a queer mix-up. You never got what you wanted unless you were hard-boiled, and went right out after it, and grabbed it, as Loranda had done.

* * *

One evening shortly after six o'clock, Genevieve called up Judith at the little flat and invited her to come down to her apartment for dinner.

"What's she want with me? I'm the worst company in the world. Zella, old thing, you go in my place! Genevieve says she's got the blues and can't be left alone! She's positively insistent!"

ACCEPTS INVITATION

"For dinner?"

"Yep. I was going to take you, too. But here's where you can do a little Christian act and cheer up Genevieve . . ."

"On the principle that misery loves company, I suppose?"

"She really wants you, Judith. She came into the shop today—I forgot to tell you—she wanted your phone number at the bank."

"It's in the directory. She could have called me up. What's the matter, anyhow, with Genevieve?"

"Trouble with her sweetheart, I suppose. By golly, what females don't go through! You'll never catch me falling in love!"

"Well, run along and slip into another dress. Genevieve's got a cute apartment. She'll give you a good dinner. I'll drop you in my taxicab."

Zella was relieved that Judith wasn't to be alone tonight. She'd been worrying about Judith.

* * *

Genevieve was extended languidly on a chaise longue when Judith—the door being ajar and no one answering her ring—walked into the living room of the apartment.

A DEFINITE REASON

"I'm awfully glad you came, Judith. Take off your wrap and make yourself at home. When I've summoned a little energy—for this spring weather is exhausting—I'm going to mix you a cocktail."

"Oh, not on my account," Judith said quickly.

"She knows how I feel about Loranda and Barry . . .! She just asked me here because misery loves company!"

So thought Judith.

But she was not entirely right. There was a definite motive in Genevieve's invitation that was to be unfolded later . . .

She drank straight gin herself, she said. There was a curious look in Genevieve's eyes . . . a twitching of the hands that disconcerted her young visitor.

Genevieve went out to the kitchenette and when she came back with the cocktail shaker, she appeared to be a different being.

Honeydew melon . . . bouillon cup . . . delicious young salmon served with sliced cucumber, and mayonnaise . . . tiny new potatoes, green peas and asparagus.

Genevieve made Turkish coffee with a spirit lamp under a glass container on a copper base. She added the requisite drops of rose-water, and handed an ornate little demi-tasse to Judith.

Genevieve shrugged. "Oh, I learnt it last year, when I was in Constantinople with Cliss."

"She loves him. She's unhappy. Poor Genevieve!" thought Judith sympathetically.

EXPENSIVE TASTE

Genevieve seemed to have fallen into a dream. Judith looked round the living room.

It was furnished in expensive taste. There were rich, faded rugs on the floor, of oriental design. An enormous Italian desk that was nearly as big as a Victorian wardrobe stood against one wall. It was open, displaying endless little drawers with gilded pictures on each one.

A delicately wrought tapestry that was at least fourteen feet in width, and six feet high covered another side of the room. It was a forest scene, with impossibly-shaped young people in the foreground, making love, and playing foreign instruments, and startled-looking deer in the background.

There was a long refectory table, painted in faded green design . . . and a prie-dieu . . . and two wrought-iron Italian chairs, saddle-backed, with curved seats of crimson velvet.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Three weeks ago Manager Joe Blowitz staged a new and novel contest for the members of the Manor Chapter of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club. This was a doughnut eating contest and it met with so much approval last Saturday he held another. When the contest was announced many youngsters wanted to enter, so many in fact that Manager Blowitz was forced to have the entrants draw straws to see who would compete. Those who were left out last Saturday will compete this Saturday.

The winners of the contest last Saturday were Irving Dunn for the boys' division and Ada Block for the girls. Each of these youngsters received a pair of tickets for the Manor Theater.

The main attraction last week was Albert Titmus and Charles Bender in a mouth organ duet. The tricks these youngsters did with their mouth organs held the audience spellbound for the duration of their act. That the members appreciated their music was shown by the loud and long ovation which they received.

JUNIOR PATROL PLEDGE

I promise to do my best to make my parents proud of me.

COLLOID MILL

The blades on the revolving cylinder disperse the solid material, suspended in liquid, so finely that colloid state of the suspended material results. Characteristics of colloidal suspension: The particles are electrically charged and cannot be filtered out by any ordinary filter. Another method of colloid dispersion is by electric arc. Examples of colloid state: Albumen in the blood and milk, also the clouds, smoke. The importance of the study of the colloidal state is increasing in medical research, too, as it connects certain diseases (like Brights disease) with the colloid behavior of the materials suspended in the blood. (Travis: Colloid Mills.) (Chemistry.)

LAWS PROVIDE FOR IMPROVEMENT OF LAND

Waste areas were turned into fertile land by reclamation and irrigation brought about by legislation. Brush dams built in gully (left) arrest top soil carried by rain filling up gully right). The field was later terraced to prevent washing away of top soil and to conserve moisture for growing crops. (Problems of Democracy, Economics).

OTTO LILIENTHAL

He made over 1,000 successful flights with his invention a bat-like glider in Germany and became a martyr of flying. (1896). (Post: Sky Craft). (Science).

THE PLUNGE OF THE "AERDROME"

The mishap of one of the pioneers of aviation, Samuel P. Langley, whose "Aerdrome," a steam engine driven plane, was destroyed at the first test in 1903. The professor-inventor, ridiculed and deprived of financial backing, died three years later. In 1914 Glenn Curtiss installed a modern airplane motor in the rebuilt "Aerdrome" and flew it! (Thomson: Aviation Stories). (Science).

DIVISION OF FOOD MONEY

When money is limited, buy from each dollar: Milk and cheese, 25 cents; vegetables and fruits, 20 to 25 cents; breads and cereals, 15 to 20 cents; fat and sweets, 15 to 20 cents; meat, fish and eggs, 15 to 20 cents. (Science).

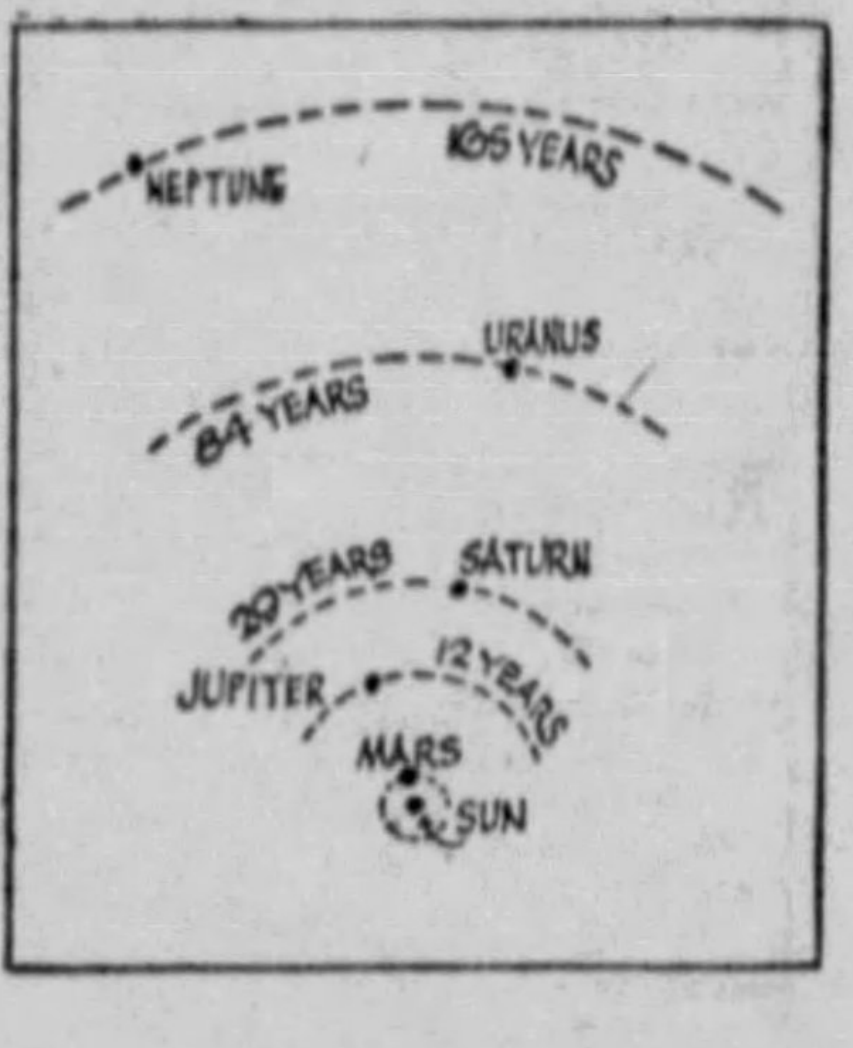
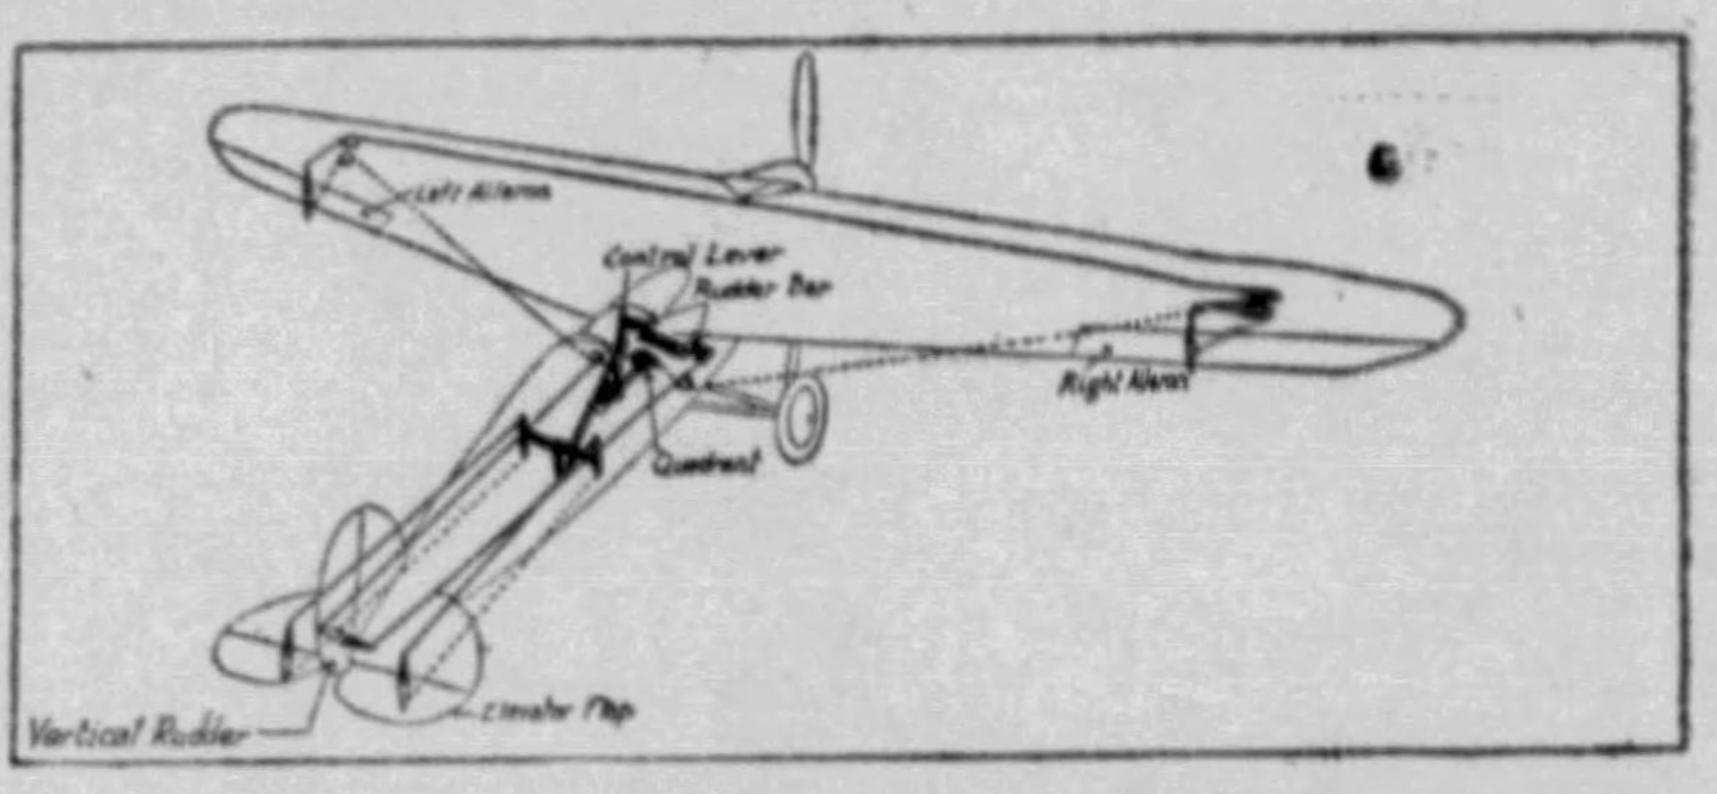
THE FIRST SUSTAINED FLIGHT

Orville and Wilbur Wright fitted a bi-plane glider with a 16 H. P. motor, driving double propellers behind the planes. Total weight, 750 lbs. On December 17, 1903, Wilbur Wright flew at 30-mile speed for 12 seconds. In tests at Kill-Devil dunes, North Carolina, flight ultimately was sustained for 59 seconds, covering 852 feet. (Post: Sky Craft). (Science).



ORBITS OF THE FOUR GIANT PLANETS

The ninth and remotest planet, Pluto, recently discovered, is not shown. Pluto is about the size of the earth and completes its orbit in 247.7 years.



Courtesy of Oxford University Press.

CONTROL OF AN AIRPLANE

Moving control lever to right or left tips plane in the same direction. Pulling the control lever back steers the plane upward, moving it forward points the nose toward the ground. Ailerons are controlled by cables and make the plane tip one way or the other. Right and left elevator-flaps are connected to the control level and serve the purpose to increase or decrease the lift of the tail. The vertical rudder is connected by cables to the rudder-bar so that when the pilot pushes out his right foot the airplane turns to the right and reversed by the left foot operation. (Post: Sky Craft). (Science).

Ethics of College Journalism

Every campus has its student news sheet devoted to collegiate gossip and economic haberdashery.

The next day you read in the college paper, "The dean of this chatter foundry is getting old and pappy. He doesn't know enough to walk on his toes when he has a sprained heel. What this university needs is a younger dean who knows some telephone numbers."

The dean reads the item about himself, orders some ham and cabbage, wipes the decimal points off his reading spectacles and revokes the college newspapers' front and rear license plates.

The editors of the college paper let out a roar that would open oysters. They march in a body past the dean's garage and are joined by the rest of the students. They burn the dead in effigy, make speeches and collect a testimonial donation from the campus bootlegger who must subscribe to everything that happens.

LO KID JUST IN TIME TO GRADUATE

All production is at a standstill when somebody thinks it might be a good idea if somebody apologized. So they pick out a student who stutters to make it last longer. The dean relents enough to ease his lumbago. The motto of the college paper is insults in upper case and retractions in agate. They reverse this standard for the dean and everybody is happy.

The college paper appears next week as usual, the students go back to the radio and the football team gets home from its Far Western trip in time to graduate.

The dean wags his old battered skull, shakes his warning finger at heedless youth and they promise not to do it again. The snow melts, everybody goes out and takes a walk and the winter is over. These little quarrels will happen anywhere where men are snowbound and proves, that no matter what you see about the dean, you always get your diploma.

The Pittsburgh Plan

The Committee Headed by Mr. Kaufmann Deserves the Nation's Thanks for Its Study.

A committee of Pittsburghers headed by Edgar Kaufmann has submitted to the new administration at Washington a carefully thought out plan for relieving unemployment.

It calls for the advancement of $2,000,000,000 by the Federal Government to the states for self-liquidating projects and the rehabilitation of industries.

The plan would do away with dole relief and go a long way towards solving the problem of idleness—"frozen labor," as Mr. Kaufmann so appropriately calls it.

The committee deserves the thanks of the nation for the work and study devoted to the plan. It confers credit on Pittsburgh.

The time and attention given by the leaders at Washington to Mr. Kaufmann's presentation of the plan shows in what respect it is held by the Roosevelt administration.

The action of the House in appointing two members of the Committee on Unemployment to represent Pennsylvania in Washington and press for consideration of the plan is an eloquent testimonial to the impression it has made.

The Flood

Storage Reservoirs Should Be Built at the Headwaters Of the Rivers.

The rivers were low. For months the rainfall had been below normal. There was little snow in the mountains.

Then came a heavy general rain, and over night the waters rose, overflowed their banks, swept away river craft, invaded homes and business houses, brought misery to thousands in the Pittsburgh district and elsewhere.

In view of the height to which the rivers were raised by a single not very remarkable rainfall, it is not hard to believe Edwin K. Morse, the engineer, who says a flood that will put Smithfield street under water is quite within the range of probabilities.

We know how to prevent it. Thanks to the years of study by the Flood Commission of Pittsburgh, we are able to say definitely what can be done to save Pittsburgh and the three river valleys from these recurring disasters.

Seventeen storage reservoirs at the headwaters of the Allegheny and Monongahela to catch and hold the excess water until it is safe to release it would prevent floods. They can be built for $60,000,000.

If all this talk of building public works in times of industrial inactivity, to provide work for the unemployed and take advantage of the low prices of materials, means a thing, our flood protective works SHOULD BE BUILT NOW.

President Roosevelt has expressed himself in favor of federal appropriations for flood control.

The claims of Pittsburgh and the Allegheny, Monongahela and Ohio valleys for protection should be called to his attention.

Beer by April

The Senate and the State Legislatures Should Hasten To Approve.

President Roosevelt's urgent message, recommending immediate modification of the Volstead Act to legalize the sale of beer, has been met by the lower house of Congress exactly as it should have been met.

The overwhelmingly favorable vote of 316 to 97—nearly four to one—represents the demand of the country. It represents also a spirit of promptness in legislation and fidelity to public interest on the part of the Seventy-third Congress that the country vitally needs.

The present House is predominantly Democratic. The Democratic platform last fall called for the action just taken. Thus the pre-election pledge of the victorious party is properly fulfilled.

Senate action should not be long delayed, and should be no less emphatic. The same considerations that governed the House apply to the Senate also, and with equal force.

Let the Senate approve the beer bill as quickly as it can be brought to a vote; and let the State Legislatures which are in session lose no time in supplying the local legal machinery that the new regime calls for.

This country wants legal beer by April first, and ought to have it.

Political Slickers

The Congressmen Who Opposed the President's Economy Demand Are an Undesirable Type.

The country is conning carefully the names of the members of the House of Representatives who voted in the negative on the President's economy bill.

These men, whether Republicans or Democrats, stand in a very unenviable light before the people. By their votes they have shown themselves insensible or indifferent to the nation's dangers.

The background and justification of President Roosevelt's request for power to curb the fatal extravagance of the government was the complete breakdown of the last Congress in dealing with the matter.

In his special message, the President revealed in words that were unanswerable the mounting deficit of the government, the inadequacy of its revenues and the duty of reducing appropriations.

The majority of the Democratic Representatives, with the aid of a majority of the Republican membership of the House, were able to pass the bill.

So far as the men so voting were concerned, it showed a willingness to sacrifice the interests of the whole people rather than stand up manfully against a little self-interested clamor in their districts.

We like to think that this type of politician is passing. He does not fit in with the "new deal." The country's tolerance is exhausted for the public servant who seeks only an alibi when faced by an obvious duty.

The talk of this type of Congressman about preserving the right of Congress to deal with matters, which Congress has shown its inability to deal with at all—is bosh. So is the talk about invaded liberty of action. The liberty these men would preserve is the liberty to serve themselves, in a low politician way, rather than to serve their country.

The problems of the present call for conscience and courage. Political slickness, the art of "getting by," of dodging every test, and running out on every duty will no longer avail a man in public life.

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy

Do you make requests or demands of those who comprises your household?

If you are belligerent it is not surprising that your home life is not what it should be.

A large part of the antagonism we seem to encounter is the result of our own manner and lack of self-control.

Don't you want to be just and companionable?

Don't you want to have the respect of your family as well as others?

You may be able to get outside sympathy at first, but when it becomes known that you indulge in dramatics and outbursts of temper when things annoy you, you will find all turn against you.

The secret of successful home life lies in self-control and unselfishness, not in accusing others constantly.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 16.—There is a modest restaurant, near Tudor City, especially enjoyable because of its palatable, home-cooked food. One enters through an oak gate, from which hangs a brass lantern. All somehow remindful of a shepherd's cottage along a sweep of English countryside.

From the ceiling hang wicker-work cages, imprisoning canaries. The wall paper is of countrified blue flowers, and at the far end is an open hearth of roaring logs. The subdued splendor is heightened by light on dark timber, the gleam of brass and pale shine of pewter.

But the real cheer is in the commuting clientele. There are those who have not quite made the grade. Respectable but a bit defeated, they do not whine. Ladies discuss gardens. Gangly sons and buxom daughters, suggesting the gooseberry patch, sit stifly. Laughing is politely restrained.

The women smoke, but without the knack of experience. Husbands are permitted to light their pipes. Sometimes they go on to balcony seats at the play, but mostly they catch the 8:45. All have a graciousness toward those who serve that is seldom seen in uppity cafes.

* * *

One wonders if the restaurant habit is not an inheritance from aborigines in the jungle. A desire to eat together is older than civilization. After all, it is not a pretty sight to see a beautiful lady across from you lift a drippy bit of beefsteak to her lovely lips. It has the shudder of an ancient orgy, from which civilization might be expected to fly with loathing.

Many melancholy, dark little shops have survived when great institutions have gone crashing over-night. They have under-counter sliding tills, and smudgy children play around the door. I asked the proprietor of one on Lexington avenue how business was. He replied: "Off a little now, but it will pick up. We always had good times and bad. This bad time is just a little longer." And he went coughing back into the shadows.

Recently, I called up a Gramercy Park novelist, and among other things inquired about his family. "They give me a pain," he said, "but I'm nuts about the whole outfit."

Of all chronic first nighters, it strikes me, the two who enjoy performances most are the pink-haired Hope Hampton and her husband, Jules Brulatour. They always applaud and they invariably remain until the final curtain.

Everyone is flattered by immediate admittance to prominents. Today, in a theatrical office, I ran such a gauntlet like a shot. But the vanity got a quick puncture. And I offed-to-Buffalo right out in the nice fresh air again.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

This "new deal" everyone's talking about—

You glance over the details. Shorter working hours. Distribution of jobs and, possibly, of wealth. Co-operative contracts between employers and employes. Unemployment and old age insurance. Municipal ownership of public utilities.

You read on and on; find yourself thinking.

"Yes, it certainly sounds fine," you say to yourself. "If they can put it over, it will make a new world. Better breaks for the common people. But I wonder what it will mean for me. Will it make my life mean something, at last? Will it lift me out of this old rut; give me new interests, new chances?"

Will it lift you? Will it help you?

Would you use a New Deal if you had one?

"Why, of course I would!" you cry indignantly. "I've always wanted a chance to change my life."

And you've always HAD a chance to change your life.

This isn't the first New Deal that has come to you. There was a New Deal awaiting you every morning of your life. Never a dawn that didn't offer you new interests, new chances, a new opportunity to scramble "out of the old rut."

Yes, indeed you did!

BUT YOU DIDN'T WANT TO PAY THE PRICE. AND EVERY OPPORTUNITY CARRIED ITS INESCAPABLE PRICE.

New Deals listen lovely, but they're apt to be extremely uncomfortable in practice. If you accept new interests, you must give up old notions and prejudices. If you take new chances, you must risk your old safety. And "a rut" is often so comfortable that a lazy, cowardly man hates to leave it.

Of course we don't want to admit this. We like to pretend that mysterious and malicious outside forces are blocking our progress. We blame it on greedy Capitalists or corrupt Politicians, or even on members of our own family. But the truth is we, ourselves, are our own worst handicap. We're shackled by our own stubborness and stupidity, our own laziness, cowardice and conceit.

Remember that, in these days which are upon us. A new world is in the making. We're going to see amazing things within the next five years. Old leaders are going to be ousted. New leaders will take their places. Men and women who have never had great opportunity before will have it now. Perhaps you, yourself, may have a chance to see your most shining dreams come true.

BUT WILL YOU TAKE THAT CHANCE IF IT COMES?

For, remember, it won't be easy. Growth is never easy. You'll have to make yourself understand new ways of thinking and feeling. You'll have to give up many a habit you've cherished. You must face ridicule, cruel competition, frequent humiliation to your self-esteem. You must be prepared to make changes and accept compromises.

Are you big enough for that? Plastic enough?

WILL YOU USE THAT NEW DEAL, IF YOU GET ONE?

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Synd., Inc.)

Isn't It So?

More have been drowned in the bowl than in the sea.

MORE ACTION—'AND ACTION NOW'

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

President Roosevelt, having won the unanimous plaudits of the nation by the quick, decisive action on the banks, was engaged in conferences until after midnight Thursday; Friday morning found him busily engaged at 7:30 in the preparation of a message asking authority to take the next decisive step; and at noon the message was heard.

This message, like the first, is courageous, realistic, incisive, and discloses a determination that the nation shall face realities as clearly as he does.

It is not enough to protect depositors' money, to prevent crooked banking in the future—the vital interests of the nation demand that the nation shall get over its idiotic spree of spending more than it has to spend.

The balancing of the budget is necessary now to the protection of the dollar. For some years we have been running behind; we are now far behind; and to put the nation on its feet we have got to economize.

And that is where courage is required—but the President has it.

* * *

We Must Cut Cost Of Government

He asks for power to make drastic cuts in the cost of government. He wants permission to cut red tape. He wants to do the necessary thing—with "action—and action now." That is what the country wants him to do.

Unless we cut the cost of government the nation will go into bankruptcy and no one's money will be worth much.

This can be done under our democratic institutions if the people through their representatives grant the temporary power in an emergency.

It is the way to save our democratic institutions; for if the power is not granted now and bankruptcy comes, these institutions will give way in the general ruin to a dictatorship that will not be temporary.

The public should read this second masterful message with its courage, its militancy, its directness and refreshing frankness. There are some passages in it that should be burned into the consciousness of a people that now knows it has been living in a fool's paradise—because they have been fooled.

Reason for Gold Raids

"Thus we shall have piled up an accumulated deficit of $5,000,000,000."

And at the present hour the deficit is growing. It is this ever-increasing deficit that has been threatening us all with ruin, that has been paralyzing industry, destroying confidence, keeping men out of work.

"It has contributed to the recent collapse of our banking structure. It has accentuated the stagnation of the economic life of our people. It has added to the ranks of our unemployed. Our government's house is not in order, and for many reasons no effective action has been taken to restore it to order."

That is the reason for the gold raids, for the hoarding, for the threatened destruction of our entire credit system, for the degradation of the dollar—your dollar—in other lands. Again the President tells us the effect on human values:

"Upon the unimpaired credit of the United States government rests the safety of deposits, the security of insurance policies, the activity of industrial enterprises, the value of our agricultural products and the availability of employment."

It was time to have that said bluntly, brutally, with brevity and without argument. It does not admit of argument.

There Is No Other Possible Way

But again this can all be prevented by "action—and action now." As President Roosevelt puts it, "it is too late for a leisurely approach to this problem." We cannot wait "to act several months hence." And he explains why—gives one sufficient reason why:

He proposes "action—and action now." There is no other possible way.

He asks authority from Congress to act, and, of course, the power will be given—and of course, this will not be so good for some. Just now the nation must act for all. He puts it to us all slap-dash in the face:

"Such economies which can be made will, it is true, affect some of our citizens; but the failure to make them will affect all of our citizens. The very stability of our Government itself is concerned, and when that is concerned the benefits of some must be subordinated to the needs of all."

And that is axiomatic.

Congress Will Not Dare Falter or Hesitate

We have passed the stage where groups and organized minorities can be permitted, in a spirit of selfishness, to dictate that we shall go on spending more than we take in. If the narrow escape in the bank crisis has not brought all of us out of the clouds and down to earth we are a hopeless people—and we are not. We have passed the point where threats mean much. We have reached the point, with the nation's most vital interests involved, where courage to do the necessary thing will make the only appeal to popularity. We are dealing now with an emergency, and emergency measures are required to tide us over the crisis.

And everything must be subordinated at this juncture to this one—the maintenance of the nation's credit.

And happily the nation now has a leader ready and eager to assume the responsibility. All he asks is this:

"If Congress chooses to vest me with this responsibility it will be exercised in a spirit of justice to all, of sympathy to those who are in need and of maintaining inviolate the basic welfare of the United States."

Congress will not dare falter or hesitate.

Help by Following The Leader

It is said to be the plan of the President to effect savings to the amount of $614,000,000 and he says:

"I give you assurance that if this is done there is a reasonable prospect that within a year the income of the government will be sufficient to cover the expenditures of the government."

That is what we have been seeking, that is what we must have—and there can be no prosperity for anyone and no confidence in anyone until we are well on the highway to that coveted end.

We have been clamoring for leadership of quick decision and courage—and we have it now for the first time since the depression came.

This is the hour to think of the country and the ultimate good of us all by following the leader, shoulder to shoulder, marching all one way.

The Rhyming Optimist

Resolutions

In spite of all the hosts of wrong
That, threatening, pursue,
I will be brave, I will be strong.
I will be firm and true!
Unheeding staunch swords red with rust
That others have let fall.
I will be faithful to my trust,
Nor any vow recall.
I will be wise; I will not grope
Down dark and devious ways.
I will cling close to one bright hope

And, who am I to launch these boasts
Like ships foredoomed to break
Upon the far years' unknown
What pledges dare I make?
Not of myself can I resolve
What I will do or be;
But only as God helps me solve
Each moment's mystery.
